

From Youth To Old Age

THERE are three trying periods in a woman's life: when the girl matures to womanhood; when a woman gives birth to her first child; when a woman reaches middle age. At these critical times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor. Countless thousands testify to its worth.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Lynn, Mass., U. S. A.
and Cobourg, Ontario, Canada

NOTICE

Tenders for Soft Coal.

Sealed tenders marked "Tender for Hard Coal", addressed to the Deputy Minister of Public Works, Fredericton, N. B., will be received up to and including Tuesday, June 18th, 1929 at 12 o'clock noon, for supplying:

- 125 tons egg size screened American Anthracite for the Departmental Building
- 35 tons egg size screened American Anthracite for the Education and Registrar Supreme Court Offices
- 25 tons egg size screened American Anthracite for the Road Engineering Department Building
- 25 tons egg size screened American Anthracite for the Bureau of Information Building
- 8 tons nut size screened American Anthracite for the Bureau of Information Building

The entire quantity to be delivered at the above mentioned Buildings, or as may be otherwise directed, not later than September 1st. next. The Department is not obliged to accept the lowest or any tender.

D. A. STEWART,
Minister of Public Works,
for the Province of New Brunswick
Department of Public Works,
F'ton, N. B., June 10th, 1929.

Fortune is a woman. You must seize her and beat.—Mussolini.

RESULT OF SASKATCHEWAN ELECTION A BIG SURPRISE; SOME NEWSPAPER COMMENT

The Regina Daily Star, which was the only daily newspaper in Saskatchewan to fight on the side of the victorious opposition, has the following editorial comment today:

"The impossible has been accomplished. In the hour of its greatest strength, the Government has fallen. Bloated with power it has gone the way of all tyrants. In the most dramatic election contest in the history of Canada, this Goliath among the Governments has been overcome by a youthful David armed with but one sling-stone.

"For the first time in the history of Saskatchewan a Conservative party has won victory. Yet the victory of Dr. Anderson and his colleagues is not a victory for political Conservatism, it is a victory over 'machine rule' in provincial affairs. Realizing that the Gardiner government with its network of organizers, its powerful 'machine' and its policy of controlling foreign groups in certain constituencies has degenerated from the traditions of historic Liberalism, thousands of Liberals in all parts of the province rose above party names and shibboleths to give a mandate to a new leader and a new party to take over the reins of Government. Dr. Anderson's feat in achieving a working arrangement with Progressive and Independent candidates avoided a large number of three-cornered contests and assures him the allegiance of the Progressive and Independent members.

"An educator by profession, with exceptional knowledge of the needs of the province gleaned through years of experience in charge of the education of our 'New Canadians,' his four years in the legislature have revealed him to be a man of courage and broad tolerance. These qualities will have full scope for service in his task of restoring confidence, and knitting the peoples of Saskatchewan closed together in amity and tolerance.

"That his Government will be marked by an absence of sectionalism and by a single desire to serve the interest of all, is indicated by the message he sent out when the return gave indication of the impending defeat of the Gardiner Government. In this he made special mention of his obligation to the many thousands of Liberals who had given support to himself and his candidates."

SASKATOON STAR

The Saskatoon Star Phoenix commented as follows this morning on the result of the Saskatchewan elections. The editorial, headed "The Great Change," reads:

"And so it was the time for a change after all. That, we think, must be taken as the verdict of Friday's poll. At least it surely cannot be wholly ascribed to religious animosity and ill-founded rumor. The final results are not to hand as this is written but it seems almost certain that the assorted oppositions have sufficient majority if they combine, as no doubt they will, to form an administration even if the Conservatives as such are in approximately the same position as Ramsay MacDonald finds himself in Britain today.

"In any event, however, it is quite certain that the Saskatchewan Legislature when it next assembles will witness a spectacle unknown since its first session, namely a new Government. This cannot fail to be a good thing for the province, indeed, it is fair to say, perhaps, that had a stronger opposition been elected in 1925 or 1921 the Liberal Government might not have found itself in the position it does today."

EDMONTON JOURNAL

The Journal says today: The overthrow of the Gardiner Government is probably the greatest surprise in the history of Canadian politics.

