A LIBERAL QUARREL

Recently the Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature met in caucus and deposed W. E. N. Sinclair, who for some years has been House Leader of his party in the Legislature. Dr. McQuibban was appointed as his successor. The Oshawa times, published in Mr. Sinclair's home town, characterizes his debasement as the worst kind of ingratitude to one who has given of his best to the leadership of the party. It says that for service to the party here is no member of the Legislature to whom Mr. Sinclair needs take second place. Commenting upon Mr. Sinclair's co-operation with the Government, in a time of world depression, the Times holds that his course was a sound one; that it was good political strategy and that it enhanced his prestige as a sane and sound leader. The Times adds: "Now his former followers have, on the eve of what would have been his last session as house leader of the party, unceremoniously kicked him out, and appointed another leader in his place. In the face of the self sacrificing life's work of Mr. Sinclair as a Liberal, this was scurvy treatment.....He has given of his best, his conscience is clear, and that, we feel, is rather more than can be said of some of those who have shown such base ingratitude to their former leader. We rather feel that they are even now, suffering some qualms of conscience as they realize what they have done to a man who, when the party in Ontario was in the valley of humiliation, stood head and shoulders above his fellows, and gave them the type of leadership which the situation demanded."

Mr. Sinclair's case is not unlike that of A. A. Dysart, who in 1930, after having faithfully served as house leader for his party for five years, was ousted by a Liberal convention. Mr. Dysart received a traitor's judgment, and no doubt the same is true of Mr. Sinclair. The leader chosen to succeed Mr. Dysart was defeated at the next election and now we find Mr. Dysart back in the job as party leader. No doubt in due time the opposition leader in Ontario will also square the account with his enemies within the party ranks.

MARKET FOR HONEY

The Port of London Authority in its last issue published the following: "Saskatchewan's first consignment of Honey to this country reached the Port of London recently the shipment being made by the Saskatchewan Beekeepers' Association, in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture of that province. "According to the "Canadian Gazette and Export Trader", there has been an increasing demand for Canadian honey in the United Kingdom during the last few years. "Hitherto supplies", states the journal, "have come mainly from Ontario and Quebec with recently growing shipments from British Columbia. The quality of the honey (from Saskatchewan) has been much commended and there should be regular shipments in the future."

Most of us, if we had our lives to live over again, would avoid all the mistakes we made the first time. And make all the mistakes which we avoided the first time.

Kipling was right, according to scientists. They tell us that only the female mosquitoes bite and only the female flowers carry pistils.

Don't high-hat the little man. He's likely to say, "I've climbed further than you if one considers where I started".

PRICES A LITTLE LOWER IN NEW YORK TODAY

Trading Was Nevertheless Fairly Active and Profit-taking Well Absorbed--Pound Sterling Weaker.

New York, Jan. 17.—The longer term outlook remains just as defined as yesterday but it is clear that the market yesterday encountered a lot of realizing selling and that there is more than an even chance of a temporary reaction in the near future right around this level. At the same time so much volume came out on the advance, thus improving the technical position, that in a trading sense the initial reaction should be merely a buying opportunity and not a dangerous one. The pound sterling opened today at $5.07½ and later sold at $5.04½.
