TOMATOES MOST POPULAR.

The tomato is America's most popular vegetable for canning. Over 10,000,000 cases, each containing 24 cans, are packed annually. Nevertheless, the housewife who adds one or a dozen cans to this remarkable output is doing a necessary bit of war work.

No sugar is required—their own acid acts as a preservative if the cans are properly sealed.

Tomatoes may be canned whole or in pieces, depending upon the size and the use. Instead of adding syrup, use tomato juice. Water decreases their food value as well as flavor.

Water Bath Canning.

Grade and sort the tomatoes according to ripeness, size and quality. Scald 1½ minutes, then dip into cold water. Remove cores, stems and skins, and pack directly into cans or hot jars. Press down with a wooden or silver tablespoon (add no water). Add a level teaspoonful of salt per quart. Place rubbers and caps in position, turn down caps loosely, and set cans in a water bath of wash boiler canning outfit. Sterilize that is boil, 22 minutes. Remove jars, tighten covers, and invert to cool. Any leakage proves that the container is imperfect, or has been imperfectly sealed, and tomatoes must be sterilized a second time.

Corn and Tomatoes.

Scald fresh corn on the cob 5 minutes and cold-dip. Cut the corn from the cob. Scald the tomatoes 1½ minutes and cold-dip, then core and peel. Cut the tomatoes in pieces and mix 2 parts of tomatoes with one part of salt per quart and pack mixture in hot jars. Put rubbers and caps in position, set cans in water bath canning outfit, commercial or home-made, and sterilize 120 minutes.

Thick Tomatoes.

Housewives who prefer a thick product often cook the tomatoes in a preserving kettle until the reach the desired consistency before pouring them into jars. Then the cans are set in a water bath and their contents sterilized 20 minutes.

Preserved Tomatoes.

Yellow, per or cherry tomatoes make the most attractive preserves. Scald the tomatoes and remove the skins carefully, weigh, add equal weight of sugar, and put into a preserving kettle. Add one level teaspoonful of shaded green ginger root for each 2 pounds of tomatoes. Preserved ginger may be used. Boil 10 minutes, then remove tomatoes from syrup and spread them on a platter to cool. This will keep them from breaking to pieces. Boil syrup to the desired thickness, add tomatoes and simmer gently, put into jars while hot, adding a slice of lemon to each jar before sealing.

Open Kettle Canning.

The old fashioned open kettle process of canning tomatoes is followed successfully by many housewives. Prepare tomatoes in the usual way, allow a level teaspoonful of salt to each quart and stew in an aluminum or porcelain lined preserving kettle. Add no water and bring to a boil slowly, then cook at least 30 minutes. Turn into sterilized jars, seal and invert to test. When using a spoon, fork, or cup with the tomatoes, first dip it into boiling water.

Yellow Tomato Preserve.

Yellow tomatoes make excellent preserve, the flavor is quite a bit different from the red, and the rich golden color is very pleasing. The recipe for the same follows:

To 3 pounds of tomatoes allow 3 of granulated sugar and the juice of 2 lemons. Cover the tomatoes with sugar and lemon juice. Stand overnight and in the morning drain off the syrup. Boil until thick and then add the tomatoes. Cook gently for 20 minutes after the boiling starts. Seal in sterilized jars.

SHOES.

(Chicago News.)

When Wilkins finds he needs a pair He goes to the store and buys 'em

When Mrs. Wilkins needs a pair, She goes about with troubled air, With knitted brow and anxious stare, To figure out what's best to wear. This coming season, and compare The values here with values there; For salesmen lie in wait to snare Confiding females everywhere. And shoes that aren't just right impair Your looks and lay your weaker's bar. There must be caution and to spare. There must be study, thought and care,

In this most delicate affair. She must be firm, though dealers glare Though counter-jumpers tear their hair

In impotent and mad despair. It would be more than she could bear If she should miss the perfect pair, The timid charmer, rich and rare, The "just the thing" that waits somewhere Decried to be her lot and share, So, sternly bound to do and dare, She goes the rounds and tries 'em.

HER CHOICE.

It is really very simple Why a fellow loves a girl, He's attracted by a dimple Or perhaps a pretty curl. But you take a freckled chappie With a visage like a pie, He may interest some girlie But it's hard to figure why.

Three hundred and twenty-five women are now employed in the National City Bank of New York city.

Twenty-five women of East Orange, N. J., have voluntarily undertaken the task of keeping in repair the uniforms and clothing of the New Jersey soldiers encamped at Sea Girt.

Two one-legged candidates will fight it out for the mayoralty of Dennison, O this Fall. Earl Tufford, incumbent, renominated by the Democrats has a cork leg. Lester Leighninger nominated by the Republicans, also has but one leg.

Miss Annie Rothenberger, the 16 year-old daughter of a prosperous farmer residing in the Perkiomen Valley of Pennsylvania, has cut all the wheat and oats off their 70 acre farm this year.

"The most successful recruiting campaign yet staged in America."—Boston Press.
You will surely want to read about that wonderful two weeks' campaign organized by the 236th Battalion—in the New England States, by which the last New Brunswick volunteer infantry regiment was brought up to war strength.

MacLean Kilties of America

The story is graphically and interestingly unfolded in illustration and text in the current issue of the regimental journal, the

Breath o' the Heather

Between its handsome colored cover—reproducing the brilliant tartan of the MacLean of Duart—will be found the history of this memorable campaign, covering Boston and the "Cradle of Liberty," New Bedford, Bangor, Fredericton and Valcartier Camp.
