DR. WHITE OF SAINT JOHN DELIVERED AN ABLE SPEECH IN HOUSE TUESDAY

Still, as his hon. colleague (Tweedie) had said, the Hon. Premier might be looking over the sea for that ship that two of his predecessors had boarded so successfully to reach the honourable positions they occupied today.

Northumberland's Plight

Much had been heard during the Session about the difficult position in which Northumberland County found itself and while he wished to say a word in defence of the plight in which his county found itself, he wished also to protest against the insinuation made in a sarcastic way by an hon. Member from the County of Carleton. That hon. Member had attributed Northumberland's plight to bad administration on the part of the municipality and corporation. It was kind of him to offer to arrange Northumberland's affairs, but he would tell the hon. Member that there was now and always had been just as good business men in the County of Northumberland as his own county could boast of. He would say further, that if Northumberland County had not been strangled by a Conservative government, supported by his hon. friend, it would be in a better position today. Considering the treatment that Northumberland had received in regard to the Crown Lands, the closing of sawmills and broken promises with regard to pulp mills, it was no wonder that it was clamouring for special privileges. Members of the government and others might think Northumberland was complaining too much, but if the county was located in the south, close to the Cabinet, it would probably have a better chance of getting its share of remuneration. He had no hesitation in saying that Northumberland had contributed more to the revenue than any other county. Since 1914 the sum of fourteen million dollars had been collected from the Crown Lands and he was safe in saying that four million dollars of that sum had been contributed by Northumberland County. Formerly the Crown Lands in his county had been held by sixteen licensees who operated mills, but since 1926 the whole area was controlled by two companies and a small operator was now so handicapped that he must apply to outside counties for lumber land in order to operate at all.

Is Tied Up

He had no hesitation in saying that the timber lands of Northumberland, which was now tied up, should either be released or the companies controlling it compelled to cut more lumber. It was unfair to the people and unfair to the small operators to be treated in such a way. He appreciated the words of the hon. Premier that the government was ready to do whatever was possible for the County of Northumberland. If the government was a government of action as claimed, he hoped it would grant special consideration to Northumberland; but the people had not been able to recognize it as a government of action as it had failed to carry out its promises.

False Prophets

He was inclined to the opinion that there were altogether too many false prophets at the present time. The government did not seem to want to take too much responsibility on important questions that concerned the people. There had been conferences in Ottawa, Halifax, and even in Europe which had cost the Province millions of dollars and no results. Investigations of road work had cost a large sum and when it had been proven that thousands of dollars had been stolen the public treasury had not been reimbursed. An answer to an enquiry stated that the matter was still under consideration, which made it clear that the administration was not a government of action.

Commission Probes

There had also been a commission appointed to investigate relief distribution or administration. It cost a large sum of money, but no action had been taken. There had been promises of pulp mills on the Miramichi, Old Age Pensions and hard surfaced roads, but no action had been taken to fulfil those promises. Another commission had been appointed to make a survey and report on the educational system of the Province. That commission had submitted a unanimous report, which report had been before the government for two or three years, but nothing had been done and the people were at a loss to know the intentions of the government. If the report of the Commission was unanimous it must have been in the public interest and it certainly was a time when matters pertaining to education should be looked into. The government appeared to take more interest in preserving the wild animals, spending large sums of money to advertise our forests and fur-bearing animals, but he held that more attention should be given to the education of future generations. It was certainly up to the government to prove that it was a government of action.

Hydro Extension

He wished, for a moment, to refer to a subject mentioned by his colleague (Gill) and which seemed to be becoming an old story. He had reference to the extension of the Hydro Electric System in Northumberland County. There was a time when they thought they had it, but it had faded away like the rest to remain a thing of the past. Really, hydro seemed to have run into a streak of bad luck so far as Northumberland was concerned. It seemed utterly impossible to get anything calculated to stimulate business and industry in that particular corner of the Province. He would call the attention of the Hydro Commission that the County of Northumberland was still without electricity—still in the dark looking for the light—and he hoped that the Commission would show action as a subsidiary of a supposed government of action. He had endeavored to make clear the urgent needs of his County and he hoped, with the assistance of the hon. Premier, that Northumberland would, in the near future, regain a share of the prosperity it so well deserved.