"It held fifty-three out of the sixty-three seats in the last legislature and it looked to be impossible for its opponents to overcome such an advantage.

"If the combined opposition elected twenty members it was generally felt that it would be doing quite well as this would mean a doubling of its strength. But few can have really believed that there was any chance that the Conservatives would emerge from the contest as the strongest party in a province where they had been regarded as largely extinct and where they have not carried a single constituency in the last three Federal Elections.

"The nominations show that there was a finely complete understanding between the principal opposition party and the Progressives and Independents. It remains to be seen, however, whether the successful opposition nominees, having brought about the defeat of the administration, will act together in the legislature.

"When Dr. Anderson took over his post just before the election of 1925 he was quite new to politics and succeeded in securing the return of only himself and two followers. For the remarkable change wrought in four years in the Conservative position the credit must go chiefly to him.

His task as head of the new Government will not be an easy one but there can be every confidence that he will prove himself as capable a premier as he has been a party leader.

MANITOBA FREE PRESS

The Free Press comment on the election was as follows: "No Government can retain office indefinitely, and after it had been in power for a considerable period the inevitability of a coming change impresses a good many electors, and this naturally encourages and aids the Government's opponents. Regardless of the quality of the administration, there is ultimately a growing demand for a change of Government. Friday's elections in Saskatchewan showed that there was a feeling that the Liberal Government after 4 years in power, should give way to another administration. While the returns are yet incomplete, the Liberals will evidently lack a majority in the Legislature. The Conservatives have made a notable gain, and while they will also apparently lack a majority, they will no doubt assume office, with the assurance of support from the Independents and Progressives. While the opponents of the Government had no common platform, they were united in the desire to defeat the Government, and the responsibility is now upon them of providing a new Government."

WINNIPEG TRIBUNE

Under the heading "Saskatchewan's Revolt," the Winnipeg Tribune, Independent, says today:

"Saskatchewan election results tell the story of one of the most crushing defeats a Provincial Government in Canada has ever sustained.

"Governments have gone down to defeat—many of them—but never one that four years before had elected 53 members in a Legislature of 63. From that pinnacle of power the Gardiner Government has been toppled by a party which lacked organization or means to put its case strongly before the people.

"Twenty-four years in office, and winning six elections, the Government in Saskatchewan came in recent years to rely ever more strongly on political machinery. Eventually the machine became so enormous, so ponderous and so crude in its methods that the people rebelled. The upheaval of public sentiment swept away the Government and gave the Conservative party under the leadership of Dr. J. T. M. Anderson a chance and a responsibility it could not reasonably have expected for some years.

What is needed is a postage stamp that will stick like a union suit in a temperature of 95 in the shade.

OLD CEMETERY LOTS

The Local Improvement Association is prepared to undertake the annual or perpetual care of Lots in the Old Cemetery in Fredericton. If you are interested please communicate with Lt.-Col. T. G. Loggie, 205 Church Street, Fredericton.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

SEALED tenders, addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for dredging, White Head, N. B.," will be received until 12 o'clock noon (daylight saving), Tuesday, June 11, 1929.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

Combined specifications and form of tender can be obtained on application to the undersigned, also at the office of the District Engineer, Old Post Office Building, St. John, N. B.

Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the work.

