What the Older Sister Can Do
When She Sees Younger
Ones Imposing On Her
Too Much.

(Chicago News.)

"Now," declared the woman with the iron gray hair and the suggestion of an iron jaw, "I was an older sister and you know the older sister has a very trying life. Hers is the responsibility and care of the family quite as much as the mother's, especially when the sisters are much younger."

The woman who proposed to do some of the talking laughed.

"Whenever the oldest girl sees that she is being imposed upon too much," she said, "she can put one over the way Susie Scallop did."

"Put one over!"

"Exactly! Those Scallop girls had fallen into the habit of letting Susie do it and one afternoon Susie was detained late at the sewing bee and came home well past the regular supper time. But there wasn't any supper."

"Susie said to Abbie, who was reading a book, 'Where is supper?'"

"Supper!" said Abbie, surprised that there should be any connection between herself and supper except the eating of it. Susie didn't pursue the subject but hunted up Belle, who was lying down and complaining of being hungry.

"Well! If you're hungry why didn't you pitch in and get supper ready?" inquired Susie, but Belle looked so shocked and surprised that Susie left her in still deeper disgust, and hunted up Sara, whom she found taking a nap.

"Say, Sara," observed Susie, "when you saw that I was going to be late, why didn't you get supper ready? I get the meals for you people all the time. Why can't you turn in and have supper ready for me to eat when I get home late once in a while, same as I do for you?"

"Well," said Sara, "I didn't know what to have."

"I know what to have all right," said Susie, and she went into the kitchen and banged the door and they heard the range working and got ready to eat. Before long they heard dishes and knives and forks rattling but Susie didn't come to announce the meal, so they repaired to the dining room in order to see what was going on there.

"There sat Susie having a solitary meal. She had cooked herself one chop, one potato, one mess of succotash, and there was one sliced tomato on ice for one. There was one big glass of iced tea smoking by Susie's plate which she sipped as she partook of the nourishment she had provided for herself. She waved her hand toward the stove and the pantry and told the other girls to lay to if they wanted anything to eat, and they did. It's a good thing, too, because Susie had a fellow lined up and he and she were married soon after that."

"Elder sisters," declared the lady with the iron gray hair, as she tossed her head haughtily, "seldom marry before their younger sisters do."

"They do if they are rustlers like Sue."

Rouge and toilet powders are so extensively used by Japanese women that there are shops that deal exclusively in this stuff and are indicated by a small red flag indicating the color which the powder will make the cheeks.

Dr. Munn-Recht of Bryn Mawr College is the first of her sex to hold such a position in the University. Indications are that a great number of women will be attracted to these positions to fill vacancies left by men called to war.

ADVERTISED GOODS

THE ROAD TO THE RIGHT.

YOU'VE met at least one of those few good old souls, who are constantly getting the worst of it when shopping, who don't believe in advertising. A hundred disappointing and instructive experiences have failed to teach him their plain lesson.

When he bought his first watch he was beguiled into buying one without a known name or a trustworthy guarantee. That watch—a poor timekeeper—cost him dearly by reason of missed appointments and missed trains, and for frequent repairs. Yet he paid the price of a good watch.

It is the same story with regard to his underwear, his shoes, and his fountain pen.

This good old soul's case is not unique. Many of us, if the truth be confessed, resemble him; we allow ourselves to be sold merchandise with an unknown brand or trade mark instead of buying merchandise which is well known to us through the medium of advertising. In slang language, we get "stung" pretty often.

In most of these cases we have ourselves to blame, for "the road to the right" thing to buy has been made plain by advertising.

There is no good reason for passing by the known thing, soundly guaranteed, to buy a dubious article, which, quality for quality, cannot be cheaper than the known, branded article.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising plans with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 5, Lumsden Building, Toronto.
