Coldest Night of the Winter in Central N.B.

cold weather as the present, in subjection. Fires were maintained in all the schools over the week-end.

The intense cold was the cause of numerous outbreaks of chimney fires and overheated pipes, caused by renewed fire by the citizens. There was no wind with the cold, but this morning up until nine o'clock there was a misty earth frost as thick as the proverbial "pea soup." There were many frost-bitten ears yesterday and today, though yesterday afternoon was clear and fine and many enjoyed skiing and snowshoeing on the hills back of the city.

Reports from outside places received here today show that at several places it was even colder than here. At Campbellton it was 17 below zero; at Bathurst, 36 below; at Chatham 38 below, and at Newcastle, 39 below.

MAY BE MIS-TRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 21—Dr. Alice Wynekoop suffered another relapse today, giving further weight to the prediction that a mis-trial will be declared when her trial for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, is resumed Monday.

DIARRHOEA SOUL STOMACH GAS CRAMPS

There can be no question as to the supremacy of Nerviline for these disorders; it acts promptly, even twenty drops of Nerviline in sweetened water gives immediate relief.

Too Ill to Leave Home
Restored Quickly by Nerviline

Mr. A. E. Archer of Chelsea, writes: "As a boy I was accustomed to take Nerviline for pains in my stomach but never realized its true value until this summer. I had an attack of diarrhoea and was so bad I couldn't leave the house. I sent for a bottle of Nerviline and took a dose every hour during the morning. It restored me quickly. I use Nerviline now as a preventive of summer complaint and it works satisfactorily. My wife also has derived very special results in stomach trouble from Nerviline which I recommended highly."

CHURCH SERVICES ON SUNDAY ATTRACTED MANY CHURCH-GOERS DESPITE THE FRIGID WEATHER

A regular weekly feature of The Daily Mail, until further notice, will be the presentation of summaries of the Sunday services in the churches of the capital city. The churches represented this week are: St. Paul's United Church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. Anne's Church and Wilnot United Church. A report of the services follows:

Wilnot United Church

Good congregations attended yesterday's services, especially the evening. The Junior Choir sang at the morning service, and the regular church choir were on duty at night. The music throughout the day was inspiring. The Minister, Rev. J. W. Bartlett, was the preacher at both services. The appropriate morning theme was "Winter." This rigorous season has a good record for "Civilization follows the snow belt." Summer is woven out of winter's loom. Emerson writes of "The tumultuous privacy of the storm." We are gypsies in summer, but the cold and storms of winter drive us to our own firesides. It is the season of the Home. We know something of the power of winter—these tiny snowflakes when accumulated can hold up the most powerful means of transit. Little things have immense results. For instance—the Ballot paper which "Falls like snow flakes on the sod, yet executes a freeman's will as vengeance doth the will of God." The winter of the soul may be God's preparation for Summer sunshine. Even death is the womb of Life. Let us all join in the Psalmist prayer "Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow."

Evening Service

The evening theme was "Men, Women and God" a discussion of the 7th Commandment. The preacher exalted the standard of moral purity, and spoke words of solemn warning, especially to the young. He deplored the unwholesome effect of many moving pictures, and quoted someone as saying "the picture was not as bad as the billboard leads us to believe it was." Those who run the industry think we are the kind of people to be baited by a lewd picture. what a compliment. Salacious literature was denounced. The preacher stressed the sacredness of the creative urge, and deplored the idea that this or anything God has made is "Unclean." But Nature inflicts a terrible punishment upon those who transgress the law of purity. There is glorious Hope in Christ, who can purify the springs of life.

St. Paul's United Church

"The wings of the morning," the hauntingly beautiful phrase from the 139th psalm, was the theme at the morning service. Man, said Rev. Geo. Telford, has taken to himself wings, and has soared above the uttermost seas on his errands of business and adventure. In a spiritual and symbolic sense there are wings available for every one with each new morning, wings of new opportunity to lift men above the dullness and sordidness of life lived at too low a level. These wings are compounded of imagination, faith and enthusiasm. Jesus, master of the imagination, did not make his appeal to cold dogmatic reason, but in his teaching strove to give the soul wings that the eternal things might become visible. To see God and His purposes the lifting power of faith was essential to help us rise above the worship of "the pretty God called Humanism which so often implies object idolatries." Faith moreover lifts us above the cloud and drizzle of adverse circumstances to see the sun sparkling in the upper air. And because a lukewarm church or individual has no vital message a buoyant enthusiasm is needed for the things of God. The queer guarantee of wings to lift us to an ample and more satisfying life was in an individual personal religious experience.

The evening subject was the second in a series on human conduct and discussed the problem "Why we do wrong."

St. Andrew's Church

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the pastor, Rev. Dr. Ross, chose for his text I Kings, 19:4 And Elijah Came and Sat Under a Juniper Tree.

