

SITTING OF THE HOUSE ON TUESDAY WAS RATHER BRIEF; MORE BILLS INTRODUCED

Owing to the fact that the committee on corporations, one of the largest committees of the House, having been engaged with the New Brunswick Dental Society's bill for a good part of yesterday afternoon, it was five o'clock when the House got down to business. The sitting lasted a little more than an hour. A number of bills were introduced and several were put through the committee's stage. Further consideration of supply was made the order of the day for this afternoon at three o'clock.

The Official Report

Assembly Chamber

March 19th, 1929

The House met at five thirty-five p. m.

Bills relating to the sale of the St. John & Quebec Railway and respecting electoral districts, public libraries and the Towns Incorporation Act were read a second time.

HON. MR. TILLEY submitted the report of the Corporation Committee.

MR. HARRISON moved the suspension of the Rules and presented petitions for bills relating to the Nepisiguit Storage Company, Limited, the Nepisiguit Power Company, Limited, and the Nepisiguit Railway Company.

MR. RICHARD (Gloucester) moved the suspension of the rules and presented petitions for bills relating to the town of Bathurst, and the county of Gloucester.

HON. MR. LEGER, on behalf of Hon. Mr. Richards, moved the suspension of the rules and presented a petition for a bill relating to the Maritime Electric Company, etc.

HON. MR. LEGER, on behalf of Hon. Mr. Richards, moved the suspension of the rules and presented a petition for a bill relating to the Maritime Electric Company, etc.

HON. MR. STEWART introduced a bill to amend an Act relating to the funding of motor vehicle fees.

HON. MR. LEGER introduced a bill to amend the New Brunswick Companies Act, and explained that this was to regulate the amount of fees in certain cases and to authorize, where desirable, the holding of special meetings outside the province.

HON. MR. BAXTER introduced a bill to incorporate the Gloucester Fishermen's Association. He also introduced a bill to amend the Act respecting schools. He explained that its object was to correct a defect in the law disclosed by a recent Supreme Court judgment, and also to provide for a uniform valuation in cases where a school district was partly urban and partly rural.

The House went into Committee with Mr. Squires in the Chair and agreed to the following Bills: An Act to amend Chapter 113 of the Revised Statutes respecting the Supreme Court; an Act to amend the municipalities Act; an Act to amend Chapter 134 respecting the arrest, imprisonment and examination of debtors; an Act to amend Chapter 190 of the Revised Statutes respecting rates and Taxes.

HON. MR. BAXTER, speaking to the bill respecting the Supreme Court, said that there had been some complaints in the province of Quebec respecting the new paper mill in the course of construction in the town of Dalhousie. He wished it understood that he wouldn't stand for any industrial establishment failing to provide every safe-guard known to science, but at the same time he would not stand for the work being held up by an injunction which was not justified. He had an amendment to propose to the bill, which while fairly broad, would meet the situation.

Progress was reported with leave to sit again on bills respecting the appointment of magistrates in the parish of Salisbury, and respecting electoral districts.

HON. MR. SPEAKER, on resuming the bills were reported ordered to be engrossed and read a third time to-morrow.

The House again went into Committee, with Mr. Wood, chairman and agreed to the following bills: to authorize the town of Dalhousie to issue debentures; to confirm a lease between the city of Moncton and the Moncton Exhibition Company, Limited; to authorize the city of Moncton to guarantee Moncton Hospital debentures.

These bills were reported, ordered engrossed, and read a third time to-morrow.

HON. MR. LEGER moved that Supply be made the order of the day for tomorrow.

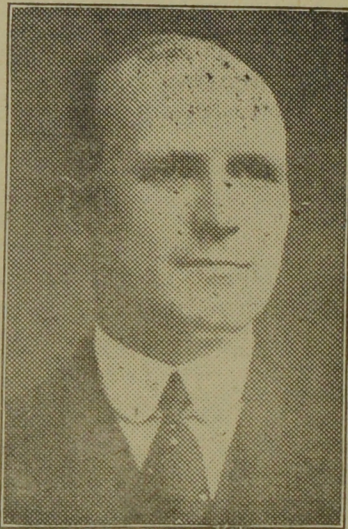

Adjourned at 6.35 p. m.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE DOMINION INCOME TAX ACT

Minister of National Revenue is Making Use of Newspaper Space to Enlighten the Public.

Once again, Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, is using newspaper advertising to assist taxpayers in complying with the requirements of the Dominion Income Tax Act.

