The state dinner given by the Lt. Governor at the Queen Hotel last evening passed off very successfully. An excellent repast was served in a manner that reflected great credit for Landlord McCaffrey and his staff and they came in for many well deserved compliments. Covers were laid for 32.

Band Concert

The concert at the Opera House last evening under the auspices of the Fredericton Brass Band attracted a large audience and was a great success. The vocal soloists were Mrs. Wetmore and Cecil Holder of Saint John, who acquitted themselves well. Other features of the program were Violin solos by Captain Du Domaine; Readings by W. A. Walsh; and a cornet solo by J. A. Perkins. The absence through illness of Fredericton's popular comedian W. A. Adams was deeply regretted.

The Death Roll

The death occurred at 10.30 o'clock this morning at his home in George Street after a brief illness of Odbur White, city tax collector. He was a son of Michael White of Nashwaak Village and a native of Marysville. For over twenty years he was in the employ of the Canada Eastern Railway, first at Boiestown, and later in this city. In March last he was elected alderman for King's Ward but retired to become city tax collector. He was 57 years of age and leaves a widow and family of two sons, Kenneth and Otley of New Jersey and two daughters. Mrs. G. H. Maxon of Worcester and Miss Ada White, at home.

Officers Chosen

The meeting of the New Brunswick Fruit Growers Association was brought to a close last evening. It was very successful in every respect and will have a beneficial effect. Officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: John C. Gilman, President; I. W. Stephenson, vice President; Henry Wilmut, Treasurer; D. A. Peters, secretary.

Montreal, Feb. 14—Professor Stephen Leacock, director of the department of economics and political science at McGill University, made cryptic comment today about the high price paid for Dickens' hitherto unpublished manuscript, "The Life of Our Lord."

"I should think that the publication value of Dickens' New Testament stories would be very small. Not even Charles Dickens could re-edit Jesus Christ," he said.

Professor Leacock is the author of the recently published book, "Charles Dickens: His Life and Work."

FEEDS AFFECT FERTILITY OF HENS' EGGS

(Experimental Farm Note)

It has become apparent that certain feed mixtures when fed to laying hens may be very satisfactory from the standpoint of egg production but may produce very poor hatchability of the eggs. The addition of cod liver oil to the diet of hens confined to a house compensates to some degree for the lack of direct sunlight obtained by some farm flocks which are allowed the free range of the barnyard in the spring. However, even with the addition of cod liver oil to the diet, hatchability is very often low in high producing flocks. Recognizing this fact, the Fredericton Experimental Station is this year carrying on some preliminary trials with various feed mixtures for breeding hens.

The standard laying ration used at this Station consists of a scratch grain mixture fed in the litter night and morning made up of two parts wheat and one part each cracked corn, barley and oats and a mash mixture made up of 100 pounds each corn meal, ground oats, middlings and bran, 25 pounds each fish meal and meat scrap, 15 pounds bone meal, 5 pounds each charcoal and fine salt and 10 pounds cod liver oil. The mash is fed dry in hoppers open at all times. Skim-milk and water are supplied daily. Grit and oyster shell are always available and mangels are fed daily to supply green feed. This feed mixture gives excellent results in egg production but hatchability of the eggs is very often low.

It is the opinion of some authorities that the protein in the mash for breeding hens should be supplied in the form of milk powder rather than in the form of fish meal or meat scrap. It is also thought that mangels or other succulent feeds should be withheld from breeding hens and substituted with a green feed, such as alfalfa meal which is rich in vitamins. In the trials being conducted this year at the Fredericton Experimental Station, one group of breeding hens is being given the standard ration, another has the meat scrap and fish meal replaced with milk powder and another has half the bran in the mash replaced with milk powder and another has half the bran in the mash replaced with alfalfa leaf meal. No mangels are fed to this group. If results from these preliminary trials are significant, a more detailed experiment on this work will be carried on next year.

Grandpa always gets sore when the radio comes come back on the air for the winter. He likes to tell those jokes himself.

Think in what terms children of today will describe to their grandchildren the end of the winter of 1934.

SOUR STOMACH ABDOMINAL PAINS COLIC-DIARRHOEA

CLAIMS NERVILINE LINIMENT IS A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

From far-off Jamaica comes the convincing testimony of Mr. White, who owes his very life to the remarkable properties of Nerviline. "It has been worth its weight in gold to me. Travelling in this colony and in South America, I found Nerviline an invaluable aid. Whether it was cramps, sour stomach or diarrhoea, Nerviline corrected the trouble quickly. If my throat was sore, or if I had earache, stiff neck or stiff joints, if I rubbed on Nerviline, I always got quick relief. For sprains, muscle soreness and rheumatism I have proved Nerviline to be a boon. It has always safeguarded my health and I advise all others to go to the nearest chemist's shop for a bottle or two of this trusty family remedy."
