

THE ACUTE PAIN FROM NEURALGIA

Permanently Cured Through The Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

A clever medical writer had said that "Neuralgia is a cry from the nerves for better blood." In other words, neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom, but a very painful one. Neuralgia is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—rich, red blood is the only cure. This gives you the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains in correct proportions the elements needed to make rich, red blood. This new, rich blood reaches the root of the trouble soothes the jangled nerves, drives away the nagging, stabbing pain and braces up your health in other ways as well. In proof of these statements Mrs. A. T. Oulton, Little Chemogue, N.B., says:—"A few years ago my mother was an intense sufferer from neuralgia, which was located in her face, head and shoulders. The pain, especially in her head, was intense. She doctored for some time without getting relief and there seemed to be no ceasing of the pain whatever. Instead it seemed to be extending and her whole nervous system became affected. Finally she decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking them for a while the pain in her head became less severe and of course this was a great relief to her. Under the continued use of the Pills she felt herself growing better and stronger each day until she was no longer a sufferer and was completely cured, and has felt no symptoms of the trouble since."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

His Pajama Talks Didn't Suit Wife

(New York Herald.)

Mrs. Georgia A. Proctor, wife of Frederick F. Proctor Jr., theatrical producer, says that her nerves were seriously affected when she found her husband in pajamas talking with Miss Calla Wallace, who was in bed. The conversation was in the young woman's room when she was stopping at Mrs. Proctor's home, it is alleged in affidavits filed recently in the Supreme Court in the separation action brought by Mrs. Proctor. The pleas of the wife resulted in her receiving $250 for counsel fees and $80 a week pending trial. Mr. Proctor said a friend of his found his wife reclining on a divan while a Mr. Argonbright "petted her." Mrs. Proctor also was accused of having gone horseback riding with a Mr. Hastings.

A "coincidence" caused all the trouble, Mr. Proctor says. His wife gave him a gold belt and a few weeks later a Miss Corally Devet, a young Frenchwoman, gave a similar belt to him for assisting her in a business matter.

Mrs. Proctor does not place stress on the "coincidence." She says that what distressed her was seeing her husband in pajamas in the room of Miss Wallace. Right after the sight she says he wrote for her in a note: "I do not contain the attributes that go to make up the perfect husband. But, knowing this, please allow for me and do not take to heart so much the things that are to you not right."

She says that her husband once left his yacht, the Piccaroon 2nd, off Port Washington, going to this city, where, with another man, he entertained two young women at the Beaux Arts Cafe. The wife says she was so distressed that she "left the yacht bag and baggage."

TELLS HOW CANADIAN RAILWAY ADVERTISES DOMINION ABROAD

GOLD MEDAL AWARDED THE GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM BY THE JURY AT PANAMA PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION AT SAN FRANCISCO.

This Gold Medal, awarded the Grand Trunk System for its exhibit at the Panama Pacific International Exposition, at San Francisco, was designed by John Flanagan, an American artist who has achieved great fame for his statuary, medals and medallions. On one side of the Medal is represented the meeting of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, symbolized by two figures, a man and a woman, joining hands across the Isthmus of Panama. A translation of the Latin inscription reads "Man Joins What God Parted." The reverse of the Medal represents the Tower of Jewels, the dominating architectural feature of the Panama Pacific International Exposition. The Medal was minted by the United States Government at the Philadelphia mint.

Mr. H. R. Charlton, the General Advertising Agent of the Grand Trunk System, told a press representative the other day that he considered that there was no more interesting example of the power of advertising than is to be found in the migration to Canada of hundreds of thousands of settlers each year—people largely attracted by the advertising of Canada abroad. Since 1900 the Grand Trunk has been represented at each of the great international exhibitions and at most of them it has erected its own building in order that its display might be housed in a manner thoroughly satisfactory and befitting the dignity of an exhibit which advertised not only a railway but a new empire. Some of these exhibitions participated in by the Grand Trunk were those held at Paris in 1900, the Pan-American Exhibition at Buffalo, Art Exhibition, Wolverhampton, Eng.; Fifth National Industrial Exposition, Tokio, Japan; World's Fair, St. Louis, Mo.; Tercennial Exposition, Jamestown, Va.; Franco-British Exhibition, London, Eng.; Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Seattle, Wash.; Brussels Universal and International Exposition; Festival of Empire, London, Eng.; Coronation Exhibition, Shepherd's Bush, London, and Crystal Palace Exhibition, London. And this exhibition work represents only a small part of the work done by the railway in advertising Canada abroad.

