

Council Asks Why $100 License Fee Doesn't Apply to All Itinerants

City Fathers Completed November Business Last Evening, Discussing Outside Merchants Who Compete With Local Firms—Relief Expenditure Less—Children's Rink For Winter a Topic.

The city council concluded its November business last night hearing discussion on a number of matters, including the fee of $100 charged against "itinerant photographers" and those dealing in drugs, sundries and toiletries, also the problem of a rink for the winter months for the school children.

In the former connection an amendment which had been proposed the previous night was passed and a paragraph added in which the outside vendors in sundries and toiletries were subject to the same yearly license fee of $100. Previously it had been only $10.

The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes and the auditor's report. Mayor Clark presided and the Aldermen present were H. Ralph Gunter, David McCaughey, T. Earle Doohan, Warren Maxwell, Ivan McKnight, G. Hedley Forbes and Moses Mitchell, and Ald. Dougherty, Dr. H. S. Wright.

The report of tax collections was read by Ald. Maxwell showing the amount of $6840.97 in October 1934 and $6,794.64 in October of the preceding year.

Moved by Ald. Maxwell and seconded by Ald. Doohan By-Law No. 20, section 3 was amended to read that foreign or "itinerant photographers" shall be charged the fee of $100 per individual. In the past the fee was only $10.

The passage aroused some discussion and Ald. Forbes moved that drugs, sundries and toiletries be added and the vendors of such be subject to the same fee of $100.

It was thought that the by-law addition was not well worded and it was decided to add another section to cover the new clause.

The question was raised that a delegation might appear next month objecting to outsiders coming here and soliciting printing. The mayor declared this was already provided for in a by-law. The printing business here was amply protected by a prohibitive license fee.

Ald. McCaughey mentioned that in his own particular business—the sawmill industry—a similar situation occurred respecting these persons who competed with business here. Ald. McCaughey suggested in droll tones that a license fee be imposed to protect his business too.

Ald. Hedley Forbes presented his monthly report of relief expenditures which showed that during October 1934 the expenditure was only $670.80 while in 1933 the relief for October totalled $1,169.25.

The report of the fire chief was presented by Ald. Moses Mitchell. He reported of the fire alarm and other details of the fire situation in the city. A recommendation had been made for a fourth fireman in the fire station during a fire; also that investigation of fire hazards in the city be made. The committee also requested the chief to report on all chimneys out of repairs. The report showed the approximate fire loss of the month to be light—not to exceed $350.

Ald. Dougherty broached the subject of a rink for children for the winter months. A citizen had offered 200 for the support of the children and would put it in the Arctic rink. Ald. Dougherty and Ald. Forbes believed that more satisfaction would result from having the children skate indoors rather than on the open air rinks where last winter difficulty was experienced in making ice.

Mayor Clark said it would be desirable and that the matter of a supervisor be considered.

Ald. Mitchell thought the Y.M.C.A. didn't have enough money. He paid a compliment to Murray Ross, of Toronto, the Y.M.C.A. instructor whom he believed would be a valuable asset to the city in this direction. The whole matter was left to the roads and street committee to report at the next meeting of the council in December.

BABES ALONE WITH CORPSE, OLDEST FOUR

One in Rain, Undressed, Leads to Discovery the Mother Had Died—Lived on Catsup and Oatmeal.

Nanaimo, B. C., Nov. 7.—With her four children, the eldest four years, in a room of the modest dwelling two miles west of Nanaimo, the body of Mrs. Mary Markulish, 34, was found by neighbors after investigating the reason for one of the undressed children having been out in the rain.

The woman, who was known to have been sick for some time, is believed to have died suddenly when after taking in an armful of wood from the yard she fell against the kitchen stove.

The children are believed to have been alone with the body for 24 hours. They have subsisted on oatmeal and catsup, the only food within their reach.

Constable Jackin, who investigated brought the body to Nanaimo.

T. Albert Osborne, a neighbor, had inquired of one of the children about the mother's health and was told she was sick. Police think she may have been dead at that time.

NEWSY PERSONALS ABOUT HOLLYWOOD'S BUSY PEOPLE

John Barrymore will have his wish both tipped the beams at four pounds to make movie in England. A contract has been signed, by which the American player will film one of Shakespeare's tragedies under the direction of Alexander Korda, Hungarian and England's foremost producer.

They have not yet decided which of the great author's tragedies it will be. Poli Negri, film actress in an answer to her ex-husband's suit for 106,000, declared today, she did not owe the Georgian Prince, Serge Mdivani, a single penny. She asserted she never agreed to pay him 10 per cent of her earnings as her manager. In Mdivani's suit, he charged he loaned his actress-wife $106,000.

