MONDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1916

But under the circumstances I determined that the Government was right, and I determined to place at its disposal whatever influence I had with my fellow-countrymen. I have loyally supported all the war measures of the Government, have appealed to all classes of my fellow-citizens to rise to the occasion and do their share, not only in contributing money, but in the ranks by doing battle for the great cause. And I am here today for the same purpose and object, to appeal to my fellow-countrymen of all origins to do their duty, and ask all who can go to take their places amongst those who are contending for the cause of civilization on the fields of France and Flanders.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Brome.

WHEN WILL THE WAR END?

General Brusiloff, the great military leader of Russia, who in June last annihilated an army of 450,000 Austrians, recently gave out an interview in which he made the prediction that the war would end in August, 1917. After expressing his satisfaction at the entry of Roumania into the war, he said:

"To my mind, the Austro-Hungarian Empire, assailed from all sides, will not be able to stand much longer before the hordes of enemies who are hurling themselves against her, and are preparing to increase the vigor of their blows.

"The hostile army which I had in front of me in June and July is almost entirely exterminated or captured, but it has been speedily replaced by a conglomerate army, in which are to be found enemies of every origin. It is composed in the first place of the very last soldiers which Austria and Hungary can put in the line, and of which some have been hurriedly drawn from the Italian front and from the western front, and, finally, of some Turks.

"That army, more numerous just now than the one which stood in front of me in June, is indeed the supreme guard, the last living rampart of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. That army resists desperately on its strong mountain positions, which must be carried one after the other by storm. We are advancing step by step; nevertheless we are advancing, and the spirit of our army remains very bright and very high. Soon the co-operation of the brave Roumanian army will facilitate for us the obtaining of definite results."

Referring to the Anglo-French drive on the western front, General Brusiloff said:

"I follow with the greatest attention the admirable offensive efforts carried into effect on the western front by the Anglo-French armies. I fully realize the huge difficulties which you have to overcome. I understand the enormous obstacles you have to overthrow, but I am, nevertheless, fully convinced that your efforts will result in the rupture of the German front. It is for men an absolute certainty.

"The offensive of the Franco-British armies helps us here in that it prevents the Germans from sending against us too heavy reinforcements. They are, all the same, drawing a certain amount of troops from the west and sending them against us, but not to such an extent that they can have a determining influence. They may simply delay our moving forward, and that is all.

"By the way, I should add that Great Britain, in creating in two years a huge army of four million men, has accomplished a marvel which most military men before this war would have considered absolutely impossible. It is a great credit to her patriotism, to her sense of organization, and to the in-born discipline of her population."

Questioned in regard to the probable duration of the war, he said:

"The game is already won. I said so two years ago, and I did not change my mind one year ago, when dearth of munitions obliged us to undergo great trials. Now you will ask me when in my opinion, it may be supposed that the true peace will be signed—a peace which the Allies will be able to accept with the joy of an entirely fulfilled task. I am no prophet. The future is in the hands of God; but if I had absolutely to make a hypothesis, I should be inclined to think that the month of August, 1917, might see the end of our memorable work."

Halifax Chronicle: The suggestion has been made that a silver cross be awarded to the mothers of Canadian soldiers who have fallen in the war. The idea has been put forward by Mr.

W. A. Fraser, the author, who, by the way, we think, is a Nova Scotian, in a letter to the press, and it appeals to all the deepest and finest sentiments. It would be unique. No other country has done anything of this kind, and Canada, the Toronto Star thinks, might well begin it. "The silver cross would be the emblem of the valor of women, the heroism of motherhood, in the sacrifices which the war has imposed." We quite agree with the suggestion, and trust that the government will promptly adopt it.

Hon. John Costigan, Senator, who died last week at Ottawa, was the nestor of the Canadian Parliament, having been continuously in public life for the long period of fifty-five years. Hon. Mr. Costigan's last public appearance in this province was at a banquet given in this city in honor of Mr. F. B. Carvell, M. P., and Mr. L. A. Dugal. He made a speech, in the course of which he declared that at the last election he had written Mr. Carvell stating that if he had a thousand votes he would give them to him, even were it necessary to crawl to Woodstock on his hands and knees to do so.

