OUR SYSTEM OF EDUCATION

What is wrong with it? Is there too much cramming imposed upon the pupils in the mad race for passing examinations? Are they trained to think for themselves? We believe that education is still in our modernistic today what the old sages of the classical old days said it was, a development of the faculties. What else can produce the inventor the poet, the musician, the finished tradesman, the renowned professional, the top notch in any calling. To the teachers of educational authorities we bow in admiration and respect. We know full well that they are assuredly a bold working class in our community, and have opinions as to what the system should be, but cannot remedy a system which they do not control. A school system is somewhat similar to a corporation it is not an individual, but rather an abstract body which has come to exist as the result of years of thought and gradual building up.

No one individual is guilty of its short comings. Are the children today in our public or possible private schools losing sight of the real purpose of going to school to acquire something which will be their own after the examination is over, and which will remain with them, to become good, God-fearing citizens, to so live that the world will have been better on account of their having lived.

A HUMAN TOUCH

To live among strangers is the lot of hotel folk, and perhaps no better students of human nature are to be found than exists among these people, whose duty it is to cater to the whims and eccentricities of people who travel. From them you may learn what sort of a chap the President of this or that big corporation is or how this or that noted lady appeals to them. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they have made a very correct appraisal.

Coming through the lobby of the Cornwallis Inn a few hours after the Prime Minister of Great Britain had taken his departure the other day, the Kentville Recorder writer was accosted by two radiant-faced uniformed bellhops who were anxious to tell the wide world that Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, had shaken hands with them and told them how much he had enjoyed his stay at their house. What a gesture! Why those boys will be telling about that incident to their great-grandchildren some day, and we venture the thought that they will be better bellhops and bigger men just because the Prime Minister of Great Britain took a few minutes of his life to extend them a friendly hand and say—"well done!"

E. R. Teed, who passed away at his home in Woodstock this week, was a keen disciple of Isaak Walton. For some years he was a member of syndicate of New Brunswick sportsmen, who controlled valuable salmon angling rights on the Kedgwick River, a tributary of the Restigouche River. They acquired the fishing privileges under a former government for the sum of $260, which was of course the annual rental. When the fishing privileges were put up at auction by the Baxter Government in 1927 they were promptly bid in by some Americans for a sum in the vicinity of $12,000. "It has gone beyond us", was the sportsmanlike observation of Mr. Teed and his associates, and they dropped out without a word of complaint.

The Grand Lodge of Oddfellows of the Maritime Provinces will meet at New Glasgow, N. S., on August 6th. The New Glasgow Lodge, has been busy getting up a program of entertainment for the visiting brethren, and naturally solicited some advertising matter to help defray the cost of printing the program. They applied to the government of Nova Scotia for an advertisement, and what do you think was the response—a full page advertisement setting forth the regulations governing the sale of liquor in Nova Scotia. It was of course a stupid blunder and insult committed by somebody connected with the government's publicity department. The I. O. O. F. stands for temperance and mortality and of course did not accept the advertisement.

SNAPSHOTS

An executive must accept some work not done quite so well as he could do it himself.

The Bond issues also are visited on the children to the third and fourth generation.

The town saunterer may saunter along to the age of 95, while the hurrier gets to the cemetery thirty years earlier.

You can say one thing for the reformer. His scheme to save the world doesn't require another tax.

If you don't think young men are distinguished-looking enough, put them in evening clothes. Then they will be.

When one is so old he can receive no more intellectual thrills he may still be brilliant enough to give them to others.

Still, you can behave well and associate with decent people and live a long time without getting shot.

All speech-making seems silly to the man who is scared stiff when asked to make a few remarks.

Some men are spoiled by their mothers, some are spoiled by their wives and some just manage to make pests of themselves and the spoiling is automatic.

OUR MAIL BAG

To the Editor Daily Mail,
I was interested in your editorial on the election of school trustees. I do not agree with all that you say. I believe that they should be elected the same as are the City Councillors. This is done in other places and has proved successful, why should it not in this province. We should be able to get good men and not have them selected because they represent the Baptist, Anglican, Roman Catholic or any other church. Also they should not be on the board like senators—for life. I notice in your old items of twenty odd years ago that two or three members, each good persons, were members of the board at that time and are still going strong. They are liable to think that they own the schools. It used to be considered that certain teachers thought they owned the schools, you could not tell them anything.

I agree with you that all school trustees meetings should be open to the public. The trustees spend the bulk of our money. How do they handle it? They are not afraid to have the public know? Then open the doors to the papers.

I suppose that you will not put this in your paper because I can't agree with all you said in your editorial. Papers should take an intelligent interest in local public questions. I am pleased that you are doing so.

Yours Truly,
TAXPAYER.

SUTHERLAND-HARRIS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Red Bank United Church Wednesday evening, when Miss Olive May Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris, Cassillis, was united in marriage to George D. Sutherland, Cassillis. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. N. Cole. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Parks. Following the ceremony, a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. They will reside in Cassillis. The couple are well-known in this city, where they have many friends.

TRIBUTE TO R. P. ALLEN

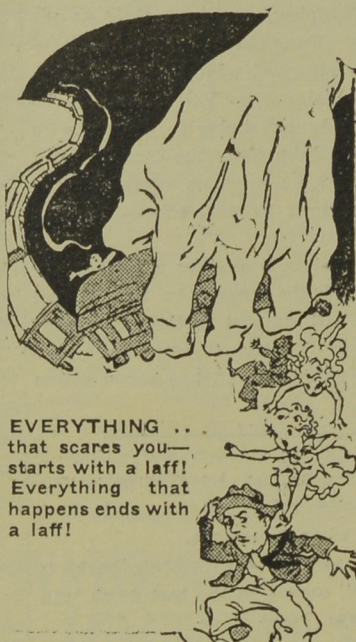

Beginning with it's issue of tomorrow the Fredericton Daily Mail will come out under new management. The present editor and manager who organized a joint stock company and founded the paper nearly twenty-five years ago, is to sever his connection with the paper. His retirement is due to circumstances which while not exactly unavoidable, are quite beyond his control. Parting with an old friend, with whom one has been closely allied for many years, always has a pang and it is with feeling of profound sorrow that we abandon the scissors and paste-pot and lay aside our pen, or rather turn them over to the custody of another. We have carried on to the best of our ability and have ever placed the interests of the city and province ahead of our own, and we are not without evidence that our efforts have met with some appreciation.

Mr. Allen will be succeeded by James L. Neville, a man who has had considerable experience in newspaper work.—Woodstock Press.

Most people don't have enemies. They merely have dislikers.
