Every jar of fruit you preserve this summer will be like money in the bank for you in the winter. Private economy and public spirit both require you to prepare as large a stock of homemade preserves as possible for any emergency. To reduce loss from spoiling and to get the highest nutritive value in your preserved fruit use

The sugar which contains no beets, no dyes, nothing but the pure juice of the sugar cane refined by modern cleanly methods

NOTE—The recent ruling of the government forbidding the use of artificial coloring in sugar required no changes in our refining processes in which coloring matter has never been used.