Farmer's Advocate: There should be more work for the representative in parliament than shaking hands with all party voters, promoters and heelers and being an all-round good fellow to those on the party's patronage list, and there is. What the country wants is men who will do its work.

Flour is some flyer.

The call of the woods just now suggests that it's time to buy a few cords.

Some day congregations will go on strike for an eight-minute sermon.

In the hall of wisdom you never see any "no-loud-talking" signs.

Of course it ain't just out of patriotism or philanthropy that the moose is helping out the meat problem.

Speaking about great inventors and benefactors of the human race, how about the fellow who first hit upon the promissory note?

There's only one way to account for those regular Saturday night Zeppelin raids. Those Germans go raiding to escape taking their Sunday bath.

The automobile has some points of superiority over the horse, but it will never snuggle a soft nose against your cheek or bite you in the neck.

Beginning October 1st, the salaries of all German officers, from the Minister of War down to the lowest lieutenant, will be reduced substantially. Business is poor and pay is being cut; ultimately all the help may have to look for other jobs.

While farmers struggled, short handed, to harvest their crop, that the nation might live, thousands of able-bodied city men enjoyed a vacation at their favorite summer resort, and growled to one another about the high cost of living.

SHOT HIS WIFE,

THEN SUICIDED

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 30.—Joseph Talin shot and probably fatally wounded his wife while she was in her way to work early today, and then killed himself.

The shooting, according to the police, was due to the woman's refusal to adjust differences which had been the cause of the separation of the couple for several years.

Do not, for one repulse, forego the purpose that you resolved to effect.

A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear skin—glowing with health—is only the natural result of pure blood.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring Rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without 'Fruit-a-tives'."

MUCH INTEREST IN

PARTINGTON SALE

Bangor, Me., Oct. 1.—Announcement of the sale of the Partington Pulp & Paper Company's property at St. John and throughout the province of New Brunswick has been received here and in Maine lumber circles with the greatest interest.

Hon. Nathaniel M. Jones, who had just been in conference with capitalists, could not be seen at a late hour tonight. But his son, Sidney M. Jones, has said that his father had assured him that the sale was practically completed.

It will be completely wound up before the end of this month, he said, the purchase being made by a syndicate of Maine and New York capitalists, headed by Hugh Chisholm, president of the Oxford Paper Co., of Rumford Falls, and Maynard S. Bird, of Portland. The purchase price was more than $2,000,000. Included in the sale is 500,000 acres of valuable timber lands, both freehold and crown lands.

The new syndicate, Mr. Jones said, is not prepared to make any statement as to the plans of developing the plant, and in fact has not reached a decision as yet on that point. Mr. Jones leaves Bangor at 3.45 Monday morning for St. John.

It is pretty well understood that the sale means an extension of the plant at Union Point, St. John, with possibly the introduction of news print manufacture, and is likely to prove an important industrial event in the history of St. John.

ANOTHER ZEPPELIN

WAS BROUGHT DOWN

London, Oct. 2.—Another Zeppelin raid against London and the east coast of England is in progress. An airship is reported to have been brought down in flames north of London, according to the official statement issued shortly after midnight. The statement reads:

"A number of hostile airships crossed the east coast between 9 o'clock and midnight. A few bombs were dropped near the coast, but no damage is yet reported.

"The raid is still in progress, and smaller ships are in the vicinity of London, where some guns have been in action.

"An airship is reported to have been brought down in flames north of London."

Great crowds cheered the spectacle of the burning Zeppelin as it fell in the London district. The great flares from the burning aircraft was visible for a long distance.

Sweet are the uses of adversity, which, like the toad, ugly and venomous, wears yet a precious jewel in its head; and this our life exempts from public haunts, finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in everything.
