SOUNDED THE DEATH KNELL OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Grafters Who Have Been Plundering the Public Treasury Have Been Served with
Notice to Quit--Those Who Supplied
the Boodle Will Now Look for a Chance
Recoup Themselves.

Moncton, May 31.—The amazement felt last night by the local government supporters at the defeat of their new Minister of Public Works has turned into dismay this morning. It is more than dismay. They feel it is the death-knell of Murray, Baxter and Landry, and of the boodlers who have been fattening upon provincial plunder. The contractors who helped to raise $40,000 for Westmorland, to defeat the honest will of the people, must be watched at every turn. They gambled for a big stake and lost. They will move heaven and earth to persuade the schemers in the government to remain in power and enable them to get back the money that was spent yesterday.

What will the government do? They can get along for a time with an acting Minister of Public Works, but the people will not be satisfied with any such course. There is not a safe constituency in New Brunswick in which to choose a minister. There are two vacancies in St. John city. Let the government open that constituency and name a new Minister of Public Works. No doubt this principal centre in the province would welcome the chance to give the answer.

The Lieutenant Governor is the man of the hour. The people generally in this section are looking to him to look after the public interests. In Manitoba the Governor saw the situation and grappled with it, and there was a dissolution of the House, and the people got their chance.

In New Brunswick the conditions are far worse, and Lieut. Governor Wood should not be ignorant of them. He has had much truth in sworn evidence, he has heard facts from the lips of some advisers and it is contended that there is a plain duty before him.

The friends of good government should send protests to the Governor asking his interference and to give them a chance to vote. Every centre should call all friends of honest government together, irrespective of their politics, and pass resolutions calling upon the Governor to dissolve the Legislature and ask his government to go to the people.

Propositions involving millions are involved. This is too great an opportunity to repeat the grave errors of the past. The people should not be subjected to even a possibility of being plundered again.

The Figures.

The Standard's contention that the bilingual question was introduced is absurd. It was not heard of during the campaign. If it had any influence why were opposition majorities so small in the French districts?

In Sackville, Dorchester and Salisbury at least the vote was large, considering the many khaki absentees from the county and the fact that it was a by-election. In Sackville there were 1,353 voters on the list and 1,015 votes were polled. In Shediac there were 1,237 votes polled out of a total of 1,649; in Salisbury 638 out of 948; in Dorchester 1,046 out of 1,390.

Moncton parish has many absentees, and this accounts for the smaller vote, only 996 out of 1,721 on the list. But if the opposition gained 194 majority out of such a small vote, it is a question in simple proportion what would have been the majority had the whole list been polled?

In Botsford there were 928 votes polled out of 1,200 on the list.

Fred Magee and P. G. Mahoney stood at Oulton's, the home poll of both of them. Magee was the chairman of the Opposition forces in the county, and Mahoney was the candidate. Magee won against tremendous odds of money and liquor by fifteen votes.

There were nearly 6,300 votes polled Tuesday, about 180 less than in June, 1912, and the organizer, E. S. Carter, desires all the friends of the Opposition in the province to know that not one of their votes was bought, and there was not a request to the executive for money or liquor from opposition supporters. It was a good clean election from the opposition standpoint. The complete returns this morning gave Smith 82 majority.

There is a demand from many that the wholesale bribery methods used should be probed. No matter if Smith did win, there is duty on the part of the opposition to put an end to this kind of electioneering, and an impartial enquiry would create several more vacancies in the Legislature.

Congratulations.

Mr. Carter has been getting many telegrams from all over the province congratulating him and Mr. Veniot on the result. One that he values comes from the former M. P. of his own county, Dr. D. H. McAllister, for whose victorious election in 1908 Mr. Carter organized. Dr. McAllister wired:

"Heartly congratulations on the magnificent victory in Westmorland, which is due in a great degree to your never-tiring energy to give the people of New Brunswick a more business-like government."

F. B. Carvell wired his congratulations to Mr. Carter and "the boys" from Ottawa. Telephones and telegrams from all over the province kept pouring in, delighted that Westmorland had done its duty.

