RECIPES WORTH TRYING.

Halibut Baked a Fine Brown Color.

Halibut, a little butter, salt and water, a tablespoon walnut catsup, a dessert-spoonful of Worcestershire sauce, the juice of a lemon, a little brown flour, a piece of halibut weighing 5 or 6 pounds. Lay in salt and water 2 hours, wipe in a clean cloth and score the skin. Have the oven moderately hot and bake about an hour. Melt a little butter in hot water and baste the fish occasionally. It should be a fine brown color. Any gravy that is in the dripping pan mix with a little boiling water, then stir in the walnut catsup and Worcestershire sauce, the juice of the lemon and thicken with the brown flour, mixing with a little cold water previously, give one boil and serve in sauce-boat.

Honey Drop Cookies.

Two eggs, 1-2 cup butter, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup of honey, 11-2 teaspoons of caraway seed, little salt, flour (about three cups). Blend the honey and softened butter together, then add the well-beaten eggs. Mix and sift 2 cups of flour, with the baking powder and salt, then add to the mixture. Add the caraway seed, blend all well together, then add enough flour, sifted, to make a stiff dough. Drop from a teaspoon onto buttered baking sheet about two inches apart and bake in a hot oven until brown.

Pineapple Tapioca.

Half cup tapioca, half cup sugar, 4 cups water, 1 pint of canned pineapple, whipped cream, currant jelly.

Mix the tapioca and sugar together and add to the water, then cook until clear. When partly cooled mix with the chopped canned pineapple, then chill. When ready to serve, garnish top with cubes of currant jelly and serve with whipped cream.

Slants of Humor

A young mother who still considers macel waves the most fashionable way of dressing the hair was at work.

The precocious child was crouched on its father's lap, the baby fingers now and then sliding over the smooth and glossy plate which is father's.

"No waves for you, father," remarked the little one. "You're all beach."

How's the baby?" inquired the neighbor of the new father.

"Fine," said the proud parent.

"Don't you find that a baby brightens up the household wonderfully?" pursued the friend.

"Yes," said the parent with a sigh. "We have the gas going most of the night now."

At a public court recently a miner was charged with stealing a hen, the property of a neighbor.

"I didn't steal it," protested the prisoner. "I just found it. The door of my back yard was open and I found her just walked in and got shut up in a coal-house somehow."

"But you kept the hen a week, well knowing the real owner," said the judge.

"Yes I did," admitted the prisoner.

"Then why didn't you return it at once?"

"I was going to do so, yer worship as soon as she'd done laying!" calmly remarked the prisoner.

A quaker fell asleep in meeting and soon began to snore. For a while the nasal notes were soft and smooth and did not disturb the worshippers, but finally the sleeper let out a few extra kinks and the effect was a trifle disconcerting.

"Friend Hezekiah," whispered an acquaintance, digging the other in the ribs, "I think thee had better arouse thyself."

"What did thee say? What did thee say?" cried Hezekiah, somewhat confused, "What is the matter?"

"Nothing, Friend Hezekiah," was the quiet rejoinder of the other, "only thee was snoring a little and I was afraid that outsiders might think the spirit had moved thee to a trombone solo instead of an expression of thy convictions."

This little example of Irish wit was related at a recent dinner of the Wheel club.

A newly landed son of Erin was gaping along a New York street when he chanced to turn into the office of a lawyer, thinking it was a store. He was considerably impressed with the fine furnishings, and approaching the only occupant of the room, a man busy at a desk, asked:

"Could you be telling what you sell here in this fine place?"

"Certainly," was the retort, uttered in rather an impatient tone. "We sell block-heads."

The Irishman looked around and nodded in understanding.

"Sure and you must have a fine trade, I'm thinking," he commended. "You have but one left."

WORLDLY WISDOM.

A student of human nature says that many a man becomes a loafer because he is too light for heavy work and too heavy for light work.

No man ever told a woman the whole truth. He hasn't enough strength left after he has recovered from the storm he has caused by telling her just a little bit of truth.

WHERE COURTESY AND QUALITY GO HAND-IN-HAND

YOU can save Belgian lives!

Though you cannot fight and kill Germans, you can give and save some of their helpless Belgian victims, three million of whom must be fed or starve.

So little is needed to feed a Belgian family, and so economically are contributions handled by the Belgian Relief Commission, that there are very few of us who could not provide for at least one family through this winter, or till the end of the war.

$2.50 a month—less than 10c. a day—will do it! How easily you could save that much from your little indulgences—and how much it would mean to some Belgian mother and her hungry little ones!

Wouldn't a little self-denial now be richly repaid by knowing, when the war is over, that you had done your part, and had saved precious lives for our unfortunate Allies?
