

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin;
it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

DATE BARS

Mrs. Houdini thinks possibly her spirit messages might have come from a headache. Quite likely. Anybody who it was a good trick.

CITY OF COPENHAGEN IS A CITY OF SPIRES; THE DANISH CHURCHES ARE IMPRESSIVE

(By William H. Stoneman in Chicago News)

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 25.—Those who have built Copenhagen up out of the ashes time and again have always attempted to retain as far as possible the semblance of the city before it, and in external appearance the older section is much the same as it was eight centuries ago. The streets have been widened to take care of traffic, broad parked boulevards thread their way out from the center of town and new office and apartment buildings rise impressively at every turn. But the press agents are quite justified in their enthusiasm when they compare the appearance of the ensemble to that of a "pearl" except perhaps that it does not give one the same reaction which a "pearl" or Paris would ever give one.

The Danish capital has sought aesthetic relief from its plain surroundings of sea and fields in great soaring towers and spires of a hundred fantastic shapes and sizes. No two are alike except that they are all of that same pastel green copper, brightened by balls, crowns and other trimmings of glittering gold.

The king of all the towers in the capital is that of the city hall, a great affair of red brick rising 325 feet above Raadhus plads—the busiest square in town. Typically enough this is the sixth town hall which Copenhagen has had and it is one of the most typically Danish buildings.

Nikolai Church Impressive

The spire of Nikolai church is another which comes to the notice of every one who visits the capital. You see it towering up above you as you stand in the fish market on Gammel Strand, and when you come out of the Royal theater on Nytorv, six blocks away it is still there, a tall graceful peak of green and gold broken by two colonnades, through which the sunlight filters. If then you go on to "clockmaker Ranch's Corner" on Oestergade, to meet a friend, you find yourself standing in its shadow.

Then there is the crown topped tower of Christiansborg, somber, gray, in keeping with the great sprawling building beneath it. It too, is a landmark, but it seems a grim sister to the others about it, particularly to the slender green and gold spire of the ancient bourse, just a few hundred yards to the east. The latter, formed of four interwoven dragons is one of the few remaining mementoes of the reign of Christian IV., most of whose work in the early part of the seventeenth century has been obliterated by fire and the whims of later rulers.

Spire Later than Church

Vor Frelzers church, on Christianshavn, is, perhaps, the most beautiful of all the many churches in the city and its spire, towering up across the harbor is one of the most strikingly noticeable in the entire garden. According to tradition the old baroque church itself was completed by Christian IV., "The Builder" but the spire, modeled after that of the Sapienza church in Rome, was not built until the middle of the eighteenth century the golden stairway, winding its way about the outside of the green spire like a ladder to heaven, may be seen for miles on a clear day.

These spires, most of them only ten, twenty or perhaps fifty years old are very important to Copenhagen and they are perhaps its most distinctive single feature. Certainly they are what the stranger notices first.

NEW BRUNSWICK CAMP FEAST SERVED AT HUB

((Boston Post))

In the Swiss Room of the Copley-Plaza transformed for the time into a veritable wild woods camp, famous guides from New Brunswick acted as hosts to a group of more than 150 well known sportsmen yesterday afternoon. It was a luncheon of the variety that is often enjoyed in the New Brunswick wilds, but one that proved to be a distinct novelty in Boston from the time the first course was served by the guides in woods costumes until the "call of the moose" was given by Billy Griffin, president of the New Brunswick Guides' Association.

In the group at the head table and on the speaking programme were Lieutenant-Governor Hugh H. McLean of New Brunswick; Lieutenant-Governor Youngman, representing Governor Allen; the Hon. L. P. D. Tilley, president of the New Brunswick executive council; Major John Harding, representing Mayor Nichols and former Mayor Curley. The Hon. C. D. Richards minister of lands and mines, presided. All the food served was brought from New Brunswick and was cooked in the Copley-Plaza kitchens by the guides.

One of the unique features of the luncheon was the menu, printed on paper bags in red ink. The menu consisted of oysters with lemons, clam chowder with crackers; salmon baked in milk; small boiled potatoes, moose steak with colbert sauce, squash, baked potato, johnnycake, maple syrup and coffee.

All about the banquet room were spruce trees. To give an added touch of color to the scene the guides present, those at the tables and those serving the food to their guests were all in woods costumes, the brightly hued jackets and colorful scarfs giving a real woodsy appearance to the scene.