Perhaps the youngest players ever in a studio, "played" a scene on a Fox stage today.

Eight eight-day-olds, five girls and three boys, were supplied for the picture by a lying-in-hospital. They were in the studio less than half an hour and the parents of each were paid the $75 required by State law.

A nurse accompanied each infant and two Boards of Education members were on hand to see that lights were not too strong.

The Bing Crosby twins, Phillip Lang and Dennis Michael, celebrated the anniversary of their tenth week of life by weighing in at nine pounds three ounces, and nine pounds, respectively.

At birth Phillip Lang the oldest by five minutes, and Dennis Michael,

Mary Carlisle was late betting started for the studio and a motor cycle policeman nabbed her for allegedly speeding 45 miles an hour.

Miss Carlisle explained she was delayed at home by donning make-up for her new picture. But the officer gave her a ticket.

Francis X. Shields, New York Davis Cup player and ranking tennis star of America, is being considered by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio for a featured part in pictures, studio officials said today.

Shields, who had a good voice, is to be given a screen test, it was said. He is participating in the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament at Los Angeles.

Approximately 200 books were acquired for the screen in the period from Jan. 1, 1933, to July 1, 1934, and the amount paid for them aggregate around 2,000,000 or an average of $10,000 a story, according to a compilation by William James Fadiman, former Columbia story editor and now with a publishing firm.

"In an article for 'The Publishers' Weekly,' Fadiman discusses the importance of the book field as a source of screen material, pointing out that it is now supplied more than one-third of the stories filmed.

Speaking of cycles, Fadiman says there are indications of an increase in mystery stories and an increasing public interest in classics and approved books.

ANCIENT ROMAN ROAD IN ALBAN HILLS RENEWED

(Special to The Daily Mail) town of Castrimonium, the modern ROME, Italy, Nov. 6.—An ancient Roman road in the Alban hills near Rome which was in use more than 200 years before Julius Caesar's legions invaded Britain, is to be re-opened soon, according to a recent announcement made by the Italian Government.

The road, one of the earliest in existence, which was open to traffic before the famous Appian Way and its predecessor the Via Latina, was constructed between 312 and 297 B. C., and only fell into disuse with the passing of the stage-coach and the advent of steam.

It is important in history as it was originally the road leading from the Marino, centre of the Roman wine-fields, and the famous glen where the Latin League used to meet after the destruction of Alba.

When the work of reconstruction was commenced, traces of the old road still survived the wear and tear of centuries of traffic, but most of its course had disappeared, hidden away by the trees and dense undergrowth of the forests above the lakes of Albano and Nemi.

In Roman times the old road, after crossing the forests above these two lakes, entered the town of Volitras, the modern Velletri, and was connected with the Via Triumphalis which

HERE'S SOME GOOD COOKINGS

(By Katherine Baker)

No need to pardon a southern accent in cooking these days when it's introduced with fine, moist shreds of coconut that brings a delicious flavor to northern dishes.

There are two styles of coconut each suited to a particular use. Moist, long shredded coconut is especially good for sprinkling over frostings, for dessert toppings, fruit cups, candies, fluffy whips, or meringue mixtures. This is known as southern style coconut, and is sold in tins. The short meaty, tender pieces are referred to as premium shred coconut, and this is ideal for use in fluid or semi-fluid mixtures, such as pie fillings, custards, puddings, for toasting and as an ingredient in cake or cookie mixtures. While in many coconut recipes, either style may be used, the kind best adapted for the recipe should be used.

Coconut combined with orange, gives a satisfying yet light sweet. Coconut Orange Roll is a delicious cake-dessert, smart for buffet lunches, dinner course, or Sunday supper.

COCOANUT ORANGE ROLL

3-4 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt

led to the summit of Monte Cavo, the Alban mounted in which was crowned by the temple of Juptier Latiaris which was, for Alba, what the Capitol was for Rome.

Like many other roads in the Campagna of Rome the Alban Way, as it was known, continued to be used until about 100 years ago, when it afforded a short cut for the stage coaches between Rome and Naples, and was then known as the Corriera di Napoli, or Naples highroad.

The re-ovation and re-opening of the new road was decided and planned by the Provincial Administration of Rome, and will involve the expenditure 4,000,000 lire (£70,000 at present rates).

Place over smaller bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl from hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Turn into 15 inch by 10 inch pan which has been greased lined with paper to within 1-2 inch of the edge, and again greased. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 13 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Turn from pan at once on cloth covered with powdered sugar. Remove paper. Spread with Orange Coconut filling, roll as for jelly roll, wrap in cloth.