TIPS FROM THE GARDENER.

People are always asking him what annual flowers can be grown in the shade. Few flowers of any kind will grow in absolute shade, but several annuals will thrive with very little direct sunlight. Balsams are especially good for shady places and bloom all summer. Then there is mimulus, often called the musk flower; brachycome, or Swan River daisy; torenia, a dainty little flower which more people ought to know; linum, or scarlet flax, which is an excellent plant for bedding, and schizanthus, or the butterfly flower.

A WAVE MOTOR.

The St. John Board of Trade industries committee has received correspondence from the inventor of a wave motor at Austin, Texas, who wants a chance to try out his invention among the waves of the Bay of Fundy. The motor is attached to the sea bottom and by means of swinging doors power is generated and transmitted to shore, where it may be distributed.

Poverty is not a crime—but that isn't the reason so many people are poor.

THINKS NAME' SMITH, A WINNER IN POLITICS

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—Whether a surname as an issue can win a responsible political position is being tried out in a spirited race for the Alabama member of the Democratic National Committee. Borden Burr and Edward D. Smith, both prominent lawyers of Birmingham, both Democrats with records of service to the party and both influential in the State's political life, are contesting the honor. There is no well defined issue, so Smith is raising one on his name.

"From the way the Smiths of Alabama are expressing themselves I am beginning my campaign with a big start in votes," says Smith. "When the Smiths of Alabama get in behind anything it usually moves with a rush. It's a funny thing about the Smiths that their first names are usually used to designate them. These first names range all the way from Percival to Bill and Jim, but as a class they rank comparatively high, and they stick close together."

Mr. Smith is literally flooded with letters from every part of the State declaring the writers will support him in his candidacy because they are willing to bank on that name Smith.

"I'm for anybody named Smith," wrote one of them from Baldwin county.

"Schmidt Uber Alles," came the message from a member of the Fulton branch in Sullivan county, which is populated almost wholly by Germans.

"Hurrah for the Snythes! We are for 'em," wrote a prosperous member of the tribe from Mobile.

And so it goes. Every mail brings Mr. Smith letters from other Smiths declaring that the clan should stand together, and that he can count on them. There are more Smiths in Alabama than in any other State proportionate with population.

H. PRICE WEBBER MEETS OLD FRIEND

(St. John Globe.)

Mr. H. Price Webber and company played a four nights' engagement at Stanley, York county, last week, with the production of The Governor's Wife. A crowded house greeted Mr. Webber, and the performance delighted the large audience.

During the curtain speech, Mr. Webber mentioned the fact that in the audience was Mr. Michael McDade of St. John, whom he had known as a newspaperman and who had been an acquaintance of forty years. He expressed his pleasure at again meeting Mr. McDade.

The latter, in reply to Mr. Webber's speech, said that he had known the veteran showman for a great number of years and referred to his long and honorable career on the stage and in other lines of endeavor before he took up the theatrical work. Mr. McDade complimented Mr. Webber on his good, clean and respectable performance and stated that the public were always assured of such productions from Mr. Webber.

Slants Of Humor

A CINCH.

Rhyme spoon with moon and love with dove,
And Miss with kiss and Bliss,
And 'twont be hard to be a bard
And write a poem like this—
O, how I love my turtle-dove,
And how I love to spoon,
And O, the bliss to kiss the Miss
Beneath the silvery moon.

Rhyme hot with swat and flies with wise,
And Spring with sing, and sting,
And you'll agree, I think, with me,
To rhyme's a simple thing—
If you'd be wise, prepare for flies,
Ere comes the weather hot,
For with the Spring they sing and sting,
And that's the time to swat.

SPRING HEADGEAR.

One buckle on my wifey's hat
She says cost seven dollars flat.

The ribbons, beads and plumes galore
Of which it boasts cost many more.

But wives must shine—so runs the law,
I'll buy myself a dollar straw.

HUNTING VOLUNTEERS.

"Madam, we are getting up a training camp—"
"I didn't raise my boy to be a soldier."
"Exactly. And that is why we are getting up this training camp for girls."
