BOOK ON WHAT TO WRITE TO ABSENT WIVES

The Kind of Volume the World is Pining For—Wonderful Reasoning Power of Some Women.

(Chicago News.)

"If I was of a literary turn of mind," remarked Culberson, "I'd sit under a willow tree somewhere and write a book that the world is desperately in need of, and at the same time make enough money in the job to put myself in the burdened-with-wealth class."

"What kind of volume do you think the world is pining for?" asked the girl at the adding machine. "Haven't we got the grandest set of six best sellers to draw upon?"

"I'm through with 'em all," replied Culberson. "The book I'd write would treat of the practical. I'm thinking of a work that would be purchased by every blooming husband in the world whose wife is away on vacation, and called 'What to Write to Absent Wives.' What a man can write about to his wife is the most perplexing question problem he faces. It is a problem seldom perfectly solved."

"How odd! Why not write the same kind of letter you did before you married her?"

"Can't be done, Miss McGillicuddy," explained Culberson. "I thought it could until I took pen in hand and tried. Before a man marries he does not care how foolish his fiancée thinks he is. In fact, he and she put a premium on that sort of thing. But after the wedding chimes have been forgotten a man wants his wife to believe him a monument of sense."

"A man of 44 summers can't bring himself to sit down and begin his epistle like this, for instance:

"Dear Snookums, how desperately lonely I have been since you left yesterday afternoon. Loveykins, you must come back at once or I shall be found dead of despondency. Oh, my Cutey, why did I let you go? Flower-let, before the moon sets I fear I shall jump off the sun porch and end it all."

"Why, that's a classic!" exclaimed the girl at the adding machine. "The wife who would get a letter with those sentiments would feel so happy she'd be likely to go out on the lawn and run around a tree for sheer joy."

"That's not classic—it's imbecile. My letter, I believe, would be more like the following:

"Dear Maud—I am feeling fine. How are you? The cat is sick. Someone stole the ice box off the back porch. A storm came in windows and soaked everything. Stood on sidewalk to drive nail. Sideboard tipped over. Can cut glass be glued? Forgot water in bathtub. People downstairs threaten to start suit. Three gentlemen visiting on business left lighted cigar

BRITISH M. P. WAS RELEASED

London, Aug. 10.—Captain Arthur Stanley Wilson, Conservative member of parliament, who was taken off a Greek steamer in the Mediterranean Sea by an Austrian submarine in December, 1915, has been released by the Austrians and is on his way home.

Captain Wilson was accompanied by Col. H. D. Napiere, former British military attaché at Sofia, when the Greek steamer encountered the Austrian submarine in the Mediterranean. Both men were made prisoners. It was stated at the time that Captain Wilson was carrying despatches and that they had been seized by the Austrians. Later a letter written by Capt. Wilson to his sister in London said that he was able to destroy the despatches before he was captured.

CHATHAM HORSES FOR THE SHORT SHIP

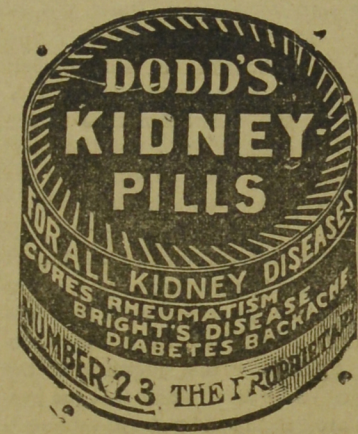

(Chatham World.)

Edward Dalton's string of trotting horses, which have been training at the Chatham race track for several weeks, were shipped to St. John Tuesday morning. They will race on the Moosepath track this week, and will then go to Moncton and Fredericton for the races in those cities, returning to Chatham for the trotting meet the latter part of the month. The string which is in charge of Trainer Oran Jardine includes Will-Be-Sure, Jimmy Howes, Nelda Snell, Jean, owned by Mr. Dalton, and Oakley A., owned by Joseph Napke of Redbank.

"Oh, aren't you terrible!" sighed the girl at the adding machine. "You'd never send a letter like that before you were married."

"What wonderful reasoning power some women have!" said Culberson, biting his cigar.

SEEMS EVERYONE IS ANXIOUS TO TRY IT

Recent discovery of ether compound that dries up corns so they lift out.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

The Quality Drug Store

THE ROAD TO THE RIGHT.

YOU'VE met at least one of those few good old souls, who are constantly getting the worst of it when shopping, who don't believe in advertising. A hundred disappointing and instructive experiences have failed to teach him their plain lesson.

When he bought his first watch he was beguiled into buying one without a known name or a trustworthy guarantee. That watch—a poor timekeeper—cost him dearly by reason of missed appointments and missed trains, and for frequent repairs. Yet he paid the price of a good watch.

It is the same story with regard to his underwear, his shoes, and his fountain pen.

This good old soul's case is not unique. Many of us, if the truth be confessed, resemble him; we allow ourselves to be sold merchandise with an unknown brand or trade mark instead of buying merchandise which is well known to us through the medium of advertising. In slang language, we get "stung" pretty often.

In most of these cases we have ourselves to blame, for "the road to the right" thing to buy has been made plain by advertising.

There is no good reason for passing by the known thing, soundly guaranteed, to buy a dubious article, which, quality for quality, cannot be cheaper than the known, branded article.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 50 Lumsden Building, Toronto.
