The Croupy Cough Worries the Mother

Mothers should never neglect the first sign of a cold or cough where their children are concerned, for if they do some serious trouble of the bronchial tubes may develop.

Half the battle in doctoring children is to give them something they will like; something they will take without any fuss, and this the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It acts promptly, soothing the air passages, loosening the phlegm, strengthening the bronchial tubes and fortifying them against serious chest troubles.

Notice to the Holders of Debentures of:

ASSOCIATED GAS and ELECTRIC COMPANY

You, of course, wish to do your utmost to safeguard your investment in the Debentures of Associated Gas and Electric Company. To do this we believe you should exchange them at once under the Plan of Rearrangement of Debt Capitalization.

About $100,000,000 of the Debentures of all series have been exchanged by well over 40,000 holders.

Realization by important banks, trust companies and investment dealers of the need for the Plan has been growing steadily. Many, who heretofore showed no interest or were opposed to it, have recently changed their opinion. They are now exchanging their own Debentures and advising others to do likewise without delay.

Options 1 and 2 are the more conservative and have been the choice of almost all holders. Regular payment of interest is more certain with Option 1.

Nearly three-quarters of the new Debentures which are reserved under Option 1 (subject to the terms of the original offer) have already been issued and are outstanding. Certain expected large deposits make quite likely the early closing of Option 1.

All Debentures sent in for exchange under Option 1 will be exchanged under Option 2 if Option 1 is closed prior to their receipt unless the holder otherwise directs. Those who send in their Debentures by return mail will be reasonably certain, however, of having their Debentures accepted for deposit under Option 1.

In figuring the interest adjustment on exchanges made from now to the first of the year, you will be allowed full interest to January 1, 1934, on your present holdings.

Holders who wish to do their part to protect their own interests should act immediately.

WOULD REMOVE THE BURDEN OF DIRECT RELIEF FROM THE VARIOUS MUNICIPALITIES

Quebec, Jan. 11—A new plan for and it is essential that future general unemployment relief, to take the burdens should help us out of our difficulties," Premier Taschereau said. "If Ottawa would join us in adopting this proposal, then we would leave the municipalities free with their resources to devote them to the usual purposes of such municipal funds, and neither Ottawa nor Quebec nor the municipalities would have anything to do with the distribution of relief.

This proposal was to create a system whereby each province would appoint a commission which would form a corporation to issue debentures, redeemable in 30 or 40 years. The corporation, he said, might include a representative of the Dominion and provincial government, in each case and a third man to be chosen as they saw fit.

The Dominion government and the provincial governments would guarantee their debentures. Then the municipalities would be left free to carry on ordinary demands of municipal expenditures from their resources, being relieved of the strain of unemployment relief.

"Supposing that it cost $10,000,000 for unemployment relief for the Province of Quebec," the premier said, "allowing for sinking fund and interest over 40 years the charges against the province this year would only be $250,000."

A Permanent Class

In the unemployment situation the veteran Liberal premier saw as the gloomiest point the fact that municipalities were now at the end of their resources and it was with a view to remedying that situation that he put forward his plan. "I have wondered," he said "if we have not created a new class, the unemployed, who remain unemployed and always will."

The three men who would head the corporation to administer unemployment relief would be the best men procurable and would be well paid, the premier said.

"As the Speech from the Throne says, we are passing through the worst crisis that has ever afflicted humanity

Outside of Politics

"It would be taken right out of all political interference. Those in charge, who would have the matter in hand independent of all control, would be able to meet the situation without either Ottawa or Quebec or the Municipalities having to suffer. I will propose at Ottawa next week that nothing shall be asked of the municipalities in future; that Ottawa and Quebec shall together meet the responsibility of the sinking fund for these obligations," Mr. Taschereau said, referring to the proposed unemployment bond issue.

"The speech from the Throne indicates that there will be no new taxation. We realize that the burden on the shoulders of our people is heavy enough already. Last year we had a considerable deficit," he added. "We have faced a situation more difficult than any known in the history of our province. When I tell you that last year we have to meet our responsibilities with $10,000,000 less than we had two years ago, you will see how much our revenues have diminished."

"During the first six months of the year, July to December 31st last, our revenues fell 5¢ $7,000,000. But against that falling revenue, we economized $4,500,000. Our municipalities have united with us in cutting down liabilities. During the past year, the borrowings of municipalities in this province, have been reduced from $13,000,000 to $3,196,000. I invite the municipalities to continue that system of economy. Therein lies their salvation."

