A DRASTIC AMENDMENT TO CONSCRIPTION BILL

New Section Brought Forward by Hon. Mr. Meighen in Parliament Yesterday-- Agitators Against the Enforcement of The Law to be Severely Dealt With-- Must Keep Quiet or go to Jail.

Ottawa, July 11. — After the commons had reached this evening the end of its first run in the committee stage over all sections in the military service act, and was about to return to section 1 again for the final resurvey of the bill, the solicitor general sprang a new and decidedly drastic section. The amendment is designed to put a summary stop to all the agitations against the enforcement of the bill once it becomes law, and to prevent any legal proceedings under habeas corpus or otherwise from interfering with or delaying quick action once a man is conscripted.

Newspaper editors who allow in their papers anything calculated to induce or influence any person to resist or impede the execution of the act will, under the new section, be liable upon indictment or upon summary conviction, to from one to five years' imprisonment and their paper shall be summarily suppressed for the duration of the war. Any person who speaks or writes against compliance with the conscription law shall be also liable to speedy incarceration for a like period. No tricks of the law can be invoked to protract legal proceedings in connection with appeals from the decisions of any of the conscription tribunals.

The new section puts an effective closure on all anti-conscriptionists once the bill becomes law. Under it the province of Quebec and every other section or class in Canada would have to keep quiet and submit or else go to jail.

The solicitor general merely read the amendment. He made no comment upon it beyond saying that the members of the house would have the full text available for reference in tomorrow's Hansard.

Approaches Marital Law.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who listened intently to the reading of the new section, interjected but one remark: "Better put in marital law at once," he said.

The moving of the new section will undoubtedly further protract the debate on the bill, and it may be expected that the Quebec members at least will vigorously protest against the taking away of the right to protest against conscription as soon as it is passed by the present parliament, and even before its enforcement is undertaken or before a new parliament is elected. It may also be expected that there will be vigorous opposition to the taking away of the historic habeas corpus.

Today's discussion touched interesting points and brought a fiery appeal from W. F. MacLean for a national, war-winning government to take office "in the next six weeks."

All on One Level.

Ottawa, July 11. — The military service bill was again under consideration of the house today in committee of the whole. Hon. Arthur Meighen stated in reply to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that a man could not insist on the right to obtain the same rank in the overseas forces under the measure as he possessed in the militia. Every one was brought down to the same level the moment the military service act applied.

Hon. Frank Oliver said he understood that when the 100,000 men were raised Canada's obligation as to men would end.

Mr. Meighen replied that Canada would still be very much in the war, but it would be for parliament to say how many more would be sent.

Hon. Charles Maclellan said there were a large number of Canadians in British regiments, and he asked if anything had been done to bring them all into the Canadian forces. He also asked what was being done regarding Canadian recruits secured in the United States.

Sir Edward Kemp stated that no consideration had been given to the question of the moving of Canadians from British regiments, but as to Canadians in the United States, he said that recruits were given a no opportunity of saying whether they would go into the British or the Canadian army.

Sir Robert Borden remarked that there were not very many Canadian privates in the British army; they were principally officers.

Mr. Maclellan thought it might be in the interests of the Canadian corps to have all their men brought in.

The premier said there was more or less difficulty now about the surplus of officers.

Still 50,000 Short.

The member for Edmonton pointed out that although 418,000 men had enlisted, the minister of militia had stated that 75,000 of them had not gone overseas and would not go overseas; therefore, although 100,000 men were added to those who had recruited for overseas it was not the case that under the bill an army of 500,000 would be raised.

Those 75,000 men should be deducted. Canada would still be 50,000 short. He did not think it was creditable that we should make a pledge and fail to fulfil it, nor that we should make a claim to raising a force which we really had not raised.

Sir Robert Borden said that not more than 100,000 men could be raised between now and the next session of parliament.

Mr. Meighen in reply to Mr. Oliver, said that it was utterly impossible to tell how many of the classes would be called out, but all would be called out that were necessary in order to get 100,000 men.

Mr. Oliver contended that if the means had been provided for the registration of the civil population, considerable time would have been saved. Even yet, it would be the part of wisdom to incorporate in the bill a registration clause.

Mr. Meighen took the opposite view. He believed that registration would get one result, and one only — names and ages. They would have to go through the whole process of selection which would duplicate the work and the length of time taken, and it would not facilitate the business of raising the men.

