"HEARTS AND FACES"

The following is a quotation from the Literary Notes of the John Lane Company, book publishers, London, England, which has just been received:

"Hearts and Faces," by J. Murray Gibbon, published on May 15, is already in its second edition.

J. Murray Gibbon's novel, "Hearts and Faces," contains more of the glow and vivacious parade of the real spirit of the real domain of art in the French capital than anything hitherto written in English, is a native of Ceylon. He is a graduate of Oxford and took several courses in philosophy at various German universities. In London he became editor of the well known illustrated paper, Black and White, but realizing that he did not know as much as he wanted to about art, he resigned and went to Paris to become an art student. He lived in the famous Latin quarter at night and spent the days in Colarossi's atelier. Then he went to Italy and Algiers, Japan and China, and many other countries. He has now an official position on the Canadian Pacific Railway, and as the busiest men are those who find most time to do things, while he has been attending to his railroad duties with one hand he has been writing "Hearts and Faces" with the other.

LANGUAGE OF THE CHEST.

A doctor hears some curious noises when he places the stethoscope against your chest to test whether you are fit for the army or not. When the lungs are healthy, a pleasant breezy sound, soft in tone, is heard as the breath is drawn in and expelled. If the stethoscope conveys to his ear a gurgling or bubbling sound, the doctor knows that you are in what is known as the moist stage of bronchitis. In the dry stage of the same complaint the sound is a whistling, wheezy tone.

One of the signs of pneumonia is the soft crackling note that comes through the stethoscope. It is not unlike the sound that can be heard when your finger and thumb have touched a sticky substance and you first place them together and then part them, holding them close to your ear.

Doctors occasionally hear a dripping sound, and that tells them that air and water have got into some part of the chest where they have no right.

JOINT POLITICAL MEETING ATTRACTED BIG CROWD

Mr. Carvell's Crushing Exposure of Local Government Boodling--Good Order Prevailed and Speakers Had Attentive Hearing--Rev. Chaplain Bulloch Was on Hand as a Reserve Force--Interruptors Were Squelched by Carvell.

Moncton, N.B., May 28.—Carleton county loomed large in the political contest in Westmorland yesterday.

The man who led the prosecution in the investigation against Premier J. K. Flemming, F. B. Carvell, Federal member of parliament for Carleton county, and who had him condemned for taking bribes from railway contractors and lumbermen, and B. Frank Smith, member for Carleton in the Provincial Legislature, and successor to and defender of the deposed Premier, met at a huge open-air meeting in the city, and the champion of the wrong-doer and his successor, the present Government, found it impossible and did not attempt to answer the unassailable and damning array of facts presented by Mr. Carvell.

There must have been between 3,000 and 4,000 people in the crowd. The day was cloudless, the weather perfect, and workmen from the government shops and factories, farmers attracted by the Saturday market and the prospect of good speeches, strangers from the trains that stopped half an hour at the station, which was directly opposite the speaking balcony, all hastened to and clustered about the Brunswick hotel, whose manager had placed his balcony at the disposal of the Opposition for the Carvell meeting.

Ex-Premier in Chair.

An ex-Premier, Hon. C. W. Robinson, was in the chair, and that veteran representative of Westmorland, Amasa E. Killam, and Councillor Keith, with Dr. Price and Rev. Captain C. S. Bulloch, were on the balcony with the two principal speakers and L. A. Dugal, M.P.P.

For nearly three hours—from 1.40 to 4.20—all the crowd stood and listened.

There was splendid order and not an incident to mar the meeting until Mr. Carvell was making his reply to B. F. Smith, when three members of the Legislature, W. F. Humphrey, Titus Carter and Hon. Speaker Melanson, who were standing just below the speakers, tried to interrupt Carvell. They got more than they bargained for. When Carvell was ridiculing Smith's assertion that the government had freely given a royal commission to investigate Flemming, instead of a committee of the House, and told how he himself (Carvell) had gone to Lieut. Gov. Wood after Dugal had laid his charges and had given him reasons and evidence why it was in the public interest that the inquiry should be by royal commission, and had even suggested the name of the late Sir Frederic Barker as a fair and impartial man to hold such an inquiry, Humphrey, from his place in the crowd shouted: "That's a lie."

Carvell—"It is the truth, every word. Every word is true!"

Humphrey still persisting, Mr. Carvell said: "I know you, Bill Humphrey, and I know I have touched you on the raw, but that doesn't alter the facts. You don't know the facts. You never had any chance to know them. If you don't take my word for it, ask the Lieutenant Governor if what I have stated is not correct."

And Humphrey Subsidized.

Humphrey subsided, and it was time for there were plenty around who did not take his interruptions kindly, and there might have been trouble.

Mr. Carvell had hardly got started again when Titus Carter broke in with a question: "What about the Kitchen contract?"

Titus Carter was just as unfortunate at "Bill" Humphrey. Carvell turned and called out: "Here comes Titus Carter. He asks about the Kitchen contract, and if you, Titus Carter, or any other man, will make a statement similar to that published in the Woodstock Press at that time, I'll have you arrested just as I had the editor of that paper arrested."

Titus Carter subsided, and the crowd howled with delight.

Then it was that Mr. Carvell dealt with Smith's denial of tremendous profit in the purchase and sorting of the patriotic potatoes. Smith got excited, and so did Dr. Price and their friend, Rev. C. S. Bulloch. But Mr. Carvell, with the auditor's reports for 1914 and 1915 in his hand, charged Smith and A. C. Smith with handling $104,000 of the patriotic potato funds and there was not a line or item in the auditor's report to show that B. Frank Smith had paid back one cent, as he claimed he had.

