THE STUBBS CASE

In commenting on the case of Judge Stubbs of Winnipeg, who recently was dismissed from office by the Federal Government, the Ottawa Journal says:—

"Judge Stubbs possesses intellectual honesty to a high degree, a fine rugged courage which has little regard for consequences and these are splendid virtues. His judicial faults were those of temperament and were so grave, in the opinion of Mr. Justice Ford, as to constitute misbehaviour in office. There will be suggestions, no doubt, that the Government in the Stubbs case has tempered with the freedom of the Bench interfered with the independence of the judiciary. Such statements, we think, will have little weight with well-informed people nevertheless, it is true today as always it has been true, that there must be no attempt by politicians to intimidate the Bench. Whatever it may have thought at the outset, the Journal does not believe now that any precedent for interference with the freedom of judges has been set in the Stubbs case."

THE HOME PAPER

The Arnprior, Ontario Chronicle has this word to say for the home newspaper:

"Your Town Newspaper Office is one of your industries, and as such it merits your support. The more business you leave with your paper, the more hands it will employ—hands who will spend their wages within the corporation, in rent and taxes and with the business men. It is one industry that does not ask any concessions in the way of fixed assessment or bonus or reduced taxation and unlike other industries has a voice that will speak for you, as well as for itself, and is at all times prepared to further your interests and the interests of your town. All local industries should be patronized in every possible way and most particularly Your Town Newspaper, whose trading area is limited to the country-side surrounding your town and looks to you to help it in every way possible."

Charles H. K. Curtis, one of the world's most successful newspaper and magazine publishers, died yesterday at his home in the suburbs of Philadelphia. His list of publications included the widely circulated Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Journal and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Mr. Curtis, who was eighty three years of age, was born in Maine and was essentially a self-made man. He started his business career on a capital of three cents, and became a multi-millionaire. He was one of the greatest of Americans and his death will be widely mourned.

Dr. George Armstrong who died a short time ago in Montreal, was recognized as one of the most skillful surgeons in America, and had been the recipient of high honors both at home and abroad. In 1922 he received the degree of Majestica Chirurgia from Dublin University and in 1931 was granted an honorary fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons.

The outlook for the lumbering industry in New Brunswick has greatly brightened during the past few months. Stocks have been pretty well cleaned up and there is an optimistic feeling among those engaged in the industry. It is predicted that extensive operations will be carried on in the woods next winter and that there will be very little unemployment.

Wharton Canadian Echo:—One of the hardest hit class of people from the depression are the country church ministers. Mostly all the money which some of them are in receipt of lately, they have had to raise by putting on plays, amateur dramatics in the churches. I know of a number whose circumstances are really pathetic.

An increased volume of tourist travel to New Brunswick from the United States seems to be assured. Business across the line is picking up and many people who have been living under restraint for several years are feeling the need of a vacation. Already local guides have received double the number of applications for reservations at the Hart's Island Salmon pool, than was the case up to this time last year.

Scheme to clap a ten-cent levy on use of New York's East River bridges confirms the impression that every time the taxgatherers look around for a new victim their eye happens to light on a motorist.

New York telephone girl who won $118,500 on the Derby "told reporters she had no immediate matrimonial prospects." But that was before the news leaked out.

WIDER SCALE OF MAPLE INDUSTRY FOR PROVINCE

A provisional organization of producers of maple products in New Brunswick took place last night at Lower Line, Queensbury, York County. It is hoped at a meeting later this year, when all counties of the province will be represented, that a New Brunswick Maple Sugar Producers' Association will be formed. Such a step has been in prospect for some time and last night's was the first definite action.

Provisional officers were elected as follows: Honorary president, Hon. Lewis Smith, minister of agriculture; president, Marvin L. Dunphy, Royal Road, York County; vice-president, George Love, Lower Line; Secretary-Treasurer, O. C. Hicks, city; directors, J. Leonard O'Brien, Nelson; T. Coy Goggin, Elgin; Arthur Clark, Queensbury; Ray Holyoke, Keswick Ridge, and Fredericton Barr of Queensbury.

Hon. Lewis Smith in a letter to the organization commended the organization for their efforts. He hazarded greater production and wider markets as a result.

It was decided to have white bottles of uniform size for maple syrup produced in this province and to have the product graded with those of other provinces. Tilley Bird, of Burt's Corner, acted as secretary last night.

PLANES LAY LIFE LINES IN AUSTRAL TEST

Melbourne, June 7—A new method of communication with wrecked ships has been tried by the Royal Australian Air Force. It is intended for use on the long stretches of the Australian coast far from any life-saving station.

A barge representing a wreck was moored about a mile from shore. An airplane flew out to the "wreck", dropped the weighted end of a line aboard and then circled back to the beach paying out the line as it went. Steps are now being taken to design breeches buoy gear which can be carried by plane.

The new method enables communication to be established over a much longer distance than by rocket or life-line guns.

HIS SISTER DEAD

St. Stephen, June 7—Word has been received here of the death in Winchester, Mass., of Mrs. Charles W. Young, formerly of St. Stephen. She is survived by one daughter and two sons. Hon. W. F. Todd, St. Stephen, a brother, is the last member of the family living. He is leaving tomorrow to attend the funeral.

WASPS IMPORTED TO FIGHT THE MEALY BUG

Salinas, California, June 7—It's not often that man purposely promotes the well-being of members of the wasp family. Such is the case, however in Monterey county.

H. A. Hunt, county, agricultural commissioner, has imported 10,000 wasps and launched them in a death battle with the mealy bug, which has been causing heavy damage to flower vegetables and shrubs. Hunt estimated that the wasps will multiply to 50,000,000 within 80 days. "They're inexpensive soldiers," Hunt explained. "Our whole army cost us $10. They won't bother mankind if you let them alone."
