OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

HOW TO BUY FABRICS.

Detection of fraud in dress goods is one of the important features of domestic economy.

Getting a dollar's worth for a dollar is a puzzling task. It is a real problem for the average woman to know what to buy and how much to pay for what she gets.

To offset such conditions the following tests will be found useful:—

Test for Woolens.

Pure wool burns slowly with an animal smell and leaves a gummy ash. Shoddy substitutes are common. Scraps of wool in goods that have been used are collected by manufacturers and woven into new material. The supply of fresh wool is not great enough to supply the demand. The use of old wool is hard to detect except by the rough feel of the material.

Cotton Imitations.

Cotton is used in imitations of all other fabrics. It is mercerized to imitate silk. Outing flannel is used to imitate wool. Cotton is used in imitation of linen. It will burn with a quick flame and can thus be detected.

THE WOES OF MRS. NEWLYWED.

(Copyright)

"Oh dear, I haven't any cream and I just must have some whipped cream for my dessert," sighed Mrs. Nawlywed.

A fairly good substitute may be made from milk and egg whites," comforted Mrs. Neighbor. "Blend one teaspoon of cornstarch with a tablespoon of sugar, add slowly one cup of rich milk and cook until as thick as cream. Have the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff and dry, pour over a little of the boiling milk and beat again, continuing until all is well blended. Flavor with vanilla."

CUSTOMS OF BURMA

Burmese Idea of the Soul After Death is Strange

Burma is the one place on earth where the death of a man owing large sums of money is no cause for worry to his creditors. In fact, the Burmese think that a creditor has a better chance of recovering a debt from the dead than from the living, provided the deceased has relations who are at all concerned for his welfare in the life beyond the grave. If the debt is not paid they believe that the dead man will come into the creditor's power as his servant, ox or dog.

The Burmese appear to have no ideas regarding the direction of the land of the dead, or of the country from which the race came. The curious custom prevails of holding a complete funeral and burial ceremony in the hope of deceiving the Destroyer, and inducing him to leave a sick person alone.

The Burman regards it as a matter of course that the soul should continue to exist after death, and he believes that it remains in the house, and is cognizant of all that goes on there, for seven days. The bed of the deceased person is laid, and a fresh supply of food and water is placed by it every morning and evening. During the same period hospitality is offered to all who come, and monks are invited to preach as well as to eat.

At the end of the seven days, the spirit departs. According to the Burmese, he is ejected by the house-god, Min Magayi, the mighty blacksmith who was burned alive by a king of Tagaung, and whose spirit watches over every Burman household. But during the seven days he is not absolutely confined to the house. He may wander about visiting the places he was wont to visit in life.

BABOONS ARE HARMLESS

But One in Africa Fought Two Dogs "Manfully"

A letter from Capetown, South Africa, says: Two dogs and a baboon had a frightful battle at the Rietkull farm in the Vitenhage district, and the "old man" would undoubtedly have finished off both his antagonists had not humans interfered. Natives seeing a troop of baboons walking up a small hill set out after them with the two dogs, which intercepted and drove one of the baboons towards a farm house. The baboon made for a tank at the corner of the house. The dogs vainly tried to get at it from one side, and the baboon jumped down the other side and made for a small wood, where seating itself behind a bush, it calmly awaited the oncoming enemy.

The foremost dog had no sooner reached the bush than the baboon made a grab for it and with one bite bits its head off. The second dog pounced on the baboon, but before its side was ripped open. The dog's end was near when a shot from a native's gun killed the baboon. A curious part of the affair is the way the local newspapers treat it. Apparently no sympathy is conceived for the baboon, although these animals are inoffensive harmless animals unless attacked. They go about in troops, the old valiantly defending the young. When in trouble they moan and cry like children and their conduct is often remarkably human.

BOY'S HEART MASSAGED

Action Restored After Thirteen Minutes' Suspension

The story of how Albert Davies, aged 6, had his heart's action restored by massage after thirteen minutes' cessation is related in the privately circulated "Gazette" issued to the staff of Guy's Hospital, London, Eng. After the boy's tonsils had been removed he stopped breathing. Other means failing to restore respiration, which had ceased for twelve minutes' an incision was made to enable the surgeon to massage the heart. After about twenty squeezes the heart was suddenly felt to be beating and respiration was re-established, though at first the pulse was not perceptible, and the boy's condition remained extremely feeble. He was unconscious for two days. Only by unremitting care was he brought round gradually to perfect health.

The medical statement on the case concludes: "There have been several successful cases recorded of heart massage, but this case is perhaps unique, in that recovery took place after so long a time of cessation of the circulation. It can be imagined that it is extremely difficult to estimate time in emergencies, but it is certain that the heart had stopped at least thirteen minutes, and the impression of those present was that this figure should be between fifteen and twenty minutes."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Figures may not lie, but estimates are often misleading.

Very often the price of liberty is $10 or ten days.

Lots of men who rob Peter to pay Paul manage to stand Paul off.

As a physical culture apparatus the old-fashioned woodpile has no equal.

It is the man at the little end of the horn who is either applauded or hooted by the audience.

25 CENTS DESTROYS

YOUR DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

Save Your Hair! Make It Thick, Wavy and Beautiful—Try This.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy, and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Civilization has done a great deal for man, but it hasn't been able to prevent his stopping to look at a dog fight.