In this issue an advertisement appears reminding the public of the law which stipulates that certain information must be in the offices of the Income Tax Inspectors by March 31 next. This information is required from employers, corporations, and trustees or persons acting in a fiduciary capacity. It applies to year ending December 31, 1928.

HON. W. D. EULER
Minister of National Revenue.

For instance, employers have to file a return giving the amounts paid each person in salaries, bonuses, commissions, and fees where the amount was $1,000 or more, or where the salary or wages was at a rate of $1,500 or more. Corporations have to file the names of those who were paid dividends, whether in cash or stock, and the amount of each. Persons acting in a fiduciary capacity, such as assignees, executors, administrators, receivers, trustees are required to file details of the trust they represent, together with the names of and amounts paid to beneficiaries.

Those mentioned in the act as having to produce this information are asked to secure the proper forms from the nearest Income Tax Office, fill in their forms according to instructions, and mail them to the Income Tax Inspectors at these offices before March 31. These forms are known as T3 for persons acting in a fiduciary capacity; T4 for employers and T5 for corporations. Each form contains complete instructions about what the law requires. These are information forms only, and no cheques are sent with them.

Officials of the Department fully appreciate the trouble required in making out these forms, but are doing everything in their power to facilitate matters by reminding the public in plenty of time respecting the demands of the law.

The total collections under the Income Tax Act for last year are some millions of dollars ahead of the year before, in spite of a ten per cent reduction in the tax. Mr. Euler attributed this increased collection to three things:

1. More efficient methods of collection.
2. The increased prosperity of the country.
3. Advertising.

Geraldine—It isn't legal tender. You are not divorced yet.

One of these days, or evenings, radio may boom the story of a girl who broke her arm reaching for a sweet.

LATE MISS HAY'S TRIUTE TO DR. W. D. RANKINE

Miss Mildred V. Hay, a highly esteemed resident of Woodstock and sister of Mr. W. A. Hay of this city, passed away at her home a short time ago aged 75 years. The Woodstock Press said of the late Miss Hay that she was gifted with more than ordinary talent as an artist, having been a student at the St. John Art School, and as a writer of verse her talent found its way into many a home. The following tribute to the late Dr. W. D. Rankine of Woodstock one of New Brunswick's foremost surgeons was from the pen of the late Miss Hay.

The following poem was written by the late Miss Mildred V. Hay (who died recently) in memory of the late Dr. W. D. Rankine:

Oor herts are sair to the breaking,
For ye ken oor Doctor is gone
Fra the suffering, pain and heartache
From oor homes and oor streets passed on.

To his bairns who went over yonder
So quickly snatched from his side,
But it left his poor heart broken,
We saw, what he tried to hide.

And how we shall live without him
Are the lessons we yet have to learn
We feel like lost sheep on the mountain
Not knowing which way to turn.

Though his name was not McClure
They were brothers in hert and bane,
Had ye met and known him slightly
Ye would ken fra' the blood that he came.

He gave each his careful attention,
To the rich and poor the same
Giving confidence, hope and courage
To each and all as they came.

Now he's resting in peace and quiet.

Near the spot where he first saw the light,
And the auld Kirk is keeping its vigil
Through the day and the long silent night.

Here we leave him in trust with the Master,

Whose judgment is just and true,
Me thinks I can hear the verdict—
"Faithful servant, a high seat for you!"

MILDRED V. HAY.

Jerry—A fool! Do you mean me?
Mae—Oh, no, not exactly I mean the fellow you stare in the face while you're shaving yourself.

BIG IRON FLOAT TO CONVEY STONE

Spezia, Italy, March 17—A thousand-ton-iron float is being prepared here to carry to Rome a moonlith of Carrara marble, weighing 400 tons, presented to Premier Mussolini by workers in the marble quarries.

The monumental stone will be erected in the outskirts of Rome. It was dragged through the streets of Carrara to the shore by 50 pairs of oxen.

IT IS CLAIMED THAT TWO THOUSAND MILLIONAIRES LIVE IN PARK AVENUE, N. Y.

New York, March 18—Some people say there are 2,000 millionaires along Park avenue. Not that it makes any difference. So far as the walker-past can see, a millionaire looks very much like any one else. One of them specializes in harmonized clothes, so that his socks and ties and shirts and handkerchiefs each day match that day's suit. He is sufficiently a friend to permit a query:

"Why do you have so many color combinations? Why not pick out a blue or a gray and stick to it."