A SHOCKING MURDER REPORTED IN KINGS COUNTY

Sussex, N. B., Feb. 18.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Ward's Creek, about eight miles from Sussex, some time between a late hour last evening and an early hour this morning. As a result Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, the former a late resident of St. John, were found dead in their home with their heads battered in and the house in confusion, which left little doubt that the aged couple had been murdered.

Daniel B. Cannon, a nearby neighbor, was arrested this afternoon by Chief of Police Asbell, as a suspect in the tragedy, and is now confined in the police cell in Sussex.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien, respected and well to do citizens in the vicinity, were eighty and seventy years of age respectively.

Robert Quigley, who was the first man to view the scene, came to Sussex yesterday afternoon and was asked by Mr. O'Brien to bring in his mail. As Mr. Quigley did not get home until late last night he did not go over to the O'Brien home, but took his mail over this morning about ten o'clock. He knocked at the door, and getting no response walked in, and was horribly shocked to find the body of O'Brien lying in the doorway leading to his bedroom, with the side of his head battered in and a small stick clutched in his hand, which had evidently been used in self-defence.

On further investigation he found the body of Mrs. O'Brien lying by the bedside, with her head battered in.

A Gruesome Sight.

The aged couple were in their night clothes and the walls, ceiling and floor of the bedroom were bespattered with blood. A large pool of blood was found under the kitchen stove, where it had flowed from the bedroom door. From all indications it was a double murder of the most brutal kind.

Quigley ran to a nearby neighbor's, Joe Dunn, and told him of the tragedy, also Benjamin Ross, who was in the vicinity with his team.

They immediately drove to Sussex, notified Chief Asbell, who, with Sheriff McLeod and Coroner Wallace drove to the scene of the tragedy, arriving there about 5 o'clock this afternoon. After viewing the bodies, house and premises, they ordered the bodies to be taken to Sussex, where they now lie in the parlors of Funeral Director Wallace. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

On investigation of the scene by Chief Asbell and Coroner Wallace, a long club with heavy knotted end was found near the body of Mr. O'Brien, covered with blood and hair, and it is supposed to be the weapon used by the murderer.

In a bedroom at the rear of the house were found two sticks of charred wood lying on the feather bed, which had evidently been taken from the stove with the intention of setting the house on fire.

When Quigley and Ross were driving to Sussex, they passed Cannon, the suspected murderer, and they noticed that he had socks on over his boots, and were suspicious of him.

When Chief Asbell and party were going to the scene they met Cannon, who had then taken the socks off. The arrest was made there and then.

Daniel B. Cannon is a brother of the murdered woman and is of a somewhat eccentric character. He lived as a bachelor in the vicinity of the tragedy, and always appeared to have plenty of money. It is rumored that at the beginning of the war he drew his money from the bank. When he was searched at the police station tonight about $1,700 was found on him, mostly in gold. It is not known whether robbery was the motive of the tragedy or not. The actions of the prisoner in the cell tonight would suggest that he is mentally unbalanced.

A FRIGHTFUL DEATH SUFFOCATED IN ASTHMA ATTACK

Every sufferer from Asthma knows the terror, the abject fear that overcomes them when struggling for breath. The old-fashioned remedies may relieve but never cure. Best results come from CATARRHOZONE, which cures Asthma after hope is abandoned. It's because Catarrhazone kills the asthma germ that it cures. Choking spells and labored breathing are relieved, suffocating sensations and loss of breath are cured. Every trace of asthma is driven from the system and even old chronic experience immediate relief and lasting cure. Equally good for bronchitis, throat trouble and catarrh. The large ONE DOLLAR outfit includes the inhaler and lasts two months. Sold by all dealers or from the Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Pickles may be kept from becoming moldy by laying a bag of mustard on top of the pickle jar.

The Importance of Rifle Shooting

(Canadian Military Gazette.)

In the Franco-British wars of the middle ages the British won not because of superior bravery, but because of their better skill in the use of the bow, the rifle, so to speak, of that day.

In the present war the importance of accuracy in shooting cannot be overestimated, and anything that will promote marksmanship must not be overlooked.

In his recent speech, the minister of militia proudly stated that the First Contingent went to the front better riflemen than any body of troops of equal length of training. He is a wide awake soldier and emphasizes good shooting.