"There's the report of the Auditor General," shouted Carvell amid the wild cheering of the crowd. "Look for yourself," and he held the book close to Smith and then turned the pages to the vast crowd. "Anyone of you can see for yourself. Don't take my word for it."

The scene that followed reminded one much of the famous rink meeting at Sussex, when Carvell met George W. Fowler in 1908 and with the evidence of the Foresters Insurance Commission in his hand, demanded that Fowler read a portion of the testimony concerning his connection with the transaction. Fowler refused and the meeting broke up.

Undignified Conduct.

The meeting yesterday did not last long after this incident. The chairman kept every speaker to his time and the agreement, and B. Frank's plea for "ten minutes" was not entertained.

Hon. Speaker Melanson shouted many angry interruptions as Carvell was making his reply, and in doing so, or being present at all, paraded his high office and himself in a way to cause much unfavorable comment.

Another incident that caused much surprise was the presence of Rev. Captain C. S. Bulloch on this political platform. It will be remembered that this is the Yankee who was in the American Legion at Toronto and who took occasion to try and connect F. B. Carvell with improperly employing a man named Rogers to get information from private documents for the false investigation. The story was false from first to last.

Carvell's Meeting at All Times.

It was Carvell's meeting from the moment he began to speak. He attempted no flowery presentation of his case, but was relentless in his presentation of his case to the listening electors. With documentary proofs and the official reports in his hand, he drove every argument home. The political crimes of the government, the wholesale graft in the Valley Railway, the pilfering overcharges in connection with New Brunswick's patriotic and loyal gift to the Motherland, were all dealt with in pitiless fashion.

Carvell foreshadowed Smith's answer to everything—the sins of the government put out of power by the people in 1908—and gave his answer in advance, that the people were not trying the old government, but the present administration; that no man or men in private or public life could excuse his crimes against his fellow men or the state by pleading that some one had done a similar wrong years ago.

SAME OLD STORY FROM CAPE BRETON

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured When Doctors Failed.

Mr. M. A. Morrison Suffered from Kidney Disease for Five Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Tarbot, Victoria Co., C.B., May 29.—(Special)—Cured of kidney trouble of five years' standing and of which three doctors failed to cure him. Mr. M. A. Morrison, a well-known resident of that place, has no hesitation in stating that he owes his health to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was so weak I could not walk a quarter of a mile and today I am able to attend to my work as well as I was twenty years ago," Mr. Morrison says. "For five years I suffered from Kidney Disease. I was treated by three skillful doctors but got no benefit."

"Then a friend advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I went to the druggist and got five boxes. Before I had used four boxes I was completely cured."

"I advise anyone suffering from kidney disease to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Anyone who wants to know more about my cure has only to write to me and I will tell them all about it."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no experiment. They have been curing kidney disease in all parts of Canada for a quarter of a century. Ask your neighbors about them.

"WORK" AS A CURE.

"We hear a lot about the rest cure," remarked an energetic business woman the other day, "but suppose some one stands up and says something for the work cure?"

"I mean it. I've just been visiting a friend of mine who hasn't a solitary blessed thing to do from one week's end to another except amuse herself. And she's about the most worn-out specimen you can find in a day's journey. She has this thing the matter with her and that thing the matter; she spends an average of ten hours a week interviewing her harassed doctor and trying all sorts of fancy cures. What she really needs is a real good day's work six days out of the seven."

We listened with respect because this particular business woman wasn't given to rash speech.

"Before I got into business," she continued, finding there was no opposition, "I was something of a crank myself—crank on the subject of poor health. My life was empty. I had a couple of old servants who ran the house better than I could. We had no children. My husband made plenty of money and I'd never learnt to occupy myself with anything that would use up a tenth part of my vital energy."

"I was presently sent away for a rest cure. Rest! It makes me laugh nowadays. If I hadn't been forced to get out and hustle when my husband fell ill I suppose I should be a confirmed invalid by now. But luckily I was sentenced to the work cure in time, and I've not had a sick or peevish day since. When my husband recovered I went in as his partner and we've made things hum."

He referred to the charges made two years ago by Mr. Dugal. He was not going into details. When these investigations were started Mr. Carvell was painted as the natural born enemy of honest men, yet he had proved that $75,000 of the people's money was taken for a campaign fund.

Mr. Carvell next discussed the St. John Valley Railway and reviewed the agreement between the Dominion and Provincial governments. The Provincial government, he said, has broken faith with the people. They have no intention of building that road beyond Centreville. Mr. Summer of Moncton, told me that they did not intend to build the road beyond Centreville. If he is in this audience let him speak up and deny that. (Pause and no response.)

B. Frank Smith, in his remarks, referring to the Flemming charges, said, amid much laughter that he would not say Flemming did what was right. "A few of you may laugh. I am not here to preach that he did right." Mr. Smith went on to say that Mr. Flemming, however, had done more for the province of New Brunswick in one year than Mr. Carvell had done during all the years of his life, and contended that the province now had the best administration since the days of Confederation.

In his reply to Smith, Mr. Carvell dealt quickly with Smith's weak "old government" arguments, and advised the audience that he had told them what Smith would say. He then dealt with the patriotic potatoes and W. F. Humphrey and Titus Carter, as noted above.

Mr. Dugal made an impressive speech in his native tongue. He was attentively listened to and the French-speaking people were delighted with his eloquence.
