Canned Blood in Russia

Moscow, U. S. S. R., July 20—Canned blood, obtained from accident victims and preserved with a small quantity of magnesium sulphate, has been in use for blood transfusions in Leningrad hospitals for many months. Dr. Clean Hirsch of New York, former chemical adviser to the Government, revealed today.

PRIME MINISTER RAMSAY MACDONALD WAS CORDIALLY WELCOMED AT DIGBY, N.S.

Digby, N. S., July 20—An ocean watchful Inspector, Arthur Allum of Scotland Yard, were expected to make comparatively long stops in Cape Breton Island and in Pictou County where the Scottish section of Nova Scotia's population is concentrated.

It is considered likely also they will pay a visit to Newfoundland at the end of their stay in this province, embarking from Saint John's for England. In this event, a Canadian government vessel will be placed at the prime minister's disposal.

Mr. MacDonald said today he looked forward to a "delightful" visit. What he saw of Nova Scotia in his first few hours he found "charming". Though the trip across the bay had been foggy, a bright sun was shining as the party reached Nova Scotia soil, and weather prospects for the next few days were fine.

Inspector Arthur Allum, the Scotland Yard official accompanying the prime minister, is going to make good use of his time in Nova Scotia. Deeply interested in the province's colorful past, he is collecting a library of books dealing with Nova Scotia's history.

Today, on arriving here, he met Premier Angus L. MacDonald, of Nova Scotia and the Premier promised to help him add to his collection to the six weeks or more he will spend in this country with the British prime minister.

Premier MacDonald assured the inspector besides that he would put him in touch with a number of old residents able to supply him with much of the province's unwritten history.

And Mr. MacDonald himself plans to follow the precept. For the next two months he and his daughter will be wandering through the Maritimes, stopping wherever fancy dictates. It will be the prime minister's first real holiday in years, and he plans to divorce himself entirely from official duties during his stay in Canada.

Simple Reception

In keeping with this attitude, his reception here this morning was extremely simple. Without formality Hon. Angus L. MacDonald, premier of the province, went aboard the steamship Princess Helene to greet the visitors. After chatting briefly, they walked up the wharf together through lines of cheering townfolk. Then the British prime minister and his daughter retired to their cottage on a hill overlooking Annapolis Basin.

He had little to say to the newspapermen who met the party at the boat. Questions as to political matters he turned aside deftly. All but one. He replied with an emphatic "not at all", when queried as to whether the announcement of expansion in Great Britain's air force foreshadowed her entry into the European armament race.

With Nova Scotia's premier he was more talkative. They found common ground for conversation in the subject of Scotland and the Scottish people of Nova Scotia. And from the same topic they both drew a laugh at the expense of the visiting prime minister.

Wrong Language

As one Scot to another, Premier MacDonald had been prepared to exchange pleasantries in the Gaelic language with the distinguished visitor. But the provincial premier, who learned fluent Gaelic around his Cape Breton birthplace, found the overseas statesman could not speak the mother tongue of his native Scotland.

The British prime minister ordered to take a complete rest, arrived in Canada yesterday at Quebec. He has no definite itinerary, and about all he knows of his trip now is that he must be back at his desk in No. 10 Downing Street by September 20th.

"I shall spend my time as the spirit moves and as the opportunity allow", he said today.

"I'm down here for a rest, and I am going to do the things one does under such pleasant circumstances". He had chosen the Maritimes, he said, because of his interest in this section of Canada and with a thought of their Scottish Association.

BASEBALL, SOFTBALL AND CROQUET

Playgrounds Program Continues To Attract Interest of Younger Ones by its Novelty.

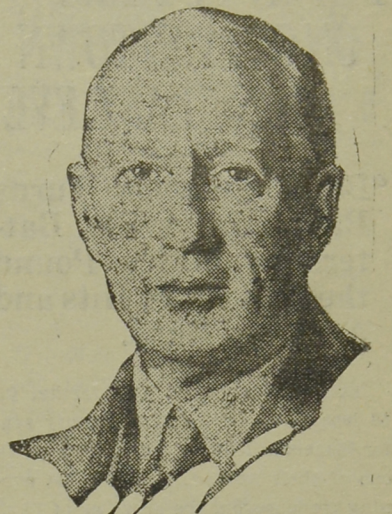

Featuring this week's activities at the city playgrounds was the opening of the Juvenile Baseball League in which Queen's Square defeated Devon, 8 to 2. In addition to these two teams, Marysville and Wilmot Park are also entered and are competing for a fine trophy donated by Carl Walker. A good brand of baseball is being played by these boys, all of whom must be under 17, and in a few years many of these fellows will be playing senior ball.

Cups To Be Given To Winners

Bill Clarke, by virtue of a double victory in the Track and Field meet this week took the lead in the point competition for boys at Queen's Square and now leads a large field with 25 points; Bud Larlee with 21 points is second. Clarke won both the 100 yard dash and the high jump to score 10 points. Bertie Chase is leading the girls at the Square with 30 points, but Freda Jones, daughter of the chief of police, has made a large gain this week by winning the quoit tournament for girls to boost her total to 25. The point competition will be concluded at the end of this month when silver cups will be presented to the winners at a camp fire, which the boys and girls from both playgrounds will rally for an evening of fun together.

Croquet Tournament

A croquet tournament for girls, a noble event in itself, attracted a large number of entries at Wilmot Park. This game has proved to very popular and in the final the skull displayed by the competitors was surprising. Vivian King and Bertha Goodine paired together to defeat Marilyn Levine and Jean Forbes in this event. The boys horseshoe tournament was won by Dowal Munroe and Len Wade in the Senior and Junior classes respectively.

SIR CHARLES GORDON

Who is Visitor To The City
Today.

History really is bunk. No irate parent of old ever wasted time by taking Junior to the woodshed.

Dancing may be a little more fun, but holding an aisle seat has the same effect on your feet.

Softball Popular

Softball leagues, are as popular as ever and this week 26 games were played. Swimming classes were cut by a few days of cold weather, but a class of 40 girls greeted the instructor at the beach on Monday and 91 took lessons during the week a few of whom can already pass their first test that of swimming the crawl stroke for 20 yards. In addition to the above activities boxing, gymnastics, volleyball, basketball, story reading and group games also served to attract many children. A surprising group of little kiddies all under eight years of age take part in group games at Queen's Square. When this group was started less than ten played, but group has grown until now 30 tiny boys and girls take part in appropriate games every morning.

Sale Postponed

The Sale of the Alexander Goodine property, of the Parish of Kingsclear, N. B., is postponed until SATURDAY, AUGUST 18th at 12 o'clock noon.
