

A GLANCE AT THE LOCAL NEWS OF FREDERICTON 27 YEARS AGO

(FROM THE DAILY HERALD of Feb. 19, 1907)

CURLING NOTES

In the senior rinks competition last night J. H. Hawthorne defeated R. E. Randolph 16 to 10 and T. L. Fowler defeated Col. Loggie.

CITIZEN'S LEAGUE

A Meeting of the Citizen's League to further consider matters in connection with the approaching civic election is to be held in the Good Templars Hall this evening.

MARRIED IN BOSTON

Miss Emma Agatha Ward, formerly of this city was married at Boston on Sunday, February tenth. The honeymoon will be spent in leading American cities. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Joseph Myshraal of this city.

THE NEW YORK SHOW

Arrangements are about completed for sending a first class exhibit from New Brunswick to the Sportsman's Show which opens at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Friday March 1st. The Saint John and Fredericton tourists association with the guides' association are undertaking it. The guides who will accompany the exhibit are Charles Cremin, and Adam Moore of Scotch Lake and David and Hiram Manderville of Derry and W. Harry Allen of Penniac. Mr. Allen has completed a log cabin ten by twelve feet and it will be taken along as part of the exhibit. It will be the first time New Brunswick has exhibited at a New York sportsmen's show and good results are expected.

GOVERNMENT CAUCUS

The first government caucus of the session was held in the executive council chamber last evening and was well attended. C. J. Osman presided and Ora P. King of Kings acted as secretary. It is understood that legislative matters were discussed and the meeting was most harmonious.

A VETERAN OFFICIAL

John Payne, the popular head messenger at the House of Assembly, on Saturday last completed his forty third year of service in the legislature. Mr. Payne, then a small boy, entered into the duties of page on February 16th, 1864 at the time Sir John C. Allen was speaker and has served the house in one capacity or another ever since, never missing a session. He has served under many of the leading men of the province and has witnessed many political changes.

A LAUDABLE AMBITION

The Daughters of the Empire have a special plan in view to give assistance to Victoria Hospital. It remains with the public to decide whether or not the ambition will be realized. They are to put on a concert at the Opera House on February 27 and Sunday at Forest City Maine the large audience is looked for. The program will be a satisfactory return on the price of admission.

THE DEATH ROLL

J. H. Dickson, K. C., clerk of the executive council received work yesterday of the death at Hopewell Cape, Albert County of an old friend in the person of Samuel Stewart, trade instructor at the Dorchester Penitentiary. Mr. Stewart was a native of Londonderry, Ireland, but had resided in the Province since 1864. He was a great friend and admirer of Hon. H. R. Emerson, the present Minister of Railways. Miss Ellis Dixon one of the brightest students at the provincial Normal School is a grand-daughter.

PERSONAL MENTION

John Anderson, ex-M.P.P. of the Barony is among the visitors to the city today. (Mr. Anderson passed away at his home a few years ago on his one hundredth years.)

Messrs Cyprien Martin and Thomas Clair, M.P.P.'s from Madawaska arrived last evening and are guests at Windsor Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Edgcombe spent the day at Forest City Maine the guests of Mrs. Edgcombe's father C. H. Eaton.

THE LAMBING SEASON WILL SOON BE HERE

(Experimental Station Bulletin)

The Fredericton Experimental Station is checking up on the condition of the breeding ewes this week. The lambs are expected to arrive in about two months and a little attention to the breeding ewes at this time will help to insure a profitable crop of lambs.

Upon examination some ewes may be found to be too thin. At this Station the ewes in poor condition will be separated from the rest of the flock and given a half-pound of grain daily as a supplement to the regulation ration of clover hay and pulped turnips. A grain mixture made up of two parts crushed oats and one part bran is excellent, but would be improved by the addition of one part linseed oil meal. All the ewes will be given about a half-pound of meal daily commencing two or three weeks before lambing. This stimulates the milk flow and insures a good start for the lambs. As lambing season approaches, care will be taken to provide feeds which are slightly laxative, such as good clover hay, wheat bran and oil meal. By taking this precaution, many troubles at lambing time may be avoided.

The Shropshires at the Fredericton Experimental Station have a heavy growth of wool on the face at this time of year and very often have their sight obstructed by the wool. At this Station, the wool is sheared from around the eyes when necessary. This makes for greater comfort for ewes and lessens the danger of their being injured, thus assisting in keeping the flock in a thrifty condition.

The udders of the ewes will also be examined for defects and all loose wool around the udders will be removed to enable the lambs to nurse with ease. This will also reduce the danger of losses through swallowing tags which have a tendency to form balls of wool in the lambs' stomach.

THE BISHOP FELL BACK ON A STRANGE TOPIC

(New York Sun)

Some pretty unorthodox sermons have been delivered from the pulpit of the aristocratic church since its pastor began inviting visiting clergy to say their say. So when the Middle Western Bishop arrived to do his stuff some of the vestrymen decided to soften him up a bit beforehand.

"We wouldn't," they began, "so much as suggest a topic for you, of course. But we would like to point out that some of our visitors have startled some of our more conservative pew holders and...."

"And....." said the Bishop.

"Well," said the vestry spokesman, "if you could find it within your conscience not to discuss the more sensational aspects of sociology, or political economy, or internationalism, or the Soviets, it might be better all around."

The Bishop pondered that one for a moment. No sociology. No political economy. No internationalism.

"And of course," he said, "I suppose child labor, and unionism, and our millions of unemployed are also not preferred as topics for discussion."

The vestry spokesman indicated it might be as well to pass up such.

"I have it," cried the Bishop; "I know what I'll talk on. I know the very subject."

"What?" asked the vestryman guardedly.

"Religion!" said the Bishop. "Nobody can object to that."
