LUMBER DRIVES COMING ALONG SATISFACTORILY

The Canaan River and Rockwell Drives Are Reported to Be in Safe Water—The River is Still Rising Here.

The water in the St. John River at this point has risen a foot during the last twenty-four hours, according to records kept at the city pumping station. The weather continues mild, the snow in the woods is melting and the frost coming out of the ground, therefore a further rise of water may be expected within the next few days. The recent rain was of great value in helping along the lumber drives, some of which had been hung up owing to scarcity of water.

The River Valley Lumber Company's drive in the Rockwell stream had been abandoned, but on weather conditions changing a crew of men was promptly dispatched to the scene to resume work. Advices today are that all of the drive will be in safe water by tonight. Rockwell stream flows into French Lake, which is today reported free from ice.

The Fraser Companies' drive of three million feet in Canaan River is reported to be in safe water today. These logs will be rafted and towed to the Victoria mill in this city.

Driving conditions along the Nashwaak and its tributaries are reported to be good.

This was the year the contests were inaugurated by the Rotary club and since that time it has been made a regular event of the school year in the high schools of the province. Mr. Gunter went to Ottawa that year, as representative from this province to take part in the dominion wide competition.