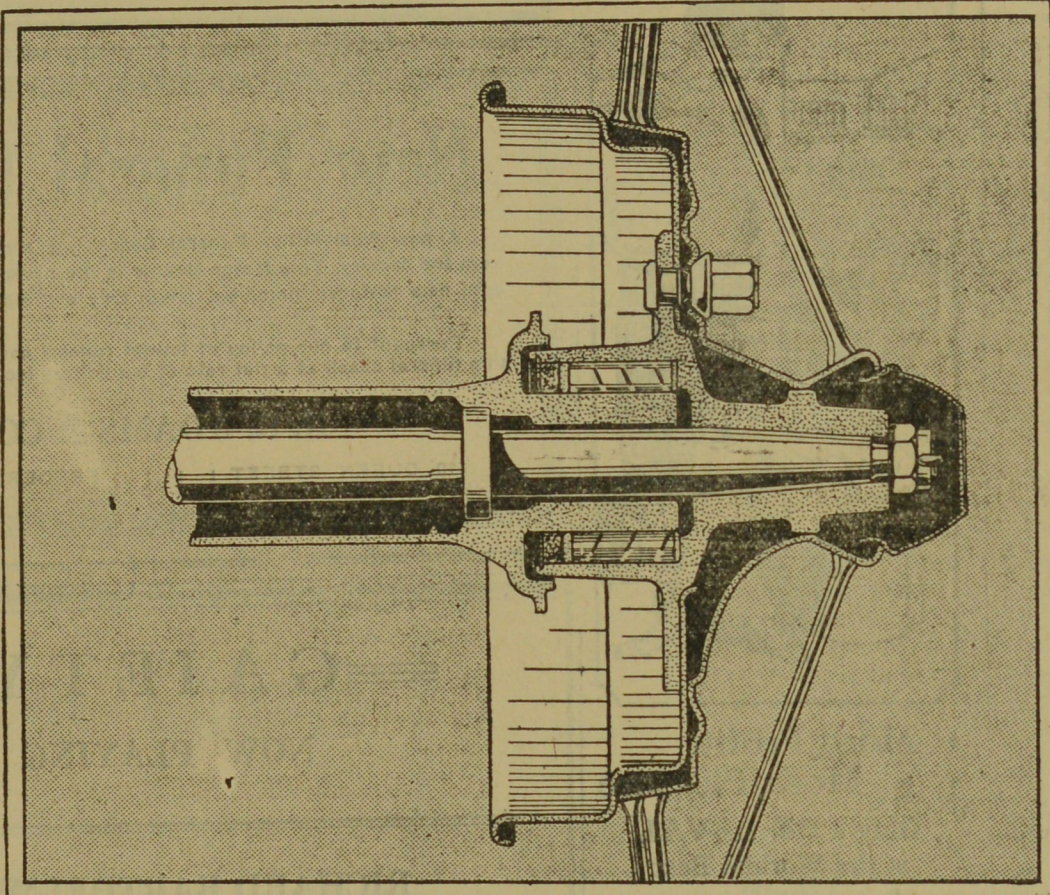

The dredges and other plant which are intended to be used on the work shall have been duly registered in Canada at the time of the filing of the tender with the Department, or shall have been built in Canada after the filing of the tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, for 5 per cent of the contract price, but no cheque to be for less than $500.00. Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or bonds of the Canadian National Railway Company will be accepted as security, or bonds and a cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

By Order,
S. E. O'BRIEN,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, May 28, 1929.

THE FORD CAR REAR AXLE

Expense no object in Achieving Perfection

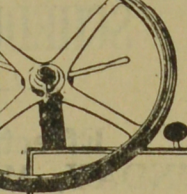

THE rear axle of the Ford car is of the three-quarter floating type with spiral bevel gear. The pinion hub is exceptionally heavy, and, as the pinion is carried on double taper roller bearings, perfect alignment of the gear is always assured. The rear axle has a total of four roller bearings which add considerably to the cost of manufacture but are a protection for the owner against wear.

Special care is taken to insure silence in the pinion and ring gears. These are made up in sets and carefully matched, each set being run in to eliminate all possibility of noise in operation.

The differential side gears are forged integral on the rear axle shafts and the teeth then cut. This permits of lighter and more simple construction. The shafts are unusually strong, and, as the centre line of the wheel comes over the bearings, there is no overhang of the axle shaft, and it has no weight to support.

The use of malleable castings is eliminated in this new axle housing which is made entirely of steel. Bell forgings welded to steel tubing make up the shaft housing which is bolted to an all steel differential housing. The care and skill devoted to the manufacture and assembly of rear axle parts is typical of the high standards of Ford engineering.

Drive it Yourself—there is no Better Test

Ford Car Features

Choice of colours
55 to 65 miles an hour
40-horse power engine
Full balloon tires
Fully enclosed six-brake system
4 Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers
20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline
Shatterproof glass windshield
Theft proof ignition lock
Reliability and low upkeep

Arrange for your demonstration ride with the nearest Ford dealer

Fredericton Motor Sales, Limited

Fredericton, N. B.