"With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphans, to do all which which may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."—Abraham Lincoln.

MR. HAZEN'S SECRETARY.

The Toronto Globe thinks that Hon. J. D. Hazen, when he refused to accept the resignation of his German-Canadian private secretary, Mr. Gustav Heidemann, when it was tendered by that gentleman committed a serious blunder.

The Ottawa Journal, a paper supporting the Government, speaking of the presence of men of German birth in confidential government posts, recently said:

"Probably the most conspicuous case on record is that of Gustav Heidemann, Secretary of the Minister of Marine and Naval Service, Hon. J. D. Hazen. Mr. Heidemann was born in Germany, and no doubt has relatives fighting there. He has been a long time in Canada, and is reputed an able and efficient secretary. His name appeared only on the most recent list issued from the Secretary of State's Department as having received full naturalization. Mr. Heidemann has access to all correspondence connected with Canadian coast defence, wireless, harbor patrols, and marine matters which come to the office of the Minister of Marine and Naval Service."

As the Toronto Globe, commenting on the above points out: Prince Louis of Battenberg was one of the most useful men in the British naval service before the war broke out, but because he was of German birth and had relatives who were fighting for the Kaiser as well as for Britain, public opinion forced the acceptance of his resignation as a Lord of the Admiralty. Mr. Heidemann's loyalty to the land of his adoption is probably as little open to question as that of Prince Louis, but Mr. Hazen had no right to insist on his retention of an office so highly confidential. Canada is at war. The enemy is crafty and unscrupulous to an extent beyond all precedent. The idea of any one of British birth in a confidential position at Berlin and being permitted access to documents on the safeguarding of which the lives of thousands of men might depend, is unthinkable. Mr. Hazen, the Globe says, should be requested by Sir Robert Borden to secure another confidential secretary. And if there are other officials of German birth in similar positions who have access to the inmost secrets of the country's defences, they should assuredly be transferred at once to posts of an entirely different sort. The people of Canada desire to be fair to citizens of German birth and ancestry, but they are not prepared to take the chances that Mr. Hazen has been taking in the Department of Naval Defence.

SHOULD TAKE NO CHANCES.

The Government has appointed a commission to investigate the origin of the Parliament buildings fire. The investigation should be of the most searching character. In this connection the Toronto Globe says that "the possibility that the fire was the work of someone within the public service must not be dismissed as unworthy of consideration. There are still men of German birth in places of responsibility at Ottawa, and the fact that they seem to be good Canadians ought not to be regarded as conclusive evidence that they are. The Globe has no desire to fan the flames of race hatred, but it does feel called upon to insist that no one of doubtful loyalty shall remain in a position where the temptation of Bernstorff's gold may prove too great for him. The tragedy at Ottawa brings home to the Canadian people, in a way perhaps nothing else could, the solemn truth that the Dominion is at war and that only unceasing vigilance will enable us to guard against the cowardly enemy within the gates whose weapons are the torch and the bomb." In a time such as this unjust suspicions are apt to be aroused, but we cannot afford to take any chances where the safety of our public institutions is at stake. It is too late to lock the barn after the horse is stolen.

Halifax Chronicle: "Hon. Arthur Meighen, who is the champion special pleader for the Government, seeks to unload responsibility for the defunct Shell Committee on the Imperial authorities. Does Hon. Mr. Meighen imagine that the public have forgotten that Major General Hughes boasted that the Shell Committee was the creature of his own foresight and genius. In fact, up to the time that Mr. D. A. Thomas, the British agent, made a few pertinent observations, Sir Sam was wont to tell admiring audiences that he had got his Shell Committee together and had arranged to manufacture munitions long before the Imperial authorities ever dreamt of doing so. Sir Sam has spoiled Mr. Meighen's nice little story."

It is almost time that the Federal Government was making another move towards establishing a mail service on the St. John Valley Railway. It is now some weeks since the matter was last heard of. While the Government is operating the Valley road, it is at the same time paying a stage driver for carrying the mail three times a week over the identical territory served by the railway. This is not good business either from the standpoint of the Government or the public.

Now that Parliament, by unanimous vote, has agreed to extend its life for one year from next October, the Government should lose no time in filling the ten vacancies in the House. Parliament should not be under-strength at a time like this.

The members of the St. John River Commission and their respective counsels are now working day and night in an effort to finish their work. It is now seven years since the Commission was appointed.

Mayor Martin and Controller Hebert of Montreal were last week fined one thousand dollars for contempt of court in the Tramways case. Mayor Martin says he will appeal the case to the Privy Council.

SIR RIDER HAGGARD ON IMPORTANT TOUR

Famous Novelist to Investigate Chances For Empire Building After The War.

London, Feb. 4 (correspondence).—Sir Rider Haggard has left England on a trip around the world with a mission from the Royal Colonial Institute to investigate the chances for empire building after the war. His plan, backed by the institute and its important officials, including Lord Curzon, is to prevent the emigration to foreign countries of soldiers and their families after the war, and to direct steady streams of these war veterans to the British colonies, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the many insular colonies, thus recruiting the population with a sturdy and intelligent class, and holding them within the British Empire.

MARITIME HARNESS RACING CIRCUIT LOOKS LIKE FACT

Messrs. W. B. Lint, T. V. Monahan, Hugh O'Neill and W. E. Farrell returned this morning from Moncton, where they had been attending the organization meeting of the Maritime Harness Racing Circuit of 1916. It is said that the circuit will become a fact, opening in this city with a three days' meet, beginning July 1. From Fredericton it is expected some horses will go to Houlton for July 4 and race at St. John's soon after. Other tracks in the circuit are Moncton, Chatham, New Glasgow and Prince Edward Island tracks. Four stake races were decided on at the meeting yesterday. They are 2.30 Pace, 2.30 Trot, 2.16 Trot, 2.19 Pace. Each track is to select its own classes.

In one house-furnishing establishment there was a clash between two local ladies, both of whom wanted the same bargain in chairs. After a lengthy verbal conflict, the dispute was decided by the proprietor of the store dividing equally the lot of chairs between the two ladies.
