The Budget Debate Will Start Today in House of Commons

Hon. J. L. Ralston, Liberal Financial Critic Will Have His Inning—The Debate Likely To Be a Spirited One and May Last Several Weeks—Gold Tax May Be Modified.

OTTAWA, April 23—Parliament will today enter upon what gives promise of being one of the busiest weeks of the present session. This afternoon Hon. James Layton Ralston, former Minister of National Defence, will reply to the budget speech delivered on Wednesday last by his fellow townsman and former schoolmate, Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. It is scarcely likely that he will temper his criticism to the shorn lamb. The debate gives promise of being a spirited one and may last at least a fornight.

Representatives of gold mining interests have interviewed Hon. Mr. Gordon, Minister of Mines, and it is expected that there will be some modification of the ten per cent tax on gold announced by the Minister of Finance in his budget.

The marketing bill, now before Parliament, is likely to provide a topic for considerable animated discussion. It was vigorously assailed by Hon. Mackenzie King and other Liberal members last week, on the ground that it proposed to delegate too much power to poards, but the principle of the bill appears to be fairly acceptable to all parties. No doubt some amendments will be submitted during the discussion. The bill may be referred to the committee on agriculture or some other committee, as has been suggested.

Judging by the amount of important measures yet to be dealt with, as recently outlined by Premier Bennett, there is little chance of the House closing before July.

STREAM DRIVER IS ON THE MISSING LIST UPRIVER

PLASTER ROCK, April 22—Missing since Friday morning, Wm. Price, age 30, a Plaster Rock stream-driver, is believed to have drowned in tumbling into the swift waters of Gulquac Stream, a tributary of the Tobique River, near Fraser Companies, Ltd., lumber camp 1 miles from Plaster Rock.

Price, who is married and has two small children, left his home in Plaster Rock Wednesday morning for the camp, on foot. When he arrived there Wednesday evening he found that the other members of the crew had not reached the spot, although Derwood Taylor was at the camp taking care of supplies for the stream drivers. Taylor said Price stayed at the camp on Wednesday and Thursday nights and left for a walk on Friday morning.

When Karl Linton, in charge of the stream-driving operations and his crew arrived at the camp Friday night they were told of Price's failure to return. Yesterday they started to search for him. They found his tracks, leading downstream for about one-quarter of a mile, crossing the stream, going into the woods for about 300 yards and then returning to the stream's bank.

If only the anesthetic would last till the surgeon presents his bill.

PECULIAR CASE OF JEWISH LAD IN MONTREAL

Nine-Year-Oold Boy Is An Object of Woner To Science

BECOMING OSSIFIED

The Tissues of the Boy's Body Are Gradually Hardening

Montreal, April 23—A nine-year-old Jewish lad is today an object of wonder to Montreal's medical authorities.

The tissues of the child's body are gradually hardening with rock-like firmness. His body is stiffening, his muscles turning to a substance similar to stone.

Through it all, despite the fact that he is suffering one of science's unsolved mysteries "myositis ossificans progressivia" the boy still is able to walk a little and can attend school.

Doctors gathered in the clinic of the Children's Memorial Hospital last night for a medical meeting and their attention was directed towards the child.

Doctor's Puzzled

His back and left arm are rigid. The physicians felt the muscles of the little body and conversed in low tones of the hows, why, wheres and whens. To many the case was strange, it was freakish. Yet all had known of the disease and all were aware that in the United States medical authorities are now puzzling over several cases of the same nature with, apparently, the same conclusion, death.

For the past seven years the child has been a victom of ossification and for some time has been attending the School for Crippled Children.

He is very bright and inteiligent and, apparently, little worried about what he is suffering from. He has shown good progress at school.

Still able to walk, he does so without a great amount of difficulty. Two small bones protrude from his back. The small bones protrude from his back. The boy can move his fingers and, so far his jaw muscles have not been affected.

The Doors of All Nations Closed To Leon Trotzky

Former Soviet Leader May End His Life In Exile; Now Being Closely Guarded In France by Gendarmes—May Be Compelled To Return To Prinkipo Island.

BARBIZON, France, April 23—Weary gendarmes doubled their guard around Leon Trotzky's villa today, hoping their vigil over the exiled Russian is near an end. The police went through Trotzky's baggage last night and notified him he must leave France as soon as possible. The exile, rejected by other nations, apparently was reconciled to returned to Prinkipo Island as soon as he obtains the necessary Turkish visa.

An unemployed Russian added to the confusion around the cottage last night by shouting that he intends to "pull out Trotzky's whiskers." He was chased away by the gendarmes, who earlier had been troubled by crowds of curiosity seekers, by boys who fired a gun in the neighborhood and by a mob which serenaded the exile with "the Volga Boat Song." The guard was increased to put an end to such incidents.

PRAYERS FOR THOSE IN PERIL NEAR THE RIVER

THE TRADE OF CANADA HAD A GOOD INCREASE

The Aggregate Was Upwards of Over a Million Dollars the Last Fiscal Year.

Ottawa, Ont., April 22—The total trade of Canada during the fiscal year 1933-'34 which ended March 31, aggregated $1,019,455,000 compared with $887,097,000 in the fiscal year, 1932-33, the department of trade and commerce announced tonight. This was an increase of $132,358,000 or almost 15 per cent.

The value of the export of gold bullion is not included in the statement and it is probable when the increased export price of gold during the past year compared with the mint par value of $20.67 of previous years is added, the total trade of the Dominion for 1933-34 will also exceed the aggregate of $1,166,100,000 in 1931-32.

In Recent Months

"This gratifying increase in the trade of Canada has veen very marked in recent months", said Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, in commenting upon the statement. "It will be remembered that in April, May and June last, the first thre months of the present fiscal year, trade was considered below that of the same period of a year ago.

"In April it was down 29 per cent, May eight per cent and in June three per cent. Exports were down 26 per cent in April, but had made increases in May and June. Imports continued to decline until August. In march our exports were up 57 percent and our imports 44 per cent, the aggregate trade for the month increasing by exactly 51 per cent, a truly remarkable showing.

"It is noteworthy", said Mr. Stevens "that the rapidity of the growth of our trade in recent months has been greater than was anticipated, and that the estimates made of the expected total from time to time during the past year have all been considerably under the actual result".
