THE BAYONNE PAWN SHOP SCANDAL IS THE CAUSE OF SERIOUS RIOTING IN THE FRENCH CAPITAL

Paris, France, Feb. 6.—Although the monumental Stavisky scandal and the fall of the Bayonne pawnshop which mulcted the French public of some $40,000,000 was the immediate cause of today's rioting, the trouble had its roots in the economic condition of France.

Young Royalists numbering some 10,000 who desire restoration of a French monarchy; a new group of Fascist manifestants; a Communist element represented in the Chamber of Deputies and an agrarian anti-government sentiment all had their share in the general upheaval.

Frank warnings of possible civil strife and forced abdication of the republic were sounded by Premier Edouard Daladier in the Chamber before the rioting commenced early this afternoon.

"The fundamentals of agitation," he declared, "lie in the economic and financial crises. The incidents we are witnessing risk the crystallization of discontent."

Paris had seethed with anger for a month past as a result of the Stavisky scandal. It was charged that government officials were involved in the collapse of the Bayonne pawnshop.

M. Chautemps vigorously denied that any of the members of his cabinet were implicated. He blamed the red tape of French officialdom, saying the out-of-date French administrative system was never able to catch up with Serge Stavisky, who shot himself to death when the scandal broke.

The rioters today were led by Royalists, Communists and were joined by war veterans, but their activities might have been negligible had it not been that government employees, hit by government pay cuts instituted in efforts to balance the French budget, joined them.

The rioters were based on bitterness against high taxes, economic stress, parliamentary wrangling and alleged graft in high places.

Budget A Factor

The troublesome budget, between 4,000,000,000 and 6,000,000,000 francs "in the red" at the end of 1933, was an important contributing factor in the unrest. In the provinces, especially in northern France and the coal mining districts, there had been agitation against unemployment and increased taxes.

Boston Excursionists Return Home Today

N. B. Guides and Red Coats Received
Ovation

The large number of people who went to Boston for the Sportsmen's Show returned today. Train service was excellent, some of the excursionists had to return however on the regular service accommodation being taxed to the limit. Mr. Currie, New Brunswick guide, who attended the show reports that everything went off nicely. The New Brunswick guides headed by Mr. Leo Dolan officially opened the show and were the largest contributors to the show. The director of the show at the New Brunswick banquet pointed out that it was only through the co-operation of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Quebec that the Boston show was made possible at this banquet the guides and Royal Canadian Mounties were individually introduced and received a great ovation from the five hundred distinguished guests.

Mr. Campbell and Mrs. Richards, sportsmen of New York entertained their guides Messrs Currie and Price at the Statler Hotel, Boston.

Messrs. David and Jack Ogilvy were present at the show. Mr. David Ogilvy is staying over in Boston until Saturday next.

Hon. E. A. Reilly, K. C., Moncton, is a guest at Barker House.

Hon. Lewis Smith, Coverdale, Albert County, is a guest at Barker House.

Hon. W. H. Harrison, K. C., Saint John, is a guest at the Barker House.

Hon. H. I. Taylor, St. George, Minister of Health, is a guest at the Queen.

France's firm determination to remain on the gold standard was reiterated today by the premier. "We are determined to maintain our monetary system," he said.

M. Daladier's first heavy blow fell upon the former police chief, Jean Chiappe, who was summarily given a post as governor-general of French Morocco, which he declined.

This move in the premier's effort to clean up the scandal brought immediate unfavorable reactions from street crowds who demonstrated in favor of Chiappe's return to office.

WATCHING PARIS

New York, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The serious disorders in Paris commanded undivided attention in Wall Street late today because of the importance of France in international finance and her position as leader of the "gold bloc" nations.

The consensus in banking quarters was that if the republic is forced to abandon the international gold standard it will be because of internal conditions centering chiefly around balancing of the budget, rather than a desire on the part of other nations to bring about such an eventuality by importing gold.

It was generally believed that if the country should declare any sort of ban against the export of gold, either in modified form or general in application, such action would have an adverse affect in the major financial centres of the world for the time being, and might conceivably have more than a temporary bearing upon the slow but gradual improvement in business now apparent in most countries.

Bankers who have studied the situation in France for some time believe the inability of the several French governments which have been in power in the last few months to balance the budget is the one factor more than anything else contributing to the internal upheaval. Important also, they pointed out, is the inflated price structure in the country and the unfavorable trade balance.

Ask For Child Relief Work

mittée meeting of the council Monday night.

