NO CONTESTS

All Papers Filed and Swearing-in Takes Place on Monday

The dilemma which faced the 1934 civic political situation in the capital has been cleared up with the "signing up" of enough members to fill out the city council nominations closed at four o'clock this afternoon and with the adequate number of candidates for aldermanic office all that remains now is the formality of swearing-in, which is to occur next Monday.

The new members of the Council are, T. Earle Doohan, who will succeed the late T. V. Monahan in Queens Ward; Dr. H. S. Wright, who will replace H. E. Harrison in Carleton Ward, and Ivan McKnight, who will take J. Arthur Thompson's place in King's Ward. Of these three Ivan McKnight is the only one who has served in civic politics before, he having completed a term in 1927. Dr. Wright's entry makes his first appearance of a physician in the council body since the death of Ald. Dr. D. W. Ross.

Ald. C. Hedley Forbes who, it was reported would not offer again this year, has agreed to serve on the Council board for another term and has filed his papers.

His Worship Mayor Clark has again filed his papers and will take office for the eighth successive year. Ald. Moses Mitchell has again filed papers for alderman in Wellington Ward, thus filling out this year's slate.