After the Hon. C. D. Richards had spoken words of warm welcome "Billy" Griffin, far famed moose caller was introduced. He was equipped with a birch bark moose calling horn, not unlike a boy's Fourth of July noise maker in appearance. As he rose, red shirted and gave the call of the moose the room was hushed. The long, plaintive

ATHOLSTAN SIXTY YEARS ON ONE JOB

Mr. John W. Dafee, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, one of the outstanding journalists of Canada, published the following:

Sixty years ago, a country lad, 21 years of age, working in the business office of the Montreal Gazette for a salary of perhaps $6.00 a week, decided that he would like to have a daily newspaper of his own. So he went out and started one. It didn't take much capital to start a newspaper in those days, when all the equipment required was a handful of type and a cheap flat press; but the young lad hadn't even enough for this. So, for about ten or twelve years, the sheriff merrily, but vainly, chased him up and down the streets of Montreal, never more than half a step behind.

On Wednesday the newspaper thus founded in 1869 came out as usual, completing its sixtieth year. The young man of 1869 was still active on the job, as he has been, directly or in absentia every day of the whole intervening 60 years. The newspaper has become in the interval one of the outstanding institutions of its kind in Canada; the youthful adventurer of 1869 was still recognizable in Lord Atholstan, the brisk and capable octogenarian proprietor. Between those two dates what a story of achievement!

It is an extraordinary record, this of the Montreal Star and its owner; not matched by anything Canada has yet seen, not likely to be matched in the future. Compliments on the past, good wishes for the future go forward to Lord Atholstan and the newspaper from countless friends, not only Canada, but in all the wide spaces of the world.

E. R. BIRCHARD

who has been appointed general sales manager of the Pontiac division of General Motors of Canada, formerly linked with McLaughlin-Buick, but which this month became a separate sales unit. Mr. Birchard is a veteran of the automobile industry, having entered the service of the Russell Motor Car Company of his graduation in engineering from the University of Toronto twenty years ago. He served overseas during the entire duration of the war, first with the machine gunners and later with the mechanical transport division. Mr. Birchard is no stranger to General Motors dealers, having been for the last three years assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada, in charge of organization and distribution.

Wins Praise

The quality of her acting as the Private Secretary in "The News Parade" is winning the praise of movie fans everywhere for this lovely newcomer to the screen. At home in New York City, hundreds admire her charming personality and she has fairly "set the style" on Broadway by the way she dresses her hair.

"The simple method I use in caring for my hair," says Miss Shea, "has been of great help to me in my motion picture work, where one's hair must always look its best. It's just the thing for busy girls, too, because it is so easy. Most of the girls I know in stage and picture work are taking it up as soon as they hear about it. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush every time you use it. It makes your hair so easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It's ideal for girls who are letting their hair grow. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean and comfortable. I don't shampoo half so often, now. It gives my hair such a silky, soft, lustrous appearance that all my friends comment on it."

Danderine removes the oily film from each strand of hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre than brillianine. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. It is delightfully fragrant; isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. Waves, "set" with it, last longer. All drug stores have it, in generous 35¢ bottles.

Beyond all Expectations!
—say those who have seen the Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History
—a Six in the price range of the four!

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History has now been seen and inspected by millions of people—and everywhere it has been hailed as exceeding all expectations.

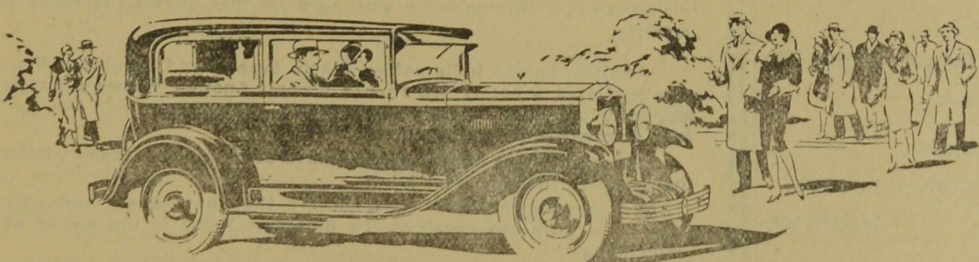

Many looked forward to finding a motor of exceptional design—but none expected a six-cylinder, valve-in-head engine which develops 32% more power than its famous predecessor, higher speed and faster acceleration.

Many anticipated numerous factors contributing to ease and safety of control—but were amazed at such quality car features as full ball-bearing steering mechanism with latest flat-type wheel, foot controlled headlamps and newly-designed, quiet, easy-acting, four-wheel brakes.

Many were confident that the new Chevrolet would be a comfortable car—but were delightfully surprised to find such outstanding comfort features as adjustable driver's seat in all closed models, fully cushioned seat backs and larger, roomier bodies.

And although everyone expected that Fisher genius would contribute a new note of beauty in the new Chevrolet—no one ever dreamed that it would be possible to achieve in any low-priced car the elements of beauty, luxury and safety so worthy of direct comparison with the finest and costliest automobiles.

If you have not already made a personal inspection of the new Chevrolet, we urge you to do so. The beautiful new models are now on display in our showroom—and you are cordially invited to call. C26-1-299
