HARVARD STUDENT BACK FROM TRENCHES

(Canadian Press.)
New York, N.Y., Jan. 10.—William E. Crombie, twenty-three, a Harvard student, who went to England in March, 1915, enlisted as a private and was promoted for bravery in action to the rank of lieutenant, arrived today on the steamship Cameronia from Liverpool.

Lieut. Crombie is home on leave, having been wounded at the battle of Loos on October 13, when his brigade 960 strong, participated in a charge and came out with but 140 men. His home is in St. John, N.B., from which city many of the men of his battalion, the Sixth Canadian Field Artillery, were recruited.

The Cameronia, from Glasgow via Liverpool, was held two days beyond the scheduled sailing date at the latter port. This delay, according to some of the passengers, was due to reports that the government might take over the ship. The deaths of a child in the third class and a coal passer were directly due to a storm.

BILINGUAL ROW WAS NOT REPEATED

(Canadian Press.)
Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 10.—Anticipating efforts to enforce possession by the government commission of the Guigues bilingual school, a crowd of men and women varying at different times from two hundred to a thousand, lined up in front of that institution this morning. The school opened as usual without any repetition of Friday's disturbances. There were no police on the scene, no representatives of the government, commission or no happenings calculated to promote a clash.

What greatly intensified the curiosity was a report in a French paper on Saturday night that not only would police be on hand this morning but that a squad of soldiers would be there to assist them and if necessary to "shoot down" the mothers defending their children. The paper discredited the rumor but the publicity of it was evidently intended to arouse public interest and curiosity as to what would occur. At all times, however, morning, afternoon and night, the school is guarded by several scores of men without and by as many women within. The women's meals are brought to them and they come and go in relays.

QUEBEC LEGISLATIVE WILL OPEN TOMORROW

(Canadian Press.)
Quebec, Que., Jan. 10.—All is ready for the opening tomorrow of the fourth session of the Quebec legislature. At three o'clock tomorrow afternoon the speech from the throne will be read to assembled members of the two Houses, it being understood that a strong patriotic vein will thread the discourse.

NOTED JOURNALIST DIES IN LONDON.

London, Jan. 10.—Lord Burnham, proprietor of the Daily Telegraph, died here yesterday. He celebrated his 87th birthday on December 23 last and has been critically ill for several weeks.

He retired from active newspaper work several years ago and has lived quietly at his country home with his family.

Lord Burnham's eldest son, the Hon. Harry Lawson, is the active manager of the Daily Telegraph and has represented London districts in parliament since 1885.

Canada Temperance Act.

Two Canada Temperance Act cases the outcome of the recent raids made on the premises of Thomas Hayes, St. Mary's, will be heard in the police court tomorrow morning. On Saturday two convictions against Frank Hughes in first offense cases were made in the police court, making a total of $300 fines or six months' imprisonment on six convictions.

MET WITH ACCIDENT.

Victoria County News:—On Saturday afternoon, while Mrs. H. L. Alcorn and her maid were driving through Andover, the horse took fright near the foot bridge, upsetting the sleigh and occupants, and proceeded across the bridge to the barn at the rear of the Bank of Montreal. Mrs. Alcorn fortunately, escaped with a few bruises. Miss Cawthra, however, was more badly shaken up and has been confined to her bed for a few days.

SNOW FOLLOWS ZERO WEATHER.

A snowstorm set in this morning with prospects of continuing some time. The rise in temperature as welcome as there has been zero weather for some days. At the meteorological station of the University of New Brunswick a temperature of eight degrees below zero was registered last night, seven degrees below on Saturday night and eight degrees below on Friday night.

THE BRITISH WITHDRAWN FROM GALLIPOLI

Paris, Jan. 9, 6.10 p.m.—A despatch to The Temps from Saloniki says:

"The concentration of Austro-German troops around Monastir is confirmed. The Bulgarian forces, massed in the region of Gievgeli, Doran, Strumitza and Petrich, are estimated at five or six divisions (100,000 to 120,000.)"

London, Jan. 9.—The remaining positions held by the Allies on Gallipoli Peninsula have now been abandoned with the wounding of only one man among the British and French, according to a British official statement tonight.

This news has been expected for several days by the keener observers of the Near Eastern campaign, for the remnants of the troops from Anzac and Suvla Bay three weeks ago left no strategic advantage to the retention of the tip of the peninsula. Nevertheless, the news will be received with a pang of regret by the people of the British Isles, as well as the colonies.

Renewed activity of various kinds, noted by the Turkish official communications in the past few days, has presumably been in the nature of preparations for the final act of the Dardanelles tragedy. Tonight's Turkish official statement, covering the period from Thursday to Saturday, records increasing effectiveness of the reinforced Turkish batteries, which have been drawing in and concentrating on the Allies' remaining positions.

LOSE FINE BATTLESHIP.

Another pang to the British public will be caused by the announcement tonight of the loss of the battleship King Edward VII., which has been blown up by a mine. The British official statement on this subject does not reveal the scene of the disaster, and merely says that it occurred in a heavy sea, despite which the entire crew was saved before the ship went down. The King Edward VII represented an investment of nearly £1,600,000 and was one of the finest of the last class of pre-dreadnoughts. She was only slightly older than the Natal, which was sunk by an internal explosion about a week ago.

On the west and east fronts there have been no developments of large importance over the week-end. The German communication announces the capture of positions on Hartmanns-Weerkopf taken by the French a few days before Christmas.

Greek correspondents continue to assert that the Bulgarians and Germans are hastening plans for an attack on Saloniki. But the Austrians are fighting hard against the Russians and Montenegrians and the Bulgarians are largely occupied in a resolute attempt to reach the Adriatic, from which they are only forty miles distant at Elbassan, Albania.

INTERNAL SITUATION BRIGHTER

England's internal affairs are quiet, pending the re-assembling of parliament. There will be a full debate on the compulsion bill Tuesday, with David Lloyd George, minister of munitions, and Arthur Henderson, Labor member, who has just resigned from the cabinet, as the probable star speakers. Sir Henry Dalziel, who has been one of the most consistent critics of the government, will also give his reasons why he supports the government.

The Labor party will meet early in the week to consider its position. Unless, however, opposition to the bill develops a strength of which there is no indication now, there seems small likelihood that the government will feel need to appeal to the country.

CLAIM TRANSPORT WAS SENT TO BOTTOM

Berlin, Jan. 10, via Sayville wireless.—The sinking of a transport ship of the Allies, filled with troops, at the time of the withdrawal of the French and British forces from the tip of the Gallipoli Peninsula, is reported in Constantinople.

THE PERSIA SUNK WITHOUT WARNING

Washington, Jan. 10.—United States Consul Keflinger, at Halta, today advised the State Department that no new facts concerning the destruction of the steamer Persia were contained in affidavits he had taken from seven survivors, including Lord Montague, who had landed there. The survivors were unanimous in saying that though the officers of the ship were watching for submarines, none was seen and no warning was given.

HOUSE IN ST. MARY'S BURNED. Fire which began shortly before noon on Sunday destroyed the residence of Frank Howe in St. Mary's. The owner is now serving in the 55th Battalion in England. Mrs. Howe and Mrs. John Devine were in the house when the fire started and were told by passersby that the house was afire. Sawdust which was used in the walls as deafening made the fire burn very slowly. Residents of St. Mary's attempted to put out the fire by forming a bucket brigade, the house being on the hill and beyond the fire limits. It is thought the fire originated from a stove-pipe.

Mr. H. S. Arnold, of Montreal, is in the city.
