SCIENTISTS PLEASE EXPLAIN

In the vicinity of Moncton there is a "Magnetic Hill" which puzzles motorists. At that place a car can coast up hill. The hill is at Lutz Mountain on the mountain road about six miles from Moncton.

This hill reveals one of nature's most peculiar phenomena. It is the only place in the world, so far as it is known, where an automobile is able to coast up grade. The hill slopes towards the mountain and if the tourist descends the hill and brings his car to a full stop at the foot of the hill, he will be amazed to notice that his car begins to coast backward up the hill which he has just descended. There is a considerable incline but an automobile has no trouble in coasting the entire distance of about fifty yards up to the summit of the hill. This peculiar phenomena has not yet been satisfactorily explained, but it is the general opinion that the possible existence of mineral deposits near the crest might be offered as an explanation. However, the cause of this strange quirk of nature has not yet been explained, so you may consider your yet theory just as reliable as the next person's. The "Magnetic Hill" has attracted thousands of people during the past couple of years and at most any time one will see numerous motorists in that vicinity trying the experiment for themselves. It is one of those things which almost forces a person to disbelieve the truth of his senses; one may be skeptical and argue that such a thing is contrary to laws of physics, it is, but the fact remains that cars are able to coast (from a standstill) up the "Magnetic Hill."

OUR GOLD PRODUCTION

Canadian gold production in 1934 will exceed $105,000,000 is the prophecy of The Northern Miner. Eighty mills and mines will be turning out a golden grist by the year end, more than doubling the number of a year ago. Scores of properties, from coast to coast, are preparing to enter the lists of profitable producers.

Gold areas, neglected for a generation have been revived through the magic price of thirty-five dollars an ounce gold. Nova Scotia, Ontario, British Columbia, Quebec and Manitoba share honours in the energetic development of prospects old and new.

Gold is one Canadian product that can go up in price without hurting the Canadian consumer. Canadian nickel producers are shipping at record rates. Canadian copper mines are producing at near capacity. Dividends have been restored.

Dividend payments for Canadian metal mines of all classifications will exceed $43,000,000 in 1934. The possibility of expansion in this direction is encouraging.

Canada has improved, in 1934, its status in the production of minerals. Today it stands first in nickel, first in asbestos, first in platinum, second in radium, second in gold, second in zinc, second in cobalt. Canada stands third in copper, fourth in lead and fourth in silver amongst the world's producers.

For a people of 10,000,000 population the mineral production is remarkable.

OLD PROBS.

Across the Atlantic we have war scaremongers, inventors of scares, who are under the thumb of the makers of munitions.

Across the Pacific we have Japan pictured as the worrying little tyke who is ready to bite.

At home we have the political humorists who are at work on all sorts of probabilities and possibilities which may occur to the resourceful gossip.

There you are. They are asking question like:

Who will be our next Premier?
Will we have general elections this fall?

Will Mr. Bennett get a title?
Will the Bank of England control the Bank of Canada?

These and other phantom fears are the product of ninety in the shade—the hot air gossip of the hot weather-peeves.

Now we are being told that Germany is rearming in the air and the rest of the world must prepare for defense against attack by German forces from the air and as a result European nations are building up large air forces to be in readiness for the expected attack. It seems to us as though the best plan would be, if Germany, is so much of a menace as the war parties would have us believe, to go into Germany at once and take over control of the government and destroy whatever armament it may possess. If Germany is the mad dog of Europe the time to kill the mad dog is before it bites someone and causes an epidemic of rabies to scourge the world.—Waterville Sentinel.

NUDE PICTURE
BY BOSTON GIRL
STIRS PUBLIC

Gloucester, Mass., August 6 — The girl artist insisted it was just a "Mood"; a district court judge called it "disgraceful", while the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce saw only a "splendid piece of art".

When Miss Anna Neumark, youthful Boston artist, put her nude "composition" in a jeweler's window here she thought it might fetch $35. Last night her friends said she wouldn't part with it for ten times that amount.

It's her picture, composition, mood or abstraction, if you insist, that has the art colony and citizenry of this ancient port all steamed up and the turmoil shows no signs of diminishing.

Judge William J. Hatch, who first noticed the offending wash drawing in Blanchard's jewelry window, denied today he had suggested the police ought to do something about it but he did admit he thought it was "disgraceful".

It was the judge who allegedly told Alderman Weston U. Friend about it and Friend in turn told Lawrence J. Hart, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, it might be just as well if the picture were removed from public gaze.

Hart defended the picture but said he said followed Friend's suggestion.

Taken to the Chamber of Commerce building the picture as photographed by every newspaper cameraman who could reach the scene although Miss Neumark said it had hung in a Boston gallery for several weeks last winter without creating any particular sensation.

The picture shows two girls reclining on a crimson or perhaps it is a maroon background. Above them towers a naked man. And that's all there is to it.

near two flags of the Reichswehr (regular army). Three Reichswehr battalions formed a wide circle about the manor. Beyond them stood the inhabitants of nearby towns and villages.

Helmets and hats were removed, and the pastor offered a prayer:

"And now we bid farewell to the master of this house".

A GRACIOUS ACT

The Cathedral Mens' Club met last night to wind up the business in connection with the Church Picnic recently held at Douglas. It was found that when all bills were paid there was a favorable cash balance. By unanimous vote of the club this money is being used to provide a complete softball playing outfit for the children at the Municipal Home. The wistful and longing aspect of the children when watching the soft ball game played at the afternoon picnic, prompted this generous act of the club.

CHICAGO—Drought news causes grains, commodities and livestock prices to climb sharply; some at new highs for year.

PULP DRIVE ON WAY

The first indication of the pulp drive made every year at about this time by the Port Royal Pulp & Paper Company, of Saint John, appeared here today in patches of floating pulp going past the city. It is understood that 35,000 cords of pulp will be sent from Grand Falls to the main mill at Saint John. At present the bulk of the pulp is being piled up in booms on the headwaters, and is not yet started. According to a report from the pumping station today the water has receded three inches in the last day.

ATTRACTIVE POOL

One of the most attractive gardens in the city is in Grey St. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parker H. Currier. The grounds and flowers are tastefully arranged and centred with a deep artificial pool in which are seen growing quantities of water lilies, yellow, pink, white and even blue in bloom. A score of various species of gold fishes add to the effect. The walks are flag stoned and the whole presents a charming appearance.
