HON. MR. HAZEN LIKELY TO HAVE POST IN WASHINGTON

New Job to be Created for Ex-minister of Marine--Salary Will Likely be $25000 a Year--Need of a Canadian Representative at the U. S. Capital Has Been Felt for Some Time--Many Problems to be Ajudsted

Ottawa, Oct. 15. — Canada is to have a high commissioner or special envoy at Washington, and the man slated for the position is Hon. J. D. Hazen, ex-minister of marine and fisheries. This is the most interesting report of progress emanating today from the new government. The report is as yet unofficial, but is well founded.

The need of more direct official communication between Washington and Ottawa on matters affecting joint interests of the neighboring countries has been recognized for years. The creation of the international joint high commission furnished one medium. The British embassy at Washington is another medium. But now the war has created a new condition. Now that the United States has entered the war the economic resources of Great Britain, Canada and the United States have to be co-ordinated to the fullest possible extent. The purchase and output of war munitions of every kind, problems of exchange, credits, supplies of food, etc., have to be considered in the light of mutual needs and mutual effort. These problems involve important questions of governmental policy demanding prompt action and quick understanding.

The need of a Canadian representative of quasi cabinet standing at Washington at the present is, if anything, more pressing than the need of a Canadian high commissioner at London. Hon. Mr. Hazen, as a minister of the Borden government for the past six years has intimate knowledge of Canada's war problems of finance, munitions, etc. He is a natural choice for the Washington position—a much more important one at the present time than the New Brunswick chief justiceship for which he was first slated.

Problems Arising.

One of the main problems to be dealt with at once is regarding adjusting the balance of late increased British orders for munitions of all kinds, which have gone to the United States. At the same time the strain on the United States for war output has been increased by her own war needs. It is quite probable that any dropping off of war orders to Canada by Great Britain, consequent upon Canada's depleted ability to advance credits may be compensated for by war orders given the United States. Negotiations along this line are already under way. The result may do much to rectify our present adverse trade with the United States, help the exchange situation and help solve Canada's present serious financial and industrial problems.

There will be much work for Mr. Hazen at Washington. In view of the expense necessary to maintain a position commensurate with the importance and requirements of the post in Washington diplomatic circles the salary will probably be $25,000 per year.

Concerning the position the Evening Journal says today: "The creation of a Canadian high commissionership at Washington to represent the dominion in the United States, is under consideration. It is understood that the government is in communication with both the British and United States authorities on this important step."

"The British government will undoubtedly consent to the move and it is too late for classification."

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING in all cases must be based on the return for the outlay. No better opportunity in this respect can be found in this locality than

THE DAILY MAIL

This paper has a special value to the local advertiser, as the majority of its readers are in this city and the immediate surrounding country.

Our Advertising Rates will be found decidedly reasonable in view of the results.

PEOPLE READ

ADVERTISEMENTS

They are trying to buy as wisely as they can. It is necessary they should.

They are eager to know what the local merchants have to offer, and good live advertising is interesting reading to them.

Most of our enterprising business men have already realized this fact and their advertising appears regularly in the Mail.

If you are not a regular advertiser in the DAILY or SEMI-WEEKLY MAIL, you are overlooking an opportunity that no business man in this locality ought to be too busy to appreciate.

THE AD. AND THE MAN.

By James J. Montague.

He saw the ad from day to day And muttered: "I defy it; The stuff may be just what they say,

But I'm not going to buy it." As time wore on he made remarks

It would not do to mention, For he was mad because that ad Was forced on his attention.

But in a week, or two, or three, He said: "There's no denying, The way that ad gets hold of me, The stuff may be worth trying." For just about a fortnight more He dared mere words to win him,

And then the ad completely had Aroused the spender in him.

Next day he drifted in a store And quietly expended A few big iron dollars for The stuff the ad commended. He found it filled a long-felt need Its excellence surprised him, And now he's glad because the ad So deftly hypnotized him.