MR. GROOM moved the adjournment of the debate and Supply was made the order of the day for tomorrow.

HON. MR. HARRISON moved that bills respecting the devolution of estates, respecting the duties upon property passing and upon property passing on death and an Act to amend the Probate Courts Act be referred to the Law Committee.

HON. MR. STEWART asked leave of absence for Mr. Diotte until Tuesday.

MR. GROOM asked leave of absence for Hon. Dr. Taylor and Hon. Mr. Cockburn on account of illness. The House adjourned at 9:35 p.m.

House Deals With Important Legislation

gerville. The opposition melted when informed of the government's master stroke and it is hoped the opposition will soon be in full accord with the present administration. The commission without fear or favor boldly attacked the problem. Comprised of experts the Commission led by Hon. R. P. Gorham, Minister of Lands and Mines, expeditiously had the matter in hand and submitted their report last evening. In the course of the report Hon. R. P. Gorham sketched conditions and outlined how well directed community effort might greatly minimize the scourge of these pests. Opinion was current on the floor of the House that such an able report is worthy of the serious attention and consideration of other and greater realms.

Many ladies were present in the galleries attended by their gentlemen escorts who found the session interesting and instructive.

And so the Cathedral Men's Club adjourned after an enjoyable evening leaving the affairs of the Kingdom of Russiagornis up to date.

Williamsport, Pennsylvania, Feb. 28—A tire went flat on Edwin J. Good's automobile during the wee, sma' hours.

While he was inflating the tire his lights went out.

As he cranked the car the engine "kicked" and almost bowled him over.

When he closed the door the glass broke.

Finally on the way again, a wheel blithely rolled off into a vacant lot. Good called a taxicab.

EDMUNDSTON WON OPENER FROM CUBS

The old idea that a travelling team should be weakened and tired went all "floey" here last night as the Edmundston All-Stars defeated the local Cubs at the Arctic Rink 5 to 3 and as a result have a two-goal lead when the two teams meet again tonight on Edmundston ice in the second of the home and home games in the New Brunswick Intermediate hockey finals.

The Edmundston club did not arrive here until eleven o'clock last evening, the game starting shortly after, and lasting until one o'clock this morning. Despite the lateness of the hour a large throng of fans were on hand to witness the struggle. The delay was caused by storm damage to the railway lines, the All-Stars being routed here via McAdam Junction.

Presumably tired from the long twelve-hour trip the Edmundston All-Stars looked just the reverse as they started the game and led the first period, 2 to 1. They actually outskated, outpassed and out-generalled the local Cubs all the way. Hickson's miraculous stops were a feature of the contest, apart from the sensational skating and stickhandling of Washbroad, Dickie and Gagne for the All-Stars.

The Edmundston club led in the second period, 3 to 1, and took an early lead again in the third period. Washbroad sent the All-Stars into a 4 to 1 lead after one minute of the third period. Steen and McLenahan scored to bring the count up to 4 to 2, and Langlais's beautiful dash down the ice with only Hickson to beat was one of the bright spots of the game.

For Fredericton, Mills and Keenan, forward and Thompson on defence were outstanding. But generally the Cubs were outpaced throughout. The Cubs' chief offensive claim was in the third period when they attacked the All-Stars with a vengeance and kept the disc in the opposing zone, coming dangerous near tying the count many times.

COURT'S DECISION

Chicago, Feb. 27—A vigorous drive against criminals was halted here yesterday by a Supreme Court decision that the selection of grand juries has been illegal. It was pointed out that instead of summoning a panel of twenty three, as the law requires, one of sixty had been summoned, Governor Horner will call a special session of the State Legislature to straighten out the difficulty. Over six hundred criminals may be affected by the court's decision.

THE LATEST DIVORCE TALE

Camden, New Jersey, Feb. 28—It was a suit for divorce and the attorney for the defendant was cross-examining the plaintiff, Robert E. Neeld.

"Didn't you kick your wide out 'No, but she kicked me out lots of reply."

Ms. Neeld testified it was the other way around. The court will listen further.
