E. PHILIPS OPPENHEIM
COPYRIGHT 1915 BY F. WOOD

Film Manufacturing Company.

"Keep quiet for a moment," the inspector whispered in her ear. "Pull yourself together, madam. Go to the other end of the room. Don't look.
Stay there for a few moments and then get home as quick as you can."

She obeyed him mutely, pressing her hands to her eyes, shivering in every limb. French, stood back inside the room. He heard the front door open, he heard Quest's voice outside.

"Where the devil are you, Ross?"

There was no reply.

The door was pushed open. Quest entered, followed by the professor and Craig. The inspector stood watching their faces. Quest came to a standstill before he had passed the threshold. He looked upon the floor and he looked across to the sofa. Then he looked at French.

"My God!" he muttered.

The professor pushed past. He had looked around the room, and gazed at the two bodies with an expression of blank and absolute terror. Then he fell back into Craig's arms.

"The poor girl!" he cried. "Horrible! Horrible! Horrible!"

"Know anything about this?" Quest asked quickly.

"Not a thing," the inspector replied.

"We arrived, Mrs. Rheinholdt and I at five minutes past twelve. There was no answer to our ring. I used my pass key and entered. This is what I found."

Quest stood over the body of his valet for a moment. The man was obviously dead. The inspector took his handkerchief and covered up the head.
A few feet away was a heavy paper weight.

"Killed by a blow from behind," French remarked grimly, "with that little affair. Look here!"

They glanced down at the girl.
Quest's eyebrows came together quickly. There were two blue marks upon her throat where a man's thumbs might have been.

"The hands again," he muttered.

The inspector nodded.

"Can you make anything of it?"

"Not yet," Quest confessed. "I must think."

The inspector glanced at him curiously.

"Where on earth have you been to?"
he demanded.

"Been to?" Quest repeated.

"Look in the mirror!" French suggested.

Quest glanced at himself. His collar had given way, his tie was torn, a button and some of the cloth had been wrenched from his coat, his trousers were torn and he was covered with dust.

"I'll tell you about my trouble a little later on," he replied. "Say, can't we keep those girls out?"

They were too late. Laura and Lenora were already upon the threshold.
Quest swung round toward them.

"Girls," he said, "there has been some trouble here. Go and wait upstairs, Lenora, or sit in the hall."

"Where is your automobile?"

"No idea," Quest replied. "I left it in the road. When I jumped from the freight car I took a taxicab to the professor's and called for him, as arranged."

The inspector nodded.

"I shall have to ask you to excuse me for a moment," he said, "while I ring up number ten signal tower. If Mr. Quest's story receives corroboration the matter is at an end."

The inspector left the room almost immediately.

(To Be Continued.)

He Set His Teeth and jumped.

Laura, you had better telephone to the police station and for a doctor.
That's right, isn't it, inspector?"

"Yes!" the latter assented thoughtfully.

Lenora, white to the lips, staggered a few feet back into the hall. Laura set her teeth and lingered.

"Is that Ross?" she asked.

"It's his body," Quest replied. "He's been murdered here, he and the Salvation Army girl who was to come this morning for her check."

Laura turned away half dazed.

"I'd have trusted Ross with my life."

It is not a matter of imagination, habit or prejudice.

Gold Soap

WOMAN'S COLUMN

RECIPES WORTH TRYING.

Rice with Sliced Tomatoes—

Steam one cup of rice in two cups of boiling water half an hour. Add while hot, quarter of a cup of butter, 1 teaspoon salt and a saltspoon pepper. Stew one pint tomatoes, season with salt and pepper, butter and a little sugar. Cook until quite thick. Turn the rice on a platter pour the stewed tomatoes over the rice and serve.

Mayonnaise Dressing—Two egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cayenne, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup olive oil, 1 teaspoon paprika: beat eggs well, mix salt, cayenne, mustard and paprika add eggs and beat well, adding olive oil drop for first 4 teaspoons then more rapidly until oil is used, thinning as needed with lemon juice and vinegar. A little cream added is an improvement.

Raisin Pie—Make a rich crust and fill with the following: 3 cups of raisins placed in a double boiler 2 cups of boiling water, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of flour mixed with the sugar, 1 tablespoonful of butter and 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon.

Cook 15 minutes, remove from stove and cool before using. This makes 2 large pies.

ICED TEA.

Put four teaspoons of tea in a teapot and pour over it 4 cups of boiling water. Let steep about 10 minutes, then slice up two lemons thin, put in a pitcher and pour the hot tea on them. Sweeten to taste and set aside to cool add cracked ice. You can make your tea stronger if you wish, but I find this rule very good.

Another recipe. Make a small quantity of rather strong tea several hours before it is to be used, let it cool in the refrigerator and weakened to the desired consistency with iced water just before it is needed. Put a few small pieces of either cracked or shaved ice in the glasses. Lemon is also better added before the meal than at it.

The usual way is to pass a slice of lemon to each guest. Far better is the taste if both the lemon and sugar are added to the tea when the iced water is added.

No, Mr. Simp, sundaes were not named after Billy Sunday—it's the hot stuff that should be.

It takes an optimist to look upon a palm-leaf fan and a frosted chocolate as a full meal, even in summer time.