He said that would never do. By shifting the tone scheme from one emphatic color to another he forced on the public consciousness the fact that he changes his shirt daily.

He was perfectly sincere and quite humorless and the story is entirely true. Most of the 2,000 millionaires along Park avenue differ from the rest of us only in the possession of money. One of them—and a man for whom I have a tremendous admiration—came into contact with Vincent Astor not long ago. His shrewd comments on men and things amused the man whose millions date back to muskrats. Then Astor developed a real liking for him.

"Come up and have tea with us," said Astor. "Today. Telephone your wife and bring her along."

The newer millionaire said he was too busy, and Astor finally compelled him to admit that he was afraid.

"I've never been to a tea party in my life," he said. "I can talk to you like you was a bum, understand, when we talk business, but what can I say to you when I'm drinking tea? I ain't got no nice language."

Astor would not listen to "no" and so, as the movie-titlers say, dawned the day when he had to go to tea. That afternoon he walked into his office and dangled his hands before his secretary.

"Pipe the nails," said he. "Look—tum shine. The first manicure I ever had in my life."

One of these millionaires began as a bricklayer. Now he is so rich that money does not seem anything to him. This seems to be a fact. Some of his old friends came to town recently and he threw a party for them.

"It'll be good," he said.

He gave the party in a hotel he owned himself. If the Federal officers padlocked it, it would be all right with him, he said. He had practically determined to tear it down, anyhow, and build a bigger one.

This man is frank in saying that he has no education. He was compelled to quit school when he was 13 years old—

"Worked as off-beaver in a blick-yard."

During the years given over to money-making he thought nothing of the education he had missed. He could talk well enough to suit the other fellow, he said. Now that he has his money packed away and need do nothing but amuse himself, he is going to school daily.

"Getting educated isn't hard," he says. "Of course, I've picked up quite a bit in all these years."

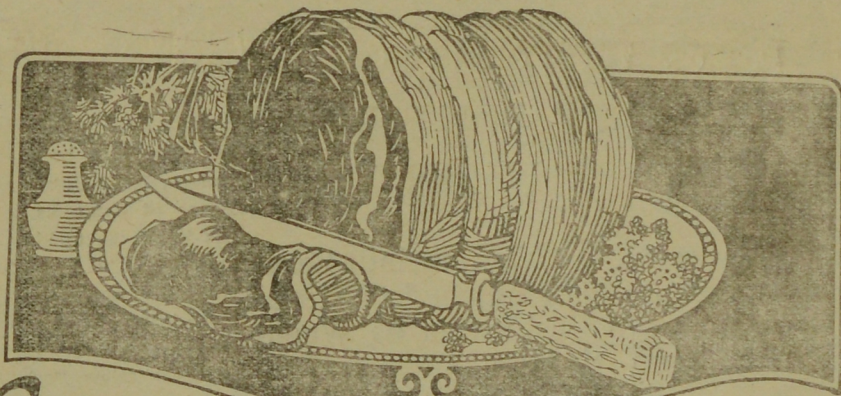

NEW USE FOR SOAP THAT IS FINELY SCENTED

(New York Sun)

The fastidious New Yorker and his visiting friend stopped into the corner drug store. The friend from the wild, woolly West had had enough shocks during the day, but when the fastidious one asked for a cake of a certain brand of imported soap and paid $1.25 for it the visitor almost fainted. This was the "effete East" sure enough.

The New Yorker noted his friend's aghast look and thought he'd better explain.

"I don't use this highly scented soap—goodness no," he said. "I simply buy a cake every six months or so to put in the drawer with my shirts and linen. It gives them a clean, woody fragrance—something you folks out West get for nothing. Here in New York I can only get it from soap. You understand me now?"

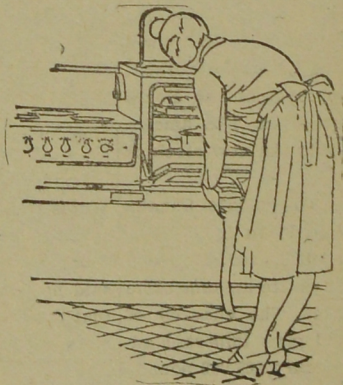

Good Roast Beef

Rich—appetizing and savory. Not overdone—not underdone—but just right. That's the way your roastbeef comes out of the oven when it's cooked electrically.

The dry electric heat in the thick-walled oven retains the full flavor and rich juices of the roast. Automatic heat controls assure an even temperature evenly distributed throughout the oven. Successful cooking results once obtained can be duplicated at will.
