IN ENGLAND

PERCY FAITH

Who is on a visit trip to England. Roland Todd, well known organist and pianist will direct the Triads during his absence.

CRBC String Quartet

The seven last words of Christ uttered from the Cross, which were first transcribed to music for a sacred cantata, inspired Haydn to write seven quartets which are numbered among the most beautiful of the eighty-three which comprised the quartet writing of the great composer. The first two quartets of this sacred group will be performed by the CRBC String Quartet on their Commission program, which will be presented from Toronto tonight at 9:15 P. M., over the National network.

Each of the seven pronouncements has been made the theme of a Haydn quartet, and the first two or three "words", which have such import for the Christian world, Cecil Figelski and the other members of the String Quartet will perform. On the occasion of their next Quartet program for the Commission, they will present the third and fourth parts of this world famous series.

At Universal City

Warren William has been chosen leading man for Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life", the Fannie Hurst novel, Alma Tell, Wyndham Standing, Franklin Panghorn, Noel Francis and Henry Kolker are also in the cast. Mr. Williams also play Caesar to Miss Colbert's Cleopatra in Cecil de Mille's "Cleopatra", which opens tonight in New York City with a big premiere. Henry Wilcoxon plays Marc Antony in this one.

WHAT! NO KISSES IN JAPAN?

WELL, IT'S AGE OF TRANSITION

Tokyo.—What American life—to betime blossom into happy married life." But the marriage institution also is undergoing a change in Japan. Embraces and caresses by radical youth sometimes end in marriages without the consent of parents. Such instances however, are rare.

Metric System Falls Flat

Along with love and marriage, measuring sticks and advertising posters are undergoing radical changes in Japan.

Some time ago the government officially adopted the metric system. But the Japanese people still go on measuring the old way, the carpenter sticking to his antiquated "kanejaku" rule, his wife to the even order and less accurate "kujirajaku" measure and those affected by the Anglo-Saxon civilization, which still has a strong grip on Japan, adhering to the English yardstick.

Radio announcers informing Japanese housewives of big bargain sales on cloth or bamboo poles must state the measurements in a half dozen systems.

As for posters, the traditional way of writing in Japan is from top to bottom, starting from the right hand corner. Neon signs, which are much in vogue in Japan and with which many a department store or theater building is decorated from basement to roof, are responsible for horizontal writing across the cornices and between the floors of these buildings.

Reading Slogans Backwards

Furthermore Japanese advertisers like to give their products trick names which read the same forward and backward. From the Neon sign this confusion in writing systems has been carried over to the advertising posters and to the newspaper ad.

The trade names frequently mean nothing in Japanese and sound as well one way or the other. As long as the Japanese merchant sticks to a trade name of three syllables, with the first and last the same, all is well. But trouble is bound to come, and frequently comes, when an article is named "Maru-no-u-chi-bi-ru-den-gu" and has been read backward by a customer who happens to be in a hurry to catch a train.

Everything considered, what Mother Eve told Adam when they were chased out of the Garden of Eden holds as true of Japan as of Soviet Russia and the rest of the world.

"My dear," Eve is said to have whispered, "we are living in an age of transition."

CHILD STAR
WANTS $2,500

Hollywood, Aug. 23—Five-year old Shirley Temple, movie star, will refuse to go to work the next time the Fox studio calls her unless, her father said, her salary is increased to $2,500 weekly.

Shirley, who was "discovered" in two-reel comedies by the Fox Company, was signed less than a year ago for $150 a week.

The studio told Shirley's father, George F. Temple, it would pay $1,000 a week. Temple, a branch bank manager, said he would make no decision until he consulted his attorney.

Little Shirley played in her Santa Monica backyard with her older brothers, unimpressed of the big money battle she is causing.

27 YEARS AGO

From the Files of the Daily Herald

Pleasant Function

The dance at the Bicycle and Boat Club House last evening attracted a large crowd of young people, and proved very enjoyable. Dancing was kept up until a late hour to music furnished by Hanlon's Orchestra. The chaperones were Mrs. A. R. Wetmore and Mrs. W. H. Steeves.

U. N. B.

Lectures will begin at the University of New Brunswick on Monday September 30th. Chancellor Jones says he expects at least forty new students.

Personal Mention

Miss Cooper is visiting friends in Rothesay.

Bishop Richardson has returned from a confirmation tour.

Mr. H. G. Chestnut left for Toronto last evening to attend the exhibition.

Mr. Wilmet Lemont leaves for Montreal this evening enroute to Chicago.

Mrs. Wesley VanWart and her children returned last night from a vacation trip to Florenceville.

Mr. Frank Shute, assistant manager of the Royal Bank at Havana, arrived on the late train last night and is the guest of his brother, Mr. A. A. Shute.

Miss Lillian Burt of York Street School staff, has returned from a trip to Campbellton.

We are not surprised, Starbeams in the Kansas City Star says: "A young man borrowed a book on psychology from a library the other day and when he was about half way through it, had to begin cutting pages. Wondering if anybody else had had the book out, he turned to the fly-leaf and found that seventeen persons had made an attempt to read it."
