BAYER

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin;
it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

PRUNE TART

Dried prunes
Sugar
1 tablespoons flour
3 eggs
1 tablespoon cream
½ cup cake crumbs
¼ cup powdered sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Line a baking dish with paste and fill the middle with soaked dried prunes that have had the stones removed. Sprinkle with sugar and the flour and bake. When the fruit is tender, pour over it the yolks of the eggs, mixed with the cream, one-half cup of sugar and the cake crumbs. Bake until done in oven 350 degrees F., and cover with meringue made from the egg whites, powdered sugar and vanilla. Brown and serve Byrd's next-door neighbor is 2,400 miles away. There are advantages down there. Nobody has tried to sell him any corner lots.

A monster black bear weighing over 400 pounds that stalked up-right through the woods seeking what or whom it might devour and which had no forepaws, has just been trapped in New Brunswick, according to Dave Ogilvy, well-known guide and outfitter. The beast used to rifle all the garbage dumps and refuse heaps in the neighbourhood of Plaster Rock, on the line of the C. P. R., and was caught by means of a trap hidden under dead leaves and some old paint tins. Examination of the body showed that its forefeet were crippled, either by deformity at birth or by an accident, and that it must have walked about on its hind feet. Only tracks of the rear paws had been found, and considerable mystery existed as to the maurader. Seymour Traffon and Jock Ogilvy caught the bear, whose skin measured over seven feet in length.

GENERAL BOOTH IS NOW QUITE WILLING TO TALK ABOUT REFORMS WITH S. A. CHIEF

London, Jan. 31—Solution of the problem of leadership which has kept high circles of the Salvation Army in a turmoil for more than three weeks, may be reached without the aid of further court action, it appeared today.

Pleased that "my name has been vindicated" by an injunction yesterday which voided the action of the Army's High Council removing him from the high command, General W. Bramwell Booth indicated he was willing to discuss reforms with other army leaders and probably would confer with them immediately.

The High Council on its part, will meet Friday to draft a new resolution removing General Booth from office, but this time will ask the general to appear in person or send a representative before the council when the resolution is argued, it was learned from a reliable source.

Friendly Attitude

Thus the apparent willingness of both parties to approach the question of leadership and army reforms in a more friendly attitude promises an end of the difficulties by their own efforts and without resorting again to court action, as General Booth did when he received word the High Council had voted 55 to 8 to depose him as commander-in-chief.

Before the permanent injunction was granted him yesterday by the Court of Chancery voiding the council's action because General Booth had not been heard, the commander-in-chief was reported to have offered to let the council elect his successor if it would agree to the appointment of a commission to go into other proposed Army reforms.

The entire Army fight climaxed by the injunction revolved around succession of the title of General. General Bramwell Booth was appointed by his father, General William Booth, founder of the Army, who left his name in a sealed envelope, which was opened after the elder Booth's death. General Bramwell Booth maintained it was his right to appoint his successor by the same method.

Another faction, headed by Commander Evangeline Booth, General Booth's sister, insisted growth of the Army made a more democratic elective system desirable and the High Council met on January 8 to act on the proposal. The actual reason for General Booth's removal, however, was given as his poor health. He still is confined to his home with an illness that was serious last fall.

Statement Issues

Miss Evangeline Booth issued the following statement through the press:

"The temporary setback given to the decision of the High Council of the Salvation Army by Mr. Justice Eve's judgement has naturally caused a little disappointment. But the American delegation, in common with the rest of the council are more strengthened in their former conclusions than otherwise as we see in the judgment a vindication of the trust deed of 1904 as well as a commendation of proceedings in the council.

"We appreciate to the full the judge's kindly assurance of his conviction that the one error in procedure was made in all innocence and with no attempt wilfully to deprive General Booth of the smallest legal right. In accordance with the Salvation Army custom and in harmony with provisions of the deed we wished to keep the matter, being an internal one, purely domestic; therefore, Commissioner Catherine Booth addressed the council on her father's behalf many times, her final speech lasting an hour and a half.

"When we next meet our deliberations will have the weight of the court's sanction behind them, which is in itself an additional support. All those who love the Army will deeply regret that the council has been forced to this unfortunate delay which entails considerable expense and the continued absence of our most responsible leaders from their respective posts.

"But all may rest assured that the final outcome cannot fail to result in the Army becoming more united and a more efficient body spending and being spent for the good of others the world over."

Boston, Jan. 29—Myles Lane, former Dartmouth hockey player, who was purchased from the New York Rangers by the Boston Bruins several days ago, was tried out at right wing during practice.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins, has loaned "Red" Green one of his spare forwards to the Providence team of the Canadian-American League and indications were that Lane would take Green's place.

The former Dartmouth player who played a defence position for the Rangers, appeared impressive on the forward line during the practice session.

It's Growing!

The shoulder-length bob is taking a real place among fashions of the hour for the younger set. In many high schools and colleges more than half the girls are letting their hair grow to the new length. This style as worn by New York City girls is shown in the above photograph of Miss Edna Rabbe, 1925 Avenue G, Brooklyn.

Miss Rabbe says: "I am certainly delighted that I let my hair grow to the new length now that I have found a way to keep it easily manageable and attractive. My hair is ever so much fluffier and more vigorous than it has been for a long time. And it is free from all traces of dandruff, now. I attribute its improvement to the method I am using to care for it. It's so popular among the girls in my set. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes whenever we use them. This makes my hair so easy to dress any way I want it and holds it in place as I arrange it. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. And all my friends admire the way it makes my hair so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes that oily film from it, gives it new life and lustre. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. Danderine is delightfully fragrant; isn't oily, doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

"An AMBASSADOR for Canada Abroad"

"In every important port at which I called, I found two great Canadian institutions—the C.P.R. and the Sun Life." So said a globe-trotter recently.

"The Sun Life of Canada is international. It is found in almost all lands and is well thought of."—A former president of the National Life Underwriters' Association, after a world tour.

THE Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, with its world wide connections and its representatives in five continents, provides facilities and service for its policyholders, when travelling, almost consular in character.

Its activities form a valuable introduction for Canadian traders in lands where its scrupulous fidelity in carrying out its undertakings has established for Canadian business methods a high and enviable reputation.

It furnishes people in foreign parts with protection, carefully based on mortality experience in the particular locality involved.

The Sun Life, like Canadian banks and transportation companies, is both an interpreter of, and an advertisement for, the people and products of Canada.

It is an ambassador for the Canadian nation.
