Historical Lecture

Joseph Howe Dickson, K. C., clerk of the executive council lectured on the pre-Loyalists for a good sized audience in the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening. He explained that the term pre-Loyalist applied to all persons who settled here previous to 1783 excepting Indian and French and British soldiers on temporary service. He spoke on the founding of Halifax in 1749 and followed the colonization of that part of Nova Scotia which is now New Brunswick down to the coming of the New Englanders in 1755 under Col. Monckton, to take Beauséjour. He went on to say that the country along the Petitcodiac River was settled by the Dutch in 1766 and that Captain Owens founded the first settlement on Campobello Island in 1770. The speaker in eloquent language pictured the sufferings and hardships endured by the hardy pioneers and claimed that when the Loyalists arrived in 1783 they found the country fairly well settled and the institutions in fairly good working order. In support of his statement he quoted from Governor Carleton's first speech to the New Brunswick legislature when he called upon the people's representatives to re-enact the laws of Nova Scotia so far as they were applicable to New Brunswick. A hearty vote of thanks moved by E. A. MacKay and seconded by Ald. T. H. Colter was presented to the speaker.

SAFETY FIRST IDEA COMES TO THIS LADY

(New York Sun)

There is a strict order against smoking in the office.

Tommy Brown was summoned to the inner sanctum of the boss. As he passed through Miss Green's room, she noticed that he was absent-mindedly smoking a cigarette. She called his attention to the fact and, panic-stricken, he removed the cigarette from his mouth and laid it on the edge of her desk.

Miss Green was aghast! A cigarette—forbidden—burning merrily away on her desk. Why, one could smell it all over the place. What to do? She could not throw it out the window—set fire to some pedestrian. She looked around her took the cigarette and pressed the lighted end to the floor leaving a tell-tale mark.

She was just about to throw the remains into her waste basket when the instinct of self-preservation asserted itself. Not in her basket. It was not her cigarette. So, concealing it in her hand, she marched into Tommy Brown's room and deposited it in Tommy Brown's own basket.

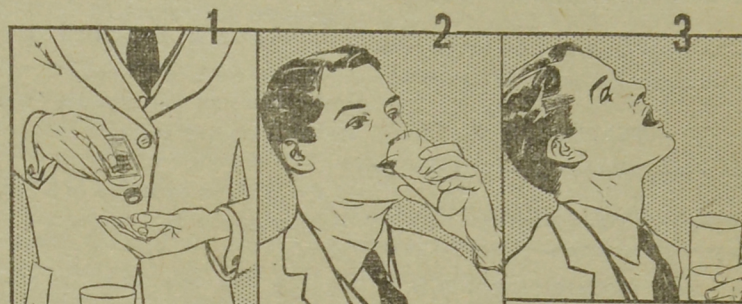

"Safety first," said Miss Greene, and returned, smugly, to her desk.

From far-off Jamaica comes the convincing testimony of Mr. White, who owes his very life to the remarkable properties of Nerviline. "It has been worth its weight in gold to me. Travelling in this colony and in South America, I found Nerviline an invaluable aid. Whether it was cramps, sour stomach or diarrhoea, Nerviline corrected the trouble quickly. If my throat was sore, or if I had earache, stiff neck or stiff joints, if I rubbed on Nerviline, I always got quick relief. For sprains, muscle soreness and rheumatism I have proved Nerviline to be a boon. It has always safeguarded my health and I advise all others to go to the nearest chemist's shop for a bottle or two of this trusty family remedy."
