CUBS USED FOUR HURLERS IN EFFORT TO CURB ATHLETICS

Flying A's Took Second Series Game by 9 to 3
Score—Grove and Earnshaw Compile 13
Strikeouts—26 in Two Games—Cubs Looked Futile at Bat—Fox and Simmons Hit Homers.

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9.—The Athletics changed their tune to-day, but it was still a dirge so far as the Cubs and their hopes of world's series conquest are concerned.

Connie Mack's American League champions said it with base hits instead of slow curves, as they hammered the Chicago team into submission, 9 to 3, captured their second game in a row and started back to Philadelphia with the 1929 championship of ball world apparently in their grasp.

The home stand of the Cubs ended in an almost complete rout as the rampant Athletics, led by the war clubs of Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx, drove big Pat Malone out of the box in less than four innings and completed the bombardment at the expense of Hal Carlson.

Foxx, with his second home run of the series and Simmons, with his first, contributed the mightiest blows. Together they drove in seven of the A's nine runs as the rival murderer's row of the Cubs except for Hack Wilson, and a one-inning outbreak, put on another dismal exhibition of the plate.

The Cubs drove George Earnshaw, the A's starting pitcher, from the box in the fifth inning with the rally that produced all three of their runs, but Lefty Grove came to the rescue with an assortment of fast balls that stopped the Bruins in their tracks and left them dizzy from swinging at the air for the second day in succession.

Thirteen Cubs for the second straight day, struck out, to make the downfall of the supposedly slugging National League champions all the more humiliating to themselves as well as to 49,987 fans who paid $217,311 to sit shivering in the cold, biting winds that blew through the park.

This whiffing performance on the pening day's world's series record so far as victims are concerned, was even more annoying to the bundled and blanketed crowd because it had been led to believe part of the Bruins, equalling the Cubs thrived on fast balls. They got them today, but couldn't do much more with them than they did with Howard Ehmke's slow curves yesterday.

Hornsby Razed

In fact the crowd became so thoroughly annoyed by the futility of the big guns at the plate it booed Rogers Hornsby when he fanned for the fourth time in two days, and hooted Kiki Cuyler as he struck out for the fifth time. Before he retired under fire Earnshaw chalked up seven strike outs and Grove added six more, fanning the first three men to face him to explode the myth that the Cubs are sure death to southpaws, especially southpaw speed ball artists.

The aggregate total of 26 strikeouts for the Cubs in two games surpasses anything in world's series history for futility at bat.

As the warring forces moved to Philadelphia for the third game scheduled for Friday at Shibe Park, the

AL JOLSON CALLED DOWN BY PRODUCERS

Hollywood, Oct. 9.—Al Jolson discovered today that he had talked himself out of a gala opening.

Al's new picture, "Say It With Songs," was to have opened at the Warner Brothers Hollywood Theatre Monday night at $5 a ticket. But now it will open at 11 a. m. Monday at 50 cents admission, and Jack Warner, of the Warner studios, is downright angry.

Warner Brothers' downtown theater in Los Angeles opened Thursday night with the premiere of "Gold Diggers of Broadway." Jolson, a guest of honor, addressed the radio microphone.

"This is just another premiere. I'm getting sick of them," he told the radio listeners. Half way through the performance he sneaked out and went home. When the cast of the picture was announced and Jolson, as guest of honor, was called to the stage, he could not be found.

"All right, if he feels that way about it, the western premiere of his picture at the Hollywood is off," Warner said. We'll open the picture at 50 cents a throw."

stay for ten days and brought his total catch up to twenty-five. He then went over to Maine, but not finding things right there he returned to Fredericton with his daughter and added a salmon and two grilse to his already large total. Dr. Freeman enjoys the distinction of being the high liner among non residents who have fished the pool since its discovery.

Other Visitors

Other non-residents who have a very high opinion of the Hart's pool include Dr. George Parker Holden, Charles E. Williams and Dr. Floyd Reed of Yonkers, New York. Dr. Holden is one of the most noted anglers in the United States, and while he has written books on fresh water angling it was at the Hart's Island pool two years ago that he landed his first Atlantic salmon. Mr. Williams has been his companion on fishing trips for twenty-five years, and has visited the Hart's Island pool with him on three occasions. Dr. Reed was a new comer this year, and hooked and landed his first salmon. He will be back next season and so will the others.

As an asset to Fredericton the Hart's Island pool is increasing in importance and value each season. The amount paid for angling licenses represents only a small proportion of the cash outlay of the non residents who come here to enjoy the greatest of all sport, salmon angling. Mr. Currie says that nineteen of the American anglers who fished the Hart's island pool travelled by rail, which goes to show that the auto does not convey all of the summer visitors to Fredericton. As one angler expressed it, "I drive a car when at home but when I come down here for sport I like a change."

The high liner among local anglers at the Hart's Island pool last season was Donald Ferguson of this city, who hooked and landed forty-seven fish. The successful anglers included three ladies, Mrs. C. A. Burchill of this city, Miss Stella Smith of Oromocto and an American visitor.

HIS FATHER'S
CHECK MAY KILL
HIS GENIUS

(New ork Sun.)

A college student who recently patched up differences with his father sufficiently to receive the check for his tuition again this fall is delighted with his choice of the study of medicine except for one thing.

"The trouble is," he said recently while striding hatlessly through Van-Clift avenue, "most doctors love their profession so well, they're content not to look beyond it for a hobby. They don't bother about the social graces, a lot of them. Then, too, how seldom you hear of a doctor turning collector, or poet, or for instance. Some of the beautiful, cultural delights of life are absolutely untasted by them."

It was evident that the speaker was young and zealous for a reform. He admitted, incidentally, that it is a wonderful age for doing two things, instead of the proverbial one thing, well. He spoke of the public demand for certain articles written not by those of accredited literary ability but by those who have made good in something quite different from the profession of writing.

And he has already begun to practice what he preaches by contributing jokes to a periodical, for some of which he receives pay. But now that the check from his recalcitrant parent has come, it is hard telling how long this will keep up.

It's a high compliment to say a man isn't as dumb as she looks—so many of us are.
