ANNUAL INSPECTION

Brigadier General J. L. R. Parsons, C.M.G., D.C.O., inspected the first Battalion of the York Regiment today previous to the breaking up of camp which has been located at Forest Hill. The Battalion in command of Lt. Col. P. E. McLaughlan and Major H. M. Ganong marched past with colors, after which they gave a demonstration of company drill. One of the most spectacular exhibitions was a demonstration of Tactical schemes by one of the platoons. The Commanders and Company officers are as follows: Lt. Col. P. E. McLaughlan, first in command; Major H. M. Ganong, second in command; Major C. A. Williams in charge of "A" Company; Major W. C. Lawson, M. C., in charge of "B" Company; Capt. A. W. Waterson, in charge of "C" Company; Capt. F. W. Boyd, M. M. in charge of D. Company.

Old Times Recalled

At the request of a number of readers, The Daily Mail will publish each day until further notice, short historical sketches of this locality. The first paper in the series is published today and is by Rev. Dr. F. A. Wightman.

OUR RACIAL ORIGINS

Scottish Elements

Several Scottish colonies came out from time to time and took up lands in the western part of the Province. Chief among these are the present fine settlements of Kincardine and Kintore in Victoria County, Glassville in Carleton County, Harvey in York County and Scotch Ridge in Charlotte County. The Harvey settlers were lowlanders. Some of our most prominent citizens have come from these colonies.

Other Contributions

The potato famine in Ireland drove many Irish families abroad, many of whom found homes in different sections of New Brunswick. These people generally settled where they found opportunity, though some compact communities were formed, and several colonies of Irish were established, such as Emigrant Road in Westmorland County and New Ireland in Albert County. A few Germans and Dutch also found their way to our shores and settled chiefly in what was formerly called Dutch Valley near Sussex. Some also settled in Albert County. A Welsh settlement was also established in Cardigan near Fredericton.

Scandinavians.

Another rather remarkable stream of European settlement in the form of definite colonies, to find a place in New Brunswick, are the Danish settlements in Victoria County, especially New Denmark. Some of these people have been here over fifty years and the movement is still in progress. These people have made the best of settlers and have achieved a wonderful degree of prosperity. More recently, groups of these people have settled in central Kings county. Mention must be made, also, of another small community of Scandinavians—Norwegians who settled at a place called Nordin near Newcastle on the Miramichi. They came to this country through contact with the lumbering industry.

From United States

There is one more small movement by way of a contribution to our peoples which must be mentioned. These people, strange to say, did not come across the ocean, but from across the border. Usually we do not get any considerable number of people to come as compact communities from the United States, but there are exceptions to all rules. The circumstances are rather interesting. At the time of the American Civil War, many were drafted into the army. For many there was no alternative, but to some who lived near the border there was, and that was to cross to the Canadian side. The international border on the western end of York County is formed by a chain of large and beautiful lakes called the Chiputneticook Lakes. On the Maine side of these lakes the country was quite well settled but not so much so on the New Brunswick side. So rather than be conscripted to fight against their fellow citizens in the south, they simply crossed the lake and established several settlements in New Brunswick. The chief settlement was, for many years, called in derision "Skeedaddlers Ridge," and sometimes is to this day. This is one of the most beautiful sections of the Province today, so far as natural scenery is concerned, and the prosperous communities of Pemberton, Green Mountain and Fosterville indicate the thrift and industry of the people. The descendants of these people are among our most loyal Canadians today, and a few years ago these communities were formed into a new parish of North Lake. So now we have in our land representatives of almost every country in Europe, as well as the United States, and if a fusion of races is desirable, we have all the elements within our borders.

Children Had Good Month at Playground

upset all predictions by defeating Queen's Square in the Playground Baseball League, 5-1. By virtue of this win Marysville now moved into tie for first place with Queen's Square with Devon and Wilmot Park trailing. Art McLennahan pitched Queen's Square to a 9-0 win over Devon earlier in the week, letting the Devon boys down with two hits. With the coaching that McLennahan can get from Charlie Nichols it is expected that in a few years he will be among the best in senior company.

The Baseball League is spreading, and boys are so interested in this game that a midget league has been formed with two teams from Queen's Square and a team from Devon competing. The first game between Devon and the Falcons will be played at Devon Monday morning.

Another new feature which started at the playground this week is the tennis school for older girls. These girls who are mostly high school girls have wanted to play tennis for some time. Under the direction of the playground committee and through the courtesy of the C. N. R. and town tennis clubs, instruction in the game is being given two mornings a week.

During August instruction will be given in swimming at the west end bathing beach every Monday and Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Murray G. Ross will handle these classes and all who wish to learn to swim are invited to join. Every outdoor activity that appeals to youth is included in the Playground Summer Program.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Dick Sloat who resides at the home of H. W. Woods, King Street, was more or less battered up last night in an automobile accident but is able to be around today as usual. In company with Chester Clark and Gordon Ryan, young Sloat was driving up the Springhill road in Ryan's car. The front wheel came off and the car took the ditch throwing the boys out. The cars was badly demolished but the other boys escaped injury.

Brockway Liberal Meeting Last Night

About seventy-five were present at a Liberal meeting in Brockway last night. The chief speakers were J. B. McNair, candidate for York county, Ernest Stairs, candidate for York County, Frank Osborne and Abner Belyea of Fredericton. The chairman was John McLeod and John Brockway was on the platform.

Mr. McNair spoke about the hard surfaced roads project stating that the town of Marysville was putting down a type of road that is $5000 a mile cheaper than that planned by the N. B. Government. He also compared the cost of our roads as compared to those of Nova Scotia saying that the sister province was putting down roads which cost $4500 a mile.

Mr. Stairs touched on the financial situation of the province stating that 52 cents on every dollar of revenue received by the province will be required to pay interest on the present provincial debt and that 65 per cent of the total revenues went toward interest and sinking fund charges.