There can be no doubt about it, this excellence on the part of Canadian troops is largely due to the use of the target practice rod, a device adopted before the outbreak of the war, about which that excellent old British paper, The Army and Navy Gazette, has this to say:

"The target practice rod, invented by Mr. Reardon and patented and sold by The Target Practice Rod Company, Ltd., of 17 Victoria street S.W., has been for some little time before the public in this country without attracting any particular official attention, while both in Canada and in America the invention has for at least six years past been officially adopted for use in the military forces by the department of militia and defence of Canada, and by the board of ordnance and fortifications of the war department of the United States. In view of the fact that the target practice rod was approved of by so high an authority as Lord Roberts and by so thoroughly practical and well known a rifle shot as the late Mr. Onmundsen, we asked an officer, who was for many years on the musketry staff of the army, to make a thorough inspection of the invention and give us his opinion about it. He says:

"The apparatus is very simple, consisting of a hollow brass tube inserted in the barrel of the ordinary service rifle and containing a needle pointed rod actuated by the striker on pressing the trigger. The rifle, fitted with the instrument, is held about six inches from the special miniature target provided, upon which the hit is recorded by the needle pointed rod above mentioned. The target practice rod teaches the riflemen to aim correctly, to keep his sights on his object and properly to press the trigger; for instructional purposes in barrack rooms it is most useful, it is capable of taking the place of an aim corrector and gives an accurate record of the result of each pressure of the trigger; it affords unlimited and valuable rifle practice at a merely nominal cost, and seems admirably adapted for the instruction of the new men now joining our armies."

WINNIPEG EDITOR

had Pain in Back for Three Weeks, then

Gin Pills brought speedy relief. But let Mr. Conklin tell the story:—

"Dear Sir:—

I think it is only right that I should give you an unsolicited testimonial as to the benefit which I received the last couple of weeks by using Gin Pills, which I believe were manufactured by your Company. I might say that I was troubled for over three weeks with a pain in my back, and tried a number of remedies without any benefit. Dave Scott, our night police reporter had also been troubled the same way and on my telling him what was wrong with me he said, "Why don't you use Gin Pills, I have used a box and one half and after that the pain has left." He said, "You take this other half of the box and get another box and you will be all right."

"I am glad to inform you that before I used the second box I felt myself all right again and the pain has left. I don't know whether this will be of any use to you, but I certainly think these pills are wonders."

FOR THE KIDNEYS

"Canada has ordered its issue at the rate of one for every ten men of the establishment of each squadron or company. America has directed the issue of ten target practice rods to each company and troop in the United States army. Our war office has exhibited its usual coyness and, for same reason not readily appreciable, will so far have none of it. Possibly it is considered that with us the rifle shot is produced ready made on enlistment, or grows 'spontaneous' like the buildings of Eden City."

MATTER OF OPINION.

"Mary!" Father's voice rolled down the stairs and into the dim and silent parlor.

"Yes, papa, dear."

"Ask that young man if he has the time."

A moment of silence. "Yes, George has his watch with him."

"Then ask him what is the time."

"He says it is 11.48, papa."

"Then ask him if he doesn't think it is about bedtime."

Another moment of silence. "He says, papa," the silvery voice announced impersonally. "He says that he rarely goes to bed before one, but it seems to him that it a matter of personal preference merely and that if he were in your place he would go now if he felt sleepy."—Far per's Bazaar.

The Printing and Publicity Specialist Talks To His Son

"Say, John, I feel quite sick today," said Mr. Blank. "Please visit the different doctors in town, and find out who will cure me for the least money. Get your quotations tabulated and then let me see them. Of course we will engage the doctor who charges the least."

"Why, I never heard of such a thing," said John. "The idea of getting quotations from a doctor; it's the asylum for you."

"Well now, why not? I am a specialist in printing and publicity. I study my business just as carefully as any doctor can do. If I do say it that shouldn't, I have just as much brains as the average doctor. I strive to give my customers the benefit of my knowledge, my artistic skill and judgement and my ideas on publicity. I give service as the term is understood in the Twentieth Century."

"When some people around here have a little printing to be done, they visit all the printing offices, get quotations from each one, and then give the work to the man who gives the lowest figures."

"The ordinary user of printing knows his own business, but he is no more a judge of the work of printing than he is a judge of what sort of medicine a doctor should give him for the cure of his ailment. If people ask me for quotations and pass me by if my price happens to be a little more than the other fellow, why shouldn't I apply the same method to the doctor, lawyer, dentist and painter? Why not? It's a mighty poor rule that won't work more than one way."
