E. C. Atkinson, M. L. A., followed with a brief but vigorous speech. He felt honored as being present, but had not expected to be put down for a speech. He was glad to note an improvement in conditions in the province, particularly with regard to lumbering operations. All looked forward to the year 1934 with increased confidence, and hoped during the year that the problem of relief could be eliminated. He wished the new members of the council successful careers and hoped all would have a Happy New Year.

The Devon Quartette at this stage rendered another selection, which made a great hit and was encored.

City Of Fredericton

Major John S. Scott, secretary-treasurer in a pithy speech proposed the health of the city of Fredericton. He congratulated the warden on his election and like his brother had known the family for these generations. He also congratulated Mayor Clark on his re-election. He had known the mayor since boyhood and thirty years ago had been associated with him at the city council. The name of Mayor Clark was complied with the toast.
