

NEWS BRIEFS

NOT MUCH CHANGE

The condition of John Jewett, who is seriously ill at his home in King Street with heart trouble was reported unchanged this afternoon.

OVERHEATED PIPE

A still alarm was sent in from the home of the Misses Everett, Charlotte Street at about ten o'clock this morning. An overheated pipe was the cause of concern but no damage resulted.

THE FIRST MEETING

J. D. Palmer left yesterday for Amherst to attend the organization meeting of the recently appointed Maritime Commission on Transportation of which he is a member.

SOMEWHAT BETTER

Mr. Hugh O'Neill, Sr., who suffered a paralytic stroke a few days ago, passed a fairly comfortable night. His condition is somewhat improved, but is still serious.

STILL ALARM

Firemen were called to the residence of Fred Crawford, 336 Church Street last night where a small chimney fire was in progress. It was easily handled by the department, and no damage resulted.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

James Hawkins, of Millville, arrested on a charge of assault with grievous bodily harm in the Parish of Southampton is lodged in the city police station. Information was laid by James Hill. The accused will appear before Police Magistrate Limerick in the near future.

CHILDREN'S AID MET

The monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held in the city hall yesterday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. W. C. Kierstead, presiding. Several cases were reported to the Society. The Board of School Trustees reported three cases of truancy for the Society to handle. Miss Jean Cooper, agent, presented her monthly report.

CONVALESCING

Mrs. Payne, wife of Mr. J. Fred Payne, clerk assistant at the Legislature Assembly, who has been in the Victoria Public Hospital suffering from a fractured arm sustained in a fall on Sunday last was able to leave the hospital yesterday. It will be some time, however, before her arm again returns to normal.

"HIS UNCLE'S NIECE"

Students of the Provincial Normal School successfully presented "His Uncle's Niece" at their auditorium last evening. The individual players carried off their parts in an excellent and pleasing manner and performed before a large audience. The proceeds will be devoted to the furtherance of P.N.S. athletic activities.

BURIED THIS AFTERNOON

The remains of the late G. Linden Fenety, who died at Vancouver on February 26th, arrived here this morning. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Christ Church Cathedral, the services being conducted by Very Rev. Dean Holmes. Interment was made at Forest Hill Cemetery. Pall bearers were Messrs. W. B. Lemon, T. W. Rainsford, A. A. Shute, H. E. Harrison, W. H. Robinson, and D. F. Cameron. Mourners were Messrs. W. W. O. Fenety, W. W. Ols, Arthur Charters, Jack Fenety, Pearson Fenety, Fred Colter, Royden Colter, A. O. I. Crookshank, John Black and Dr. T. G. Roberts.

RIVER RISES TWO INCHES

Spring weather accompanied as it is by occasional rain is not causing unnatural flood conditions in this city. During the last 24 hours the St. John river has only risen two inches as a result of the thaw. Mains in the city are pretty well opened up and can easily handle the surface water coming at the present rate. The cooler weather at night has kept down an overabundance of water. Rutted streets have caused considerable annoyance although in a measure unavoidable. His Honour the Lieut. Gov., on his way to fulfil an engagement, was delayed when his car in negotiating a rut broke a spring. His Honour, however, was philosophical regarding the occurrence and casually proceeded on his way in another car.

INSECTS and DISEASE

Great Advances Made In the Control of Epidemics

The regular weekly address of the series of public lectures sponsored by the U. N. B. Scientific Society, was delivered last night by R. E. Balch of the Federal Entomological Service. His lecture was highly interesting illustrated by slides and at the conclusion two moving pictures were shown illustrating the course of characteristic diseases in which insects place a major role.

In all the history of medical research no man has made so great a contribution as Pasteur. His demonstration of the relation between microorganisms and disease revolutionized the practice of medicine and surgery. It also stimulated research and was followed by a number of further important discoveries. Of these, perhaps the most productive in the matter of prevention of infectious diseases were the discoveries relating to insect-borne diseases.

Sir Patrick Manson was the first to demonstrate that certain parasites of humans spent part of their life history within insects and could only be transmitted by the bite of the insect concerned. Since then the work of such men as Theobald Smith, Sir Ronald Ross, Sir David Bruce, Grassi, Reed and others has shown that some of the chief scourges of mankind, such as malaria yellow fever, sleeping sickness, and plague are carried to man only by insects and ticks. Though these discoveries, considerable advance has been made in the control of epidemics and in the eradication of certain diseases from considerable areas.

The pathogenic organisms often have many forms, some being sexual, and their life history is sometimes very complicated. A number of them are protozoa. Some of these diseases transmitted by insects are caused by a virus, the organism of which, if it exists, has not yet been seen.

Since 190, twenty one investigators of these diseases have died from the disease they were studying as a result of the experiments they were making.

One of the difficulties in attempting to eradicate these diseases is that they are sometimes carried by wild animals, which form a reservoir of infection. It was thought once that Yellow Fever was confined to America and eradication was in sight by control of the mosquito and screening of patients so that the organism would not be able to complete its life history. Recently, however, it has been found that Yellow Fever exists in Africa and is endemic among monkeys. Modern rapid transportation has increased the danger of spread from such areas.

Very Rev. Dean Holmes Gave a Masterly Discourse

GOVT. IS SOLID

Men's Club of Cathedral Present Lively Mock Session

The Parliament of the Kingdom of Ruggagornis met for its third session last evening in the Cathedral Memorial Hall. The members of the House veterans of the political and diplomatic realm have seriously settled down to the affairs of state and without undue delay proceeded with the affairs of the Kingdom. The Chaplain of the House, Very Rev. Dean Holmes in his maiden speech gave a masterly discourse in support of the bill entitled "An Act to Further the Dissemination of Religious Knowledge". A thorough knowledge of the subject was evidenced and the attention of the whole House and the large gallery of spectators was easily held.

The triumph of the present government is now practically complete the opposition having been unable to lay hold of any incriminating evidence or action which would reflect unfavorably upon the people's choice. To date the members of the government have been able to double any wit of wisdom advanced by members of the opposition. Able exponents of the government's program last evening were the Hon. Dr. Warwick, minister of education and health and the Hon. Mr. W. W. Hubbard, minister of agriculture, who in keeping with the high standard of excellence maintained by the government gave, clever, complete and well considered replies to inquiries received by the administration.

On motion the House resolved itself

Every Day Hats Wear Out

Every-Day Hats go out of style. Every Day thoughtful wives remark to their thoughtless husbands "Don't you think dear, that your hat is beginning to look awfully shabby?" Every day hats get perspiration-smudged; hats cease to be a decoration to a man's head and become a desecration to his appearance.
