

KINGS COUNTY OPPOSITION

the Premier. Their fight this time would be a victorious one.

"A Terror to Evil Doers."
E. S. Carter, who had been called by Mr. Sharpe in the closing sentence of his speech "a terror to evil-doers," was given a rousing reception as he responded to the call. He delivered an eloquent speech in which he told of his efforts as Opposition organizer, and of the exposures he had made of government crookedness.

Dr. McAllister, ex-M.P., was called upon and delivered a fighting speech, and Mr. W. E. Foster, of St. John, briefly addressed the convention. An Opposition association for Kings was formed with Mr. S. H. Flewelling as secretary.

SAYVILLE WIRELESS IS OVERTAXED

New York, July 25.—The Western Union Telegraph Co. announced today that wireless communication with Germany by way of Sayville, N. Y., and Tuckerton, N. J., had been suspended until further notice. The order, it is said, is due to the large number of commercial messages which have overtaxed the wireless stations.

WHIMS OF DINERS.

Head Waiter Devises a Unique Card System to Please Patrons.

(New York Review.)

Perhaps you have figured there is nothing left in the way of tricks by which head waiters may lure bills from the bank rolls of unsuspecting diners. Wrong again. At Bustanboy's on 60th street, is a head waiter who has made a study of his profession.

Whenever this servitor has a few minutes to himself, instead of standing around and adding up the tips, he betakes himself to a corner and tries to conjure up new and untried ways to please patrons.

The latest output of this thought-fest is the card index system. It is so simple and sounds so sane, the wonder is it has not been discovered before.

"I have worked out a plan whereby all our regular patrons are indexed," explained the inventor. "After their name I place their likes and dislikes in the way of food and general service. Every man has his own ideas about being served. One likes the waiter at his elbow every minute, anticipating his wishes. Some like a waiter at each elbow, with plenty of bowing and scraping attached. Another never wants to see the waiter. He prefers having his order taken by the head waiter, handed to the waiter and served as quickly and as inconspicuously as possible.

"One man is delighted if you will offer suggestions for his dinner order. He likes to be told what is especially good on the menu. Another is wrathful if you presume to assist him in this monotonous ceremony. All these peculiarities are being noted on the indexes, along with the patron's favorite table, his favorite waiter and his favorite foods. So far it has worked great.

Here you are:

John Jones—a flock of waiters, table under electric fan by palm; likes rare roast beef and broilers, two sugars in coffee; prefers Chateau 1906 extra dry; slip him a second cocktail; keep food hot while fox-trotting. Always carefully exhibit bottle of wine to Jones before removing cork, or he will holler.

Good sport reading your own index. Eh, what!

Be Bright, Well, Strong?
Restore Youthful Looks

When folks begin telling you, "My, how young you look," you don't.

"Will Fight 45 Years." It's a long while for a couple to stand it, but some of 'em do.

Where would we be if we still had that old law requiring one-fifth of the assessment to be raised by a pool tax? A butterfly may dance and dangle in the ballroom, but the wall flower is more apt to beautify the home.

Every once in a while some original person discovers a new way to get drowned on Sunday.

To be christened, vaccinated and married—that is the average man's idea of all life should mean to a woman.
