

A CONSERVATIVE VIEW OF THE BORDEN CABINET CRISIS

Interesting Comments in "Bob" Rogers Organ, The Winnipeg Telegram, Which Tell Much Between Lines--Why the Minister of Elections Quit the Government.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 23.—All Winnipeg was in a buzz last night, not so much over the resignation from the cabinet of Hon. Robert Rogers as over a four-column dispatch from its staff correspondent, reviewing the situation. The Telegram is owned by Mr. Rogers and the article is accepted as having been wholly inspired by him. It is an attack on Sir Robert Borden, frankly suggesting that he is dilatory in his attitude on conscription and throughout casts suspicion upon his motives and several of his cabinet ministers. Some of the more pointed paragraphs of the attack follow:

"Developments have been impending since Thursday last which the passage of the Military Service Bill and the adoption of the Senate amendments last Saturday failed to avert probably on account of the Premier's utterance in piloting the measure. When he was asked by W. E. Knowles of Moose Jaw, why the bill had been delayed nine days after passing the Senate, before it reappeared in the Commons, Sir Robert said that he was not aware that there had been any particular delay, inasmuch as in any event the bill could not become law until signed by the Governor General.

Delay the Enforcement.
"It could not be signed by the Governor General until it has passed all stages in the Senate and Commons.

Thought Child Was Dying
CHOLERA
INFANTUM
DR. FOWLER'S
Extract of Wild Strawberry
Cured Her.

Mothers should look well after their children during the hot summer months, as this is the time of the year this trouble is most prevalent. It begins with a profuse diarrhoea, the stomach becomes irritated, vomiting and purging set in, and the child rapidly loses flesh, and becomes weak, prostrated and languid.

Mrs. B. A. Clirwell, Rossway, N. S., writes: "I can recommend, most highly Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. A friend of mine whose little daughter was ill with cholera infantum was given up by the doctors. The little one's mother asked me to come in and see the child. I told her I had a bottle of 'Dr. Fowler's' and asked her if she would try it. When the bottle was half used the child was well. This cure was a miraculous one, for I thought the child was dying at the time."

There is nothing can take the place of Dr. Fowler's.

There is nothing just as good. Do not accept a substitute, and thus endanger your life.

JOHN B. HAWTHORNE,

hence the Premier's remark was very cryptic. Members universally insisted that the only interpretation of it is that the Premier has undertaken with somebody that the bill will not be forced ahead very fast. It is taken to mean that the Governor General will not be invited to assent to it until Sir Robert and others feel like asking him and that may be some time yet. But for pressure from within and without the cabinet and from within and without parliament the bill would never have been put through last Saturday at all, but the Premier's philosophy now, that it doesn't matter whether it is through the House or not, though it will temporarily satisfy some to have it through the House, as it cannot become law until the Governor General signs it.

Crisis is Acute.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB TELLS HOW TO ACHIEVE SUCCESS

Men Who Control the Bethlehem Steel Company Worked From the Bottom of the Ladder--Some Men Who Acquired the Dress Suit Habit Early in Life Now Serve as Waiters in Restaurants.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has contributed an article to the American Magazine which contains perhaps the clearest statement yet given of the underlying principles which insure success:

"For 36 years I have been moving among workmen in what is now the biggest branch of American industry—the steel business. In that time it has been my good fortune to watch most of the present leaders rise from the ranks. These men, I am convinced, are not natural prodigies. They won out by using normal brains to think beyond their manifest daily duties."

Not Due to Genius.
"American industry is spilling over with men who started life even with the leaders, with brains just as big, with hands quite as capable. And yet one man emerges from the mass, rises sheer above his fellows, and the rest remain."

"The men who miss success have two general alibis: 'I'm not a genius' is one; the other 'There aren't the opportunities today there used to be.' Neither excuse holds. The first is beside the point; the second is altogether wrong."

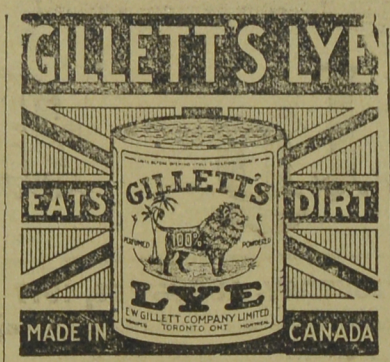

"The thing that most people call 'genius' I do not believe in. That is, I am sure that few successful men are natural geniuses."

Leaders Work to Top.

