The Liberals will Make no Compact with Labor Party

Sir Herbert Samuel Has Reaffirmed His Pledge That Liberals Will Not Lend Support to Maintenance in Office of a Socialist Government—Conservatives May Co-operate With Liberals in Some Constituencies.

(By HERBERT BAILEY, British United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Jan. 29—Now Sir Herbert Samuel has re-affirmed his pledge that, whatever happens the Liberals will not "again lend their support to the installation and maintenance in office of a socialist government. Labor has been left wondering whether the Conservatives and Liberals are going to combine in certain constituencies, to overthrow the Labor candidates.

At present it appears that the Tories are not unwilling, where the presence of three candidates would let Labor in on a minority vote, to co-operate with the Liberals, though Labor asserts the Conservatives are only willing to do this when the Conservative candidate has not a chance.

CHECK ARTIST SERVING TERM IS IDENTIFIED

Thibert Rose Now in St. Vincent de Paul Prison Passed Phoney Checks in N. B.

Moncton, Jan. 28—How a forged check artist who had victimized several parties in Saint John and other parts of the Maritimes has been safely landed behind prison bars is told by A. J. Tingley, superintendent of the investigation of the C. N. R., Atlantic Region, who has returned from Montreal, where he identified Thibert Rose, under sentence in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, for passing bogus checks, as the man who committed the same offence at various places in the Maritimes.

Was C. N. R. Employee

Rose was a former employee of the C. N. R. in the west, having worked as a carman for a period of about 10 years but was discharged in March of last year, owing to his habits and physical inability to perform his assigned duties. Leaving the west, he came to the Maritime Provinces, where he began the career which landed him in the penitentiary. Being familiar with the form of railway checks, as well as all details of the manner in which they are made out, Rose was successful in passing bogus checks at several places in this territory.

On Aug. 24, he cashed a check at Saint John for $42, payable to Cecil Day; on Sept. 15, at Newcastle, one for $52, payable to Nacisse Roy; Sept. 24, at Halifax, one for $52, payable to Harry Sharpe; Oct. 1, at Moncton, one for $62, payable to Simon LeBlanc.

Mr. Tingley said Rose also tried while in Fredericton and Halifax, to cash a check for $800, but was not successful.

The investigation department's record shows that the forger left Moncton on Oct. 1, purchasing a ticket for Edmundston, and enquired on the train, if it made a run through to Quebec. The next heard of him was his arrest by police in Montreal, where he had continued his nefarious practice, on Jan. 12, and at the trial pleaded guilty to five charges. He was sentenced by Judge LaCroix to serve four years in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

HOLDINGS OF POTATOES IN U. S. IS LARGE

Holdings of potatoes on January 1 1929 in the 35 states of the U. S. growing late potatoes were about 30 per cent. greater than last year, writes R. U. Slayter, assistant trade commissioner in New York City, in the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Heavy production in the southern states has retarded the marketing of potatoes from the 19 northern states from which a surplus is usually shipped. Merchantable stocks on hand in these northern states on January 1, 1929, were estimated at 110,729,000 bushels, compared with 88,693,000 last year. In the remaining 16 of the 35 late potato states, where the quantity of potatoes grown is usually insufficient to supply local needs in the late winter months, holdings are estimated at 20,206,000 bushels for January 1, 1929 as compared with 11,053,000 bushels last year.

The total production of late potatoes in the United States in 1928 was 420,891,000 bushels. On this total, about 7,500,000 bushels were left in the ground because of low price 40,000,000 were unfit for feed or seed or were lost from decay or shrinkage and about 136,000,000 has been sold up to January 1, 1929. One hundred million bushels will be required for food and seed on the farms, and it is anticipated that more than 15,000,000 bushels of the stock now on hand will be fed to live stock. Reports received from growers indicate that the 1929 planting will fall short of the 3,825,000 of 1928 by more than nine per cent.

Will Be Some Help

The light fall of snow yesterday, will be considerable help to the lumber operations of this section, but another foot is needed to make good hauling, the present winter has been very discouraging to lumbermen so far, because of the scarcity of snow and a change is anxiously looked for. The crews have to be kept in the woods and with little work for them to do the cost is considerable.

They say the telephone hasn't any manners. Of course, it hasn't, either good or bad. Only the chap who uses it has them.

S. A. High Council Not Much Enthused Over General's Offer

General Booth applied for and obtained an injunction from the courts in London, after the High Council had voted to remove him from office, and argument in the same is expected to take place the latter part of this week.

SCHOONERS' CREW WERE RESCUED NEAR HALIFAX

Halifax, Jan. 28—Snatched from the storm-tossed Atlantic the Gloucester schooner Thomas S. Gorton, was picked up 10 miles off the harbor on Sunday afternoon, as her crew was preparing to abandon her in a sinking condition, by the C. G. S. Margaret, and was towed here. Her crew of eight were in an exhausted condition as a result of having continually manned the hand pumps for nearly seven days.

Section of the ceiling in the fore-castle was torn up, and mattresses, quilts, blankets and clothing apparel, were stuffed down against the hull in a frantic attempt to stop the inflow of water, which came in at the rate of 2,500 strokes of the pump per hour. Both of the schooner's dories were carried away, her jib and foresail tattered to ribbons, the foreboom broken in addition to extensive damage to the dail and bulwarks.

Considerably iced up the damaged schooner dropped anchor in the stream and was towed this morning to a wharf where the tug G. S. Mayes is standing by to prevent her from sinking. After she has been cleared of ice, the craft will be placed on the Marine railways here for repairs.
