

THEY PRETEND THEY PLAY THE MARKET

(New York Sun)

Brown, dropping beatlessly into the only vacant seat in the train, which he had caught with the proverbial last-minute luck of the commuter, discovered that his seat mate was a neighbor, deeply engrossed in the stock market reports in his newspaper.

"Hello, Jones!" he interrupted. "H'm. You dabbling in stocks too? It seems that every man, woman, boy and girl is plunging in Wall Street?"

"Yes, I guess it is quite a popular pastime now-a-days."

"But where do they get all the money from? I know that I can't afford to speculate, even, if everybody else can. By the way, which stock are you interested in?"

"The truth is, Brown, I don't dabble in the Street at all. And neither do all the rest of the people you see reading the stock market reports every day. You see, it's a case of 'might have been.' I pick out a stock or two and then play it mentally. Of course I've got to see if I've won or lost."

"I think I'll play that game too," said Brown.

Los Angeles, April 5—Fifty of Southern California's most accomplished liars and hardest anglers are being sought for the newest of present day marathons—an endurance contest for deep sea fishermen.

All those desiring admission, according to the rules announced today, must tell a whopping big fish story. A candidate suspected of being truthful will not necessarily be barred, but he will be under a big handicap when the selection are made.

The contestants will be placed aboard, Olympic fishing barges, which will be anchored in the Pacific off Hermosa Beach, on April 15. They will fish until they are disqualified or withdraw.

THINKS MAD JABBERING ABOUT WAR BETWEEN BRITAIN AND U. S. SHOULD BE SCOTCHED

A United States periodical, The Nation, is conducting a competition in which prizes are offered for the best essays on 'What is Making For War with England.'

The New York Telegram recently splashed in heavy ink an article by Charles Johnson Post, "economist, writer, explorer," bearing the heading 'United States, Rich and Britain, Poor, Seen as Drifting Toward Possible War.' In the article Mr. Post asks: 'Is a war with England possible? His answer is: 'Yes! Deploable as is this answer, it is true.'

"Roy W. Howard, chairman of the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers, of which the Telegram is one, saw the article after it appeared and, finding it was followed by others, ordered them killed. But he couldn't wipe out the first one.

"On the other side of the Atlantic, Ramsay MacDonald is pessimistic over Anglo-American relationships. In a recent article by him, published in the United States, he writes: 'The relations between the United States and Great Britain grow increasingly unhappy.'

"These are not isolated instances. Week after week, a hint here and an insinuation there is used by a certain type of publication as evidence that on the part of certain factions at least, the feeling gains strength that the idea of ultimate war between Great Britain and the United States is not so absurdly fantastic as it may seem.

"It is a sickening commentary on the alleged progress of civilization that a mere decade after the greatest catastrophe of international history, public prints, should be discussing, even in the abstract, the possibility of so ghastly an eventuality.

"The average citizen of the United States, of Britain, of Canada will dismiss the idea and ignore the talk as stupid. Unfortunately stupid talk, persisted in, is apt to breed stupid action. It should not be ignored. It can be obliterated by the removal of suspicion and doubt. And surely there are sufficient intelligent people in the three leading English-speaking nations of the world to bring about a frank and friendly discussion of any point of difference, now or in the future. If not, God help us.

"Canada has been referred to as the 'interpreter' between Great Britain and the United States. It would seem about time for us to do something on the job. We have an influential press. We have men whose heads do more than separate their collars from their hats. Nothing they can do will have more value to humanity than the scotching of mad jabbering about the possibility of war between the nation from which we sprang and the nation to which we have contributed so many of our sons."

SMELLS

(From Poetry)

The smells are insubstantial—
There's no denying that
They walk right through, transparently,
The walls I tremble at.
And all day long they saunter
In and out my nose:
Orris-root and camphor,
And wild wet rose.
Their names and occupations
And secret hopes I share:
Salty sea and loamy earth
And quick-scented air.
Strange, the daily habits—
Informal at the most—
Of smells that act like fairies
Or nothing, or a ghost.
Strange. Yet all the verities
My heart is keeping green
Were never touched, and never heard and very seldom seen.

ORANGE ICE-BOX CAKE

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
3 eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1-3 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
24 lady fingers
1 cup cream
Mix sugar and flour and beaten egg yolks and milk and butter and cook over hot water until thick and smooth, then add orange juice and rind. Remove from fire and add stiffly-beaten whites of eggs. Line bottom and sides of pan with lady fingers, flat side toward the pan and close together. Cover lady fingers with a layer of filling; place ladyfingers. Place in ice box for 10 or 12 hours to harden. When ready to serve, remove to platter and cover with whipped cream.

Nervous and Run Down The Least Noise Would Bother Her

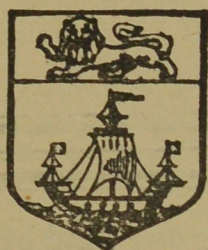

Mrs. R. Burton, Oshawa, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago I was so nervous and run down I could hardly bear to have the children make a noise it would bother me so.

"A friend advised me to take and after taking two boxes I began to feel stronger, looked better and the color came back into my cheeks, and now I am feeling fine again."

NEW BRUNSWICK

For Protection of New Brunswick Roads

During Early Spring

To prevent damage to road surfaces and road foundations is one of the aims of The New Brunswick Highway Act, which contains important provisions concerning the operation of motor vehicles or teams on the highway during the Spring months.

It is provided that on all New Brunswick highways:

"No person shall operate a motor vehicle (outside cities and towns) between the 15th day of March and the 20th day of May, without the permission of the Chief Highway Engineer or District Highway Engineers; or unless permission for the use of the highways is given by the Department of Public Works, notice of which shall be published."

This restriction does not apply to medical practitioners, nurses or clergymen in pursuit of their profession or to the driver of any ambulance attached to the service of any hospital or police department.

It is further provided:

"No vehicle carrying a load weighing more than 3000 lbs., no portable mill on wheels, no log hauler or tractor engine shall be operated upon the highways between the above dates without a written permission from the Supervisor of the Road Division."

Violation of either of these provisions carries a fine not exceeding $50.00 for each offence.

Highway Traffic officers and the Provincial Police are instructed to apprehend those who disobey the law.

Your co-operation is sought in an effort to protect New Brunswick Roads, which are your property. Thank you!

She Wondered

"He lost all his money in a wildcat mining scheme," we started.

"Why—mercy—," replied the fair young thing; "I didn't know they mined wildcats. I thought they caught them with hooks."

INSTEAD of exercise

Here's good news for the busy men and women who haven't time to take regular exercise. Millions have already learned how to keep fit with the little exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime.

Cascarets make bilious, headachy, constipated people feel fine. Their effect is not only quick, but it's lasting. They give the bowels as much real exercise as you get from an hour's bowling.

Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They actually weaken your bowels.

Each time you use Cascarets, your bowels become stronger. Ask your doctor. He knows they are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and strengthens the bowel muscles. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million packages a year!