Elijah's loss of faith and courage said the preacher, was largely the reaction of nervous strain and physical exhaustion on Mount Carmel where he had so splendidly vindicated the supremacy of Jehovah. Like him many today become spiritually despondent because the physical health gets better. And when a man makes a break he usually falls in the line of his strength as Abraham did and likewise Solomon, John Baptist and Peter. Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. In his discouragement Elijah lost not only his faith but also his great opportunity and office. On the threshold of a great spiritual revival in Israel when Elijah should have been the man of the hour to lead we find him under the juniper tree utterly dismayed. And as a result God recalled the prophet. For even God himself cannot use a discouraged man.

In the evening the pastor's theme was: "Our Belief in Immortality." He chose for his text "Eccles 3:11. 'He hath set eternity in their heart.'" Man's belief in his immortality, he said is as universal as his belief in God. Everywhere in all ages man instinctively has believed that there is an after life upon the human heart. God has indelibly engraven that word "Eternity."

By immortality we mean that after death our life will continue, our personality will survive and in a world that is spiritual, our true selves and spiritual being will persist and we shall live and know and love and serve. Surely a belief so inborn and universal has reality to justify it. Then such belief is finding support from scientific thought and investigation. The scientific pendulum has swung from the material to the spiritual side of life and thinkers today are coming to the conclusion that the world of the spiritual is the world of the real and eternal. Further evidence we find in our belief in the justice and goodness of God. For in this present life righteousness does not find its reward nor does evil get its due. There must be a time and place when and where God's eternal justice and goodness will adjust the balance.

But our belief in immortality is also strengthened by the incompetence of this present life. None of us reach the zenith of our prowess here. Life is too short. And the call by death of the young and the fit and the strong in the midst of life when they seem to be needed most should lead us to believe that after all this brief span of life is but the kindergarten department of our spiritual education and life work. Beyond the vale is our true home where life and thought and action find full scope. And we shall see and understand when the darkness has passed and the shadows have fled away.

"Thou art not idle; in that higher sphere. Thy spirit bends itself to loving tasks."

And strength to perfect what it dreamed of here. Is all the crown and glory that asks."

The Parish Church

At the Parish Church yesterday morning Archdeacon A. F. Bate took as his text St. Matt. 13:52 "A man bringeth out of his treasure, things new and old."

Recently the Christian world has been thrilled by the sale of an old M.S. Bible by Soviet Russia to the British nation for $500,000. This valuable book was found by the famous German scholar Dr. Constantin Tischendorf about the middle of the last century in St. Catherine's Monastery on Mount Sinai. It was named from the place where it was found, "Iodex Sinaiticus," and as the monastery belonged to the Greek Orthodox church it was handed over to the patron of that church, the Czar of Russia. And it reposed in the Imperial Library at Petrograd until very recently. Sir Frederick Kenyon, formerly director of the British Museum describes the Sinaitic M.S.S. as one of the greatest books in the world, it being one of the two oldest M.S.S. of the Greek Bible in existence. It is a magnificent volume with 345½ leaves of fine parchment, each leaf measuring 15 in. by 13½ inches. It was written in 331 A.D. under the supervision of Eusebius, Bishop of Caesarea by order of the Emperor Constantine. It contains the "Epistle of Barnabas" and the "Shepherd of Hermas," books which later the church did not admit to the tenor of Holy Scripture.

The purchase of this 1600 year old Bible by a Christian nation for half a million dollars should prove the sincerity of our religious connections to the pagan world. Moreover it held up to Russian Communism our utmost belief in Jesus. Then it should inspire us to study more earnestly the ancient treasure trove of God's Book, and in that study develop new strength and new power to fight the battles of life and finally to win our way to the throne of God.

In the evening the Archdeacon's text was I Cor. 14:41. "One star differeth from another star in glory." Reference was made to the fact that Thursday Jan. 25th was the anniversary of the conversion of St. Paul from Judaism to Christianity. The preacher described St. Paul as being one of the brightest stars in all history. He divided St. Paul's life into six periods and mentioned briefly some of the detailed events in each:

1. St. Paul's youth and early training.
 2. Saul—the Lealot, the period of persecution.
 3. The remarkable conversion on the Damascus Road.
 4. St. Paul—the Missionary.
 5. St. Paul the Author and
 6. St. Paul the Prisoner.
- The influence of this great apostle has persisted through the ages and is still felt strongly in religious units. St. Paul is like the north star, steady and dependable and we may set the compass of our life by him for he will lead to Christ.

SENSATION IN NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 21—Unconfirmed rumors caused a sensation here tonight when it was reported the arrest of a government minister was pending completion of secret inquiries into the theft of $60,000 worth of postage stamps, about half of the dominion's prized collection. Further startling developments could be expected, officials of the department of justice admitted, but the deputy minister said he could give no information for publication before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

DUNCANNON HAD RATHER A CLOSE CALL

London, Jan. 21—Lord Duncannon, heir of Earl Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, today narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident in Huntingdonshire. One of his companions was injured fatally.

The accident happened when Lord Duncannon's car apparently went into a skid on a sharp curve, turned several somersaults and threw the occupants out on the road. Lord Duncannon and Lord Manderville were driving a party of friends in two cars from the Manderville country estate near Brampton Park to visit Kimbolton Castle. Lord Duncannon was driving behind Lord Manderville.
