1,300 CONVICTS AT CLINTON PRISON, N. Y., WERE THWARTED IN A BOLD BREAK FOR LIBERTY

Dannemora, N. Y., July 22—Behind a smoke screen issuing from a building they set afire, a band of the most dangerous criminals in the State led 1,300 inmates of the Clinton Prison in a break for liberty today.

When the smoke cleared three convicts were dead, 20 were wounded, two guards were injured, the prison carpenter shop burned and the dynamo that furnished the prison with power smashed, but not a prisoner had escaped.

The instigators and leaders of the riot, which was finally quelled by guards mounted on the walls with rifles and machine-guns, were lifters sent to Clinton Prison for discipline from other States prisons, where they had proven themselves "hard cases."

In a statement issued after the riot had been quelled, warden Harry M. Kaiser said that trouble had been in the air for weeks.

..Trouble Starts

Thirteen hundred convicts took their places in the mess hall for breakfast this morning, with no outward indication that trouble was brewing. At the close of the meal they filed into the prison yard on their way to the various prison shops. Still there was nothing to indicate that the smouldering fires were about to burst into flames.

As the convicts reached the yard they began to mill suddenly. Unarmed inside guards dashed into the ranks in an effort to reach the ring leaders and return them to their cells. They were overpowered and badly beaten.

One group of convicts set fire to the carpenter and weave shop, while another raided the power house, smashing the dynamo and leaving the institution without lights or electric power.

Dash For Freedom

Under cover of the smoke screen

from the burning shop, three groups of convicts made a dash for the three walls, ignoring the whistle signal ordering them to return to their cells.

As the convicts attempted to scale the 20-foot stone walls in the yard they were met by the concerted fire of guards on the wall, armed with shotguns and machine guns. Their use of the human ladder method of reaching the top brought them directly in line of fire and they fell back without gaining their objective.

Meanwhile the prison siren wailed out its signal of a "prison break," a tocsin known far and wide throughout this section.

Rush to Aid

In Dannemora men and boys dropped their work and seizing weapons rushed to the prison to aid in quelling the riot. From Malone barracks, 35 state troopers rushed to the scene in automobiles while customs border patrol men and even game wardens hastened from other parts of the north country. Local residents cleaned out the stock of two hardware stores to obtain firearms and ammunition for defense of the prison walls.

One group of convicts took refuge in a storehouse, barricading the windows and doors with bales of cotton, but later surrendered without difficulty.

The tailor shop and some stored lumber caught fire from the carpenter shop, adding to the confusion. Fire destroyed 75,000 feet of lumber.

Around noon two companies of the rioters broke up and returned to their cells, leaving only the more determined convicts still milling around the yard. An hour later they, too, gave up the struggle in the face of rapidly increasing odds and returned to their cells.

present in the Fredericton district. Mr. C. W. Boccock in charge of the car will conduct meetings this week at Hawkeshaw, Lake George, Harvey, York Mills and McAdam. Mr. Boccock has passed through Madawaska, Victoria and Carleton Counties on his way here and reports that a gratifying interest has been taken in the work on all sides. The government recognizes the efficiency of the enterprise and is co-operating with the Forestry Association in every possible way.

the sport that they wanted, motored around the peninsular over the new highway lately completed by the Quebec government as far as River du Loup, where they branched off towards Fredericton.

Mr. Briggs when seen this morning said the trip had been a very enjoyable one. He said that they had employed Mr. Currie as guide, not on account of his familiarity with Quebec rivers, but because of his extensive knowledge of the salmon angling game. "I had Currie to Newfoundland with me two years ago," he added "and found his services invaluable. He was certainly a great help to us this time I can assure you. When I go after salmon I always like to have an expert along with me."

Mr. Briggs said that one reason why salmon fishing was so good in Quebec was that the use of nets was not allowed or permitted in the rivers of the province.

Mr. and Mrs. McWha, of St. Stephen were week-end visitors to the city.

STOCK MARKET TO DAY WAS INCLINED TO BE IRREGULAR

The stock market today was active but there were further declines in rails and some other issues due largely to profit taking. Union Pacific was down to 270 and C. P. R. to 239. On the Montreal stock exchange, Shawinigan sold up to 89½, but Brazilian and Nickel, other popular issues were off slightly.
