ACTOR LOST TO STAGE WHEN SUNDAY WENT ON TRAIL TO FIGHT RUM

(Boston Record.)

Detroit, Oct. 27.—A great actor was lost to the stage when Billy Sunday turned evangelist.

His preaching is full of what stage folk call "business." His effects are carefully calculated, but so well done that they seem spontaneous. He is so letter perfect in them that they are a part of him. Yet he never repeats.

Hear a Sunday sermon the second time and there are numerous changes not only in the words and similes, but likewise in the dramatizations. He is a wizard at improvising dramatic effects.

Until you have heard all of his "high point" deliveries, which number perhaps a dozen, you can't be sure that you have seen him at his best. Even then you can't be sure, for a new inspiration may seize him at any moment—he is marvelously sensitive to currents of feeling from his congregation—and impel him to a new climax, excelling any that has preceded.

Impossible to Report.

If there is one subject which stirs him utterly, it is the drink evil. I heard his famous broadside against booze. It was so impetuous, so compelling, that I forgot my intent to take notes and was swept along, like the 14,999 other masculine chips on the current of his torrent, at the moment oblivious to his wonderful technique.

I find that this is a common experience of the trained newspaper workers who try to report him. Heaven pity the reporter at a Sunday meeting. Not one can keep up. Not one can find words to "put over" the voltage, the versatility, the "punch"—they are just indescribable. But, thinking back, I recall one or two effects.

His Mastery of Figures.

After a machine gun volley of staggering figures showing the tremendous economic waste in the booze business

—how the $2,290,500,000 which American workmen yearly spend on the strong waters, added to the extra police, jail, court and asylum costs, would build eight Panama canals each twelve months; cast in $20 gold pieces, would make a pile 136 miles high; in silver dollars set side by side would reach from New York to Seattle and back to Salt Lake City; in 10c. pieces could be made into a silver ribbon that would wrap the globe ten times; in four years could pave a 16-foot auto road from the earth to the moon, a distance of 240,000 miles; could provide 1,570,000 workers each year with better than a $2,000 home each; could buy annually four cotton crops, three wheat crops, one and a half corn crops; could build a series of Atlantic-to-Pacific highways all down the land from the Great Lakes to the Gulf only 12 miles apart; could in eight years replace all our railroads, terminal and realty values included; could annually come within $400,000,000 of equalling the total capital and surplus of all our banks, state, national and private. He headed an imaginary parade of ex-drunkards to the meat market, the dry goods store, the grocery.

He Carried the Flag.

Seizing an American flag, he unfurled it, shouldered it, cried "Attention! All—ready!" And, measuring each step with a "Hip—hip—hip," led his column the full length of the platform space, wheeled and halted before the market door; went through in pantomime the purchase of great lots of sirloin steak, mimicking the surprise of the dealer that the men insisted on paying cash for the best cuts instead of getting "neck" on tick; enacted the rush of the dealer to the telephone to call Chicago on the long distance for a rush order and quoted this colloquy:

"What's the matter?" asks Chicago. "Matter!" exclaims the local dealer. "Nothing's the matter, only the whole damn bunch is on the water wagon and buying beefsteak!"

Then another signal from the flag, another "hip—hip—hip," and the parade is continued, to halt in front of the dry goods store, and in turn the grocery, where similar "business" ensues.

A Typical Climax.

But the climax comes when Billy, after enacting a visit to the flour mill and the saw mill, to see what kind of raw material they use and whether their finished product represents an increase in social value, halts dramatically in front of the gin mill and beckons to 12 bright-eyed lads of high school age, w hostep forward and form a semi-circle behind him.

"What do you make of these boys, your raw material?" Billy asks of the gin mill; and explosively answers:

"Thieves! Thugs! Bums! Outcasts! I wouldn't give one of these boys for all the saloons this side of hell. I serve notice now on that rotten gin mill gang that if they want to lay foul hands on any more boys like these they will have to go over my dead body to do it!"

In front of the curve of boys, as does Richelieu in the play, he draws with the flag the circle of protection; then turns swiftly to the audience and asks how many of its men will help.

Do you wonder that those 15,000 sprang to their toes as one man?

BAD ROADS ARE COSTLY.

The Direct Cost Great, and the Indirect Cost Even Greater.

There is no need of discussing the importance of good roads, writes Hon. David F. Houston in the Review of Reviews. They are essential to the improvement of the social life of the nation.

Bad roads are very expensive possessions. It is estimated that it costs 23 cents under existing conditions to haul a ton a mile on the average country road and only 13 cents on a properly improved road, but this is not all the story. The direct cost is very great and the indirect costs are possibly even greater.

With bad roads the farmer is compelled to haul when he should be engaged in other activities, while with good roads he can plan his operations without reference to the weather. The states and municipalities have been strikingly recognized these truths by greatly increasing their appropriations and by devising better machinery.

WINNIPEG EDITORS

UP FOR CONTEMPT

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 31.—By order of the court of King's Bench, sitting en banc this morning, Edward Beck and Charles F. Roland, of the Winnipeg Telegram, are to appear before the court on December 11th, or some other date to be arranged, in connection with articles published in the Telegram on Saturday last, and held by counsel for the Attorney General to be contempt of court.

Isaac Pitblado, K.C., appeared before the court and moved for a rule nisi on behalf of the Attorney General for an order that Edward Beck and Charles F. Roland, of the Telegram Printing Company, Ltd., be, or that some one or other of them be, committed or otherwise dealt with for contempt of court.

The article complained of was quoted from the Halifax Herald and dealt with the proceedings against Knox Magee for alleged contempt of court.

Mr. Pitblado presented various affidavits and quoted numerous contempt cases from law books.

"I intended to urge," he said, "that all news is not publishable. There must not be trial by newspapers of matters before the courts."

He described contempt of court as not a crime in the ordinary sense, but "an offence against the inherent jurisdiction of the courts."

Chief Justice Mathers said counsel had established his claim for a rule which was also made returnable against the Telegram Printing Co.

The respondents were not represented by counsel this morning.

25 CENTS CURES YOUR

DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

Save Your Hair! Make It Thick, Wavy and Beautiful—Try This.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy, and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

For softening wall paper preparatory to removing it from walls, an Indianapolis man has invented a steam jet that gets its steam from a heating radiator through a rubber tube.