"There is not a man in power at our Bethlehem steel works today who did not begin at the bottom and work his way up, round by round, simply using his head and his hands a little more effectively than the men beside him. Eugene Grace, the president of Bethlehem, worked in the yard when I first knew him. Mr. Snyder was a stenographer; Mr. Mathews a draftsman. The 15 men who are in direct charge of the plants were not selected because of some startling stroke of genius, but because day in and day out they were doing little unusual things—thinking beyond their jobs. They are wealthy men today. All are directors of the company; some are directors of the corporation."

"Most talk about 'super-genius' is nonsense. I have found that when 'stars' drop out, their departments seldom suffer. And their successors are merely men who have learned by application and self-discipline to get full production for an average, normal brain."

Success First, Pleasure Afterward.
"I have always felt that the surest way to qualify for the job just ahead is to work a little harder than anyone else on the job one is holding down. One of the most successful men I have

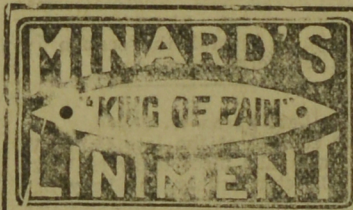

With the Canadian soldiers in the trenches suffering heavier casualties by reason of new attacks, with voluntary recruitment at a standstill, with patriotic people throughout Canada demanding action, with the immediate necessity for reinforcements, with returned soldiers and veterans' associations demanding immediate enforcement of conscription, very few men in Canada outside of Sir Robert Borden himself can understand why the bill should be delayed a single day. Forces in the cabinet are believed to have demanded that the delay be ended and that Canada's utmost war effort be prosecuted vigorously. They and others fail to see why conscription should be deferred pending the formation of a union government. It is believed that rather than grant this demand for immediate action Sir Robert will permit powerful members of the cabinet to resign their portfolios. There is a well-founded report thoroughly believed to be true, that Hon. Robert Rogers has been the foremost advocate of the immediate passing and enforcement of the compulsion bill, and in consequence that Mr. Rogers resigned his portfolio as a protest against the delay.

Slow Progress.
"It is three months ago last Saturday that Sir Robert Borden first announced that Canada would have selective conscription. Three weeks then elapsed before the bill was introduced on account of the Premier negotiating with Sir Wilfrid for coalition. The bill being introduced it was understood that Sir George Foster would be the only Government speaker after Sir Wilfrid Laurier on second reading. The Liberals were to be permitted to talk themselves out and the bill to be put through with all possible expedition. Sir Robert himself asked for a quick decision. He then opened negotiations with conscriptionist Liberals and, instead of there being but one speaker on the Government side there were many, and a deadly, dreary, dull debate ensued, lasting for weeks before the vote was taken. Over a week was absorbed in the committee stage and then almost a week elapsed before the bill was given its third reading. Less than two weeks elapsed on the Senate's consideration of the measure, but for some obscure reason the Government leader in the upper chamber, Sir James Lougheed, caused the insertion of an amendment which meant the return of the bill to the Commons. It is presumed that Sir James moved the amendment at the request of the Premier, and the reason is somewhat obscure, unless it were to delay the bill, for the same amendment had been suggested by Liberals in the House of Commons previously, and had been rejected by the Administration."

Union Cabinet Timber.
"The fact is that, instead of coming up again immediately in the Commons, the bill was delayed for nine days, and then only brought up under pressure of ministers and many members, with union negotiations resumed in the meanwhile between Sir Robert Borden and Sir Clifford Sifton. It is believed that the bill has been delayed pending the completion of the proposed union cabinet, which is to include possibly T. A. Crerar, Winnipeg; H. W. Wood, Calgary; Senator Robertson (Labor), J. A. Turriff, Hugh Guthrie, Dr. Michael Clark and others."

"It is said that if Turriff does not enter the cabinet, he will be made a senator. The union overtures will be completed this week."

GAIETY THEATRE'S FALL ANNOUNCEMENT

The Management of The Gaiety Theatre take pleasure in announcing to their patrons that they have just closed contracts for the pictures to be shown at the Gaiety during the coming Fall season, consisting of the greatest line-up of stars and pictures ever before shown at one theatre. We have bought the biggest and best that could be had. We have found, however, that on account of the enormous increase in film production, caused by the big increase in the salaries of the stars, directors, and others of the cast, and by much larger sums being paid for bigger and better stories, by famous authors, that it has been necessary for us to pay many times more for our pictures than we have had in the past.

Now we were confronted with the question of arranging for the biggest and best pictures on the market and increasing slightly our admission as a permanent policy, or of showing an inferior grade of pictures at the same admission prices. As past experience has taught us that Fredericton people demand the best, we have decided to adopt the following scale of prices, STARTING MONDAY, SEPTEMBER THIRD.

MATINEE PRICES UNCHANGED—Children, 5 cents; Adults, 10 cents.

EVENING PRICES—Children, 10 cents; Adults, 15 cents.