Mr. Oliver asked if any calculation should be made as to the number of men who would be secured in the different sections of the country. Mr. Meighen replied that there had not.

Mr. Oliver then referred to a statement made by the Hon. A. Seigney giving what Mr. Oliver took to be the approximate number of men which the various provinces would be expected to supply under the bill. Ontario and Quebec, it was suggested, should give 25,000 men each, and Mr. Seigney was credited with saying that "25,000 men from Quebec would not be burdensome."

Mr. Meighen suggested that the figures were given simply for the purpose of illustration, but Mr. Oliver insisted that if it was intended by the government that the bill should be fairly administered with regard to ser-council, made a statement in which he said that the operation of the city lighting plant was not economical, and that the plant was in need of heavy expenditures. He had been in favor of accepting the company's offer, but the other members of the committee had been opposed to that, and the city council had adopted the view of the majority. The council had taken that action largely because of feeling against the old company and against the new one also, because controlled in Halifax. The manner in which the stock of the new company had been floated had not been liked. Personally he believed that with the Public Utilities Commission working under a modern law, the city's interests would be safeguarded sufficiently to warrant entering into a contract with the Gaslight Company. If the city plant were to be continued it should be united with the water works.

Ald. F. H. Everett. Ald. F. H. Everett agreed in general with what Ald. Lemont had said. One report of the lighting committee in favor of taking a contract with the company had been unanimous, but had been rejected by the city council.

In Complete Control. Mr. Winslow replied to the criticism that the new company was controlled from Halifax by the statement that Mr. Harry G. White and himself were practically in control of the business of the company.

Mrs. Jepsen will arrive in Fredericton shortly to spend the summer with relatives and will be accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. William Vulcar.

vices already rendered, provision would be made in the bill to requisition a certain number of fighting men out of a certain proportion of the population. He concluded, he said, that it was not intended that the bill should be administered fairly, as between section and section. The only reason for a conscription bill was that the unwilling should be made to bear their share.

Mr. Meighen declared that the bill endeavors to seek out the slacker wherever he might be, and it was intended to make the levy according to the proportion of available men in each district.

BIG PROFITS

FOR SPECULATORS

Washington, D. C., July 10.—A report on the food situation prepared for President Wilson by Herbert C. Hoover, holding that both the farmer and the consuming public are suffering while food speculators make unearned profits from the delay in enactment of food control legislation was given out tonight at the White House.

Unless strong and efficient government action is immediately taken, the food administrator reported, the farmers will face a slump in wheat prices and consumers will be caught in a situation even more serious than that which already is resulting in "actual undernourishment" in the great consuming centres. The speculator, it is declared, is taking a large part of the prices now paid by consumers.

"We are practically helpless to safeguard either the farmer or the consumer," concludes Mr. Hoover, "until the pending legislation is passed."

The report, in the form of a letter to the president, was issued through the Public Information Committee with the statement that publicity was given it "in order that the country may know how serious and far-reaching the consequences may be, both to the farmers of the country and to the consumers, of the present delays in passing the pending food legislation."

No comment by the president accompanied the report, although he has more than once demonstrated his impatience over the repeated delays in congress which have kept the entire food control programme a state of uncertainty for weeks.

SUFFERED TERRIBLY For Four Days and Nights From DIARRHOEA

Diarrhoea arises from many causes such as change of diet, change of water change of climate, catching cold, the eating of unripe fruits or anything that will cause an excess of bile.

On the first sign of any looseness of the bowels it should not be neglected, but should be looked after immediately for if not diarrhoea, dysentery or some other serious bowel complaint may ensue.

Miss Florence Harfield, 325 Lauder Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with a violent attack of diarrhoea. I suffered terribly with it for four days and nights, and finally I became so weak I did not think I could stand it any longer. My sister advised me to try a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I did so, and after I had taken three doses I felt a whole lot relieved. I kept on taking it, and by the time I had taken six doses, the diarrhoea had completely stopped. It did not leave me constipated, as I think it a wonderful remedy, as it is so quick to act. I will recommend it to all my friends."

There are so many spurious "Strawberry" preparations sold that you should see that the name "Dr. Fowler's" is on every bottle you buy. Price 35c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