Brig. General Parsons explained that the maintaining of the relief depot here was an economy step and anywhere else would not be feasible. After March 15, he said, he would only maintain a headquarters' staff of about thirty men, mostly married men, who would number stenographers and office workers, also a small supply depot. These thirty men, together with transients would complete the dismantling of the Orthopedic building and henneries at the Old Government premises, by September 1, at which time all of the work will have been completed.

There would never be more than thirty or forty men here on any one day, he said. He hoped the council would see it as economical to have the depot here and pointed out that a ton of food a day was consumed by these men and this was bought from the merchants of this city.

Answering criticisms of the actions of a truckload of men, who Ald. Mitchell claimed, were making remarks to a passing girl, Brig. Gen. Parsons said that in future a camp policeman will accompany all trucks. He said it was a mild sort of discipline necessarily but would be checked up in future.

Mayor Clark promised that the city would cooperate with the government in this relief project and he saw no reason why there should be any unnecessary alarm about the matter. He thought it would be a benefit to the city to have the camp here since the primary object was to give men work and teach them how to work. "We want more people to live here," said the mayor. He said he thought the city could depend on the authorities to look after the men and see that they behaved properly while here. "It is the duty of the council," he said, "not to throw any stumbling blocks in the way."

COW MAKES A PIKER OF PYKO—99 CENTS

Ridgeville, Wash., Feb. 7.—Joy Pyke, Ridgefield rancher, shipped a 9-year-old Jersey cow to Portland stockyards and received a check for 99 cents after deducting expenses connected with the transaction. The 810-pound cow brought $4.05. Cartage cost $2 and yardage $1.06, leaving Pyko 99 cents.

Government To Help Northumberland

the municipality asking the government to take what action it considered necessary to assist the county out of its present difficulties.

The special meeting was held and the resolution, which was adopted at the meeting reached the cabinet at situation of the county accounts relation.

The resolution set out the financial situation of the county accounts requesting the provincial government to take such action as it considered necessary. In immediate compliance with the request and in order to definitely ascertain from an independent source the financial state of Northumberland county both as regards unemployment relief funds and the general financial status, the premier has engaged the services of P. S. Ross & Company, chartered accountants, to make an immediate audit of the county finances and return the same when completed to the government. After the audit is received the premier will sit in with wardens and mayors of Chatham and Newcastle and the secretary-treasurers and will go further into the situation and take appropriate action.

The government is continuing its meeting this afternoon, the remainder of the schedule being mostly routine in nature.

Associated Gas and Electric Company Plan of Rearrangement of Debt Capitalization

50,000 Holders Have Exchanged $130,000,000 of Debentures

NEED for the Plan has become increasingly apparent to important insurance companies, banks, trust companies, and investment dealers, many of whom previously opposed it. Now that the difficult conditions facing the public utility industry are better understood, many of these agencies have been exchanging their own debentures and urging others to do so.

Over 50,000 holders have exchanged.

$130,000,000 of debentures have been exchanged.

Over 1,000 banks, 800 investment houses have exchanged debentures for themselves or their customers.

Over 40 insurance companies have exchanged.

Exchanges under Option 1 have reached $100,000,000, and deposits under this option are not now being accepted. This option involved, at least for the time being, a reduction of 50% in income and principal on the amount of the debentures exchanged.

Option 2 Offers Improved Position

Of the two remaining options, Option 2 is by far the more popular, having been chosen by as many holders in number as Option 1. It offers Income Debentures (interest cumulative) of Associated Gas and Electric Corporation of the same principal amount as the Associated Gas and Electric Company debentures turned in for exchange, but with a reduction in interest rate ranging from 1/8% to 1% with no reduction in principal involved.

The second option offers greater investment protection than a debenture of the Company. The Company is dependent upon dividends on the stock of the Corporation for funds to meet the interest on the debentures of the Company. Dividends may not be paid upon the stock of the Corporation unless the interest on the Option 2 bonds is paid up to date. Hence, position is improved. The slightly lower rate of interest received under Option 2 is relatively unimportant when the improved investment position is borne in mind.

The example of the thousands of holders of Company debentures who have exchanged them for Corporation debentures should induce other debenture holders to do likewise.

Further details as to the Plan will be sent promptly to debenture holders desiring them. A letter of transmittal will be furnished on request, although it is not necessary.

Debentures should be sent to Transfer and Coupon Paying Agency, 61 Broadway, or The Public National Bank and Trust Company of New York, 76 William Street, New York City, depositaries.