Council Enquires Into Accident To Pumper

time and under present conditions."

The examination into the fire pumper accident took up about an hour. Fire Chief Karl A. Walker, the first witness told of receiving word of the accident on the night of November 11. Arriving at the scene of the accident—which was the intersection of York and George Street—he found the pumper on the side of the road near a huge tree, which fronted the Fraser Memorial building. He had helped Mrs. Vincent Jamieson, driver of the Ford car which struck the fire pumper, and who was injured in the crash. He said it looked as if the driver of the Ford car had applied every facility to avoid the accident. The lighter car had struck the pumper at the rear. The fire was rung in from a "still" alarm, and was at the home of Mrs. Gerow, Westmorland St.

Driver's Evidence

Melvin Bearisto, driver of the pumper, was the second witness, and he explained all the incidents in connection with the accident. Robert Coombes was with him the night of the fire. The roads were very slippery on the evening of November 11. He told of proceeding carefully out York Street and of blowing the siren repeatedly. Coombes rang the fire bell. He saw the other car coming at the intersection of York and George Street but expected it to have lots of room and time to pass the pumper. When the car struck the pumper, he said, the pumper swayed into the ditch and despite efforts of twisting the steering wheel both ways he was unable to right it. The pumper finally came up against the tree opposite the Fraser Memorial hall with resulting damage to the truck. Neither he nor Coombes were injured. The witness said that he found afterwards that the steering rods were broken as a result of the accident. He didn't know how fast he was going. He applied the brakes but they didn't hold in the slippery road. The steering wheel neither, would respond to pressure.

He was convinced, he said, that the steering gear was out of commission as soon as the pumper was struck. He told of meeting Corporal Barker of the city police near the scene of the accident. The fire pumper had three lights burning. He said that if the steering gear had been all right following the impact of the Ford car. The collision of the two cars had evidently damaged the steering apparatus. He attributed the cause of the accident than to the fact of slippery condition of the road.

Robert Coombes, fireman who accompanied Bearisto on the truck, concurred in Bearisto's testimony. He said that he had rung the bell continually coming out York street. Police Officer Alfred Barker told of being near the scene of the accident of hearing the siren and hearing the impact of the pumper hitting the tree. He had helped the injured woman Mrs. Jamieson, whom he found lying on the road.

Officer Foster, the final witness, recalled the evening of the accident and said that he in company with the fire chief had investigated the roads after the accident. He said that both York and George street were in a slippery condition. In answer to questioning by Ald. Dougherty who conducted the examination, he said that the pumper was equipped with chains at the time.

Follow the hearing the council adjourned into private committee, later returning to the council chamber to complete their business. Those present besides the mayor, who presided Deputy Mayor G. Willard Kitchen Ald. Moses Mitchell, Ald. C. L. Dougherty, Ald. Warren Maxwell, Ald. Ivan McKnight, Ald. T. Earle Doohan, Ald. David McCaughey, Dr. H. S. Wright

LOCAL AUTHOR LOOMS

The publication of his second story "Murder in the Police Station" by Prof. Burton S. Kierstead of the faculty of the University of New Brunswick, marks as one of the budding authors from this part of the province. Prof. Kierstead's new story began in serial form in the January issue of McLean's Magazine headed by appropriate remarks on the young author's career. Prof. Kierstead's first venture in the writing field was the publication of "The Brownsville Murders" in which he collaborated with Fred Campbell, also of this city. The local author deserves great credit on his latest success.

It is the first bonspiel here in some years and is looked

The Hague, Jan. 12—The Dutch government, a month after ordering the closing of all gambling houses, decided to outlaw all betting games, either of skill or of chance.

The move is officially stated to be dictated by the growth of the gambling craze among Dutchmen since the introduction of "Straperio and spiralo," a Dutch form of Roulette.

In a village near The Hague the council has even prohibited all card playing, chess, checkers and dominoes in the inns.

It's a good thing Opportunity doesn't heed the injunction. "Don't knock."

teachers drawing $200 to $250 a year, the number had risen to 866 in 1931-32 and last year the figure had reached 1,527.

"In 1930-31 there were seven teachers in the province receiving less than $200 a year; in 1931-32 there were 115, and last year, 1,185.

"During the five years before 1931-32 there was no teacher drawing less than $150 a year; in 1931-32, the reports indicated five; and in 1932-33 there were 400, of whom 135 drew between $80 and $125 a year.

"And, painful as it is to have to admit it, the current year will show even worse, figures than these."
