OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

CANNING PEACHES.

Easier to Can Them Than Most Other Fruits.

Women in the Grand Army or Canners ought to see that not a single peach is wasted this year.

Peaches can be canned with much less labor than is required for putting up most fruits. They will keep without sugar, if properly sterilized; they may be dried by the electric fan or over the kitchen range, or by the sun.

The fruit should be graded according to size and softness before being pared. Set aside the soft, wormy or inferior fruit for "pie fruit," marmalade or "leather."

Peaches should be pared with a silver knife to prevent discoloration. Or they may be scalded and the skin rubbed or scraped off. With the oiling-stone varieties, the product is probably finer if the fruit is halved before paring.

Canned Peaches.

Peaches should be rinsed in cold water, packed into hot jars and covered with syrup immediately after paring. Otherwise the surface turns dark. Hot syrup previously prepared should be poured over the fruit at once.

Before packing a second jar, place rubbers and caps in position, but do not tighten the covers. Let jars in a water-bath or cold-pack (wash-boiler) outfit. Sterilize 16 minutes, take from boiler, tighten covers, invert to cool. Wrap in paper to prevent bleaching before storing.

Dried Peaches.

Peel and slice ripe peaches, string and hang in the sun, protected from insects. Or spread on clean boards and dry in the oven or with an electric fan; or use a commercial evaporator. "Condition" the fruit, that is, turn it and mix it several times during the drying process, so the product may be uniform. Store in small quantities in paper bags or boxes.

Peach Marmalade.

For one pound of pared and sliced fruit, allow $\frac{3}{4}$ pound of sugar. Mash the fruit, add the sugar and mix well. Turn into a crock, cover and bake in the oven for several hours. Stir occasionally. Turn into small jars and cover with melted paraffin wax.

Lantic Sugar

Has Nothing to Hide

Now that the Government has absolutely prohibited the use of any artificial coloring matter in sugar,

We tell you again that we have

NEVER USED BEETS
NEVER USED ULTRAMARINE BLUE
NEVER USED ANILINE DYES
NEVER USED VEGETABLE DYES

in refining any of our sugars.

The Lantic Pure Cane Sugar you buy today is exactly the same high quality as what you bought when our refinery started two years ago. This means every pound in the hands of your grocer is pure and uncolored.

So why take chances? Why not insist on having Lantic—the sugars that have always been pure—and cost no more than any other?

You should exercise the same care and discrimination in buying sugar, as in choosing any other food. The way to guard against inferior quality is to demand Lantic Pure Cane Sugar, which is guaranteed pure and wholesome. Lantic Sugar has nothing to hide. It comes from the most modern refinery in the world. So great is the demand for Lantic Sugar that we are now refining three quarters of a million pounds a day. This shows what the people of Canada—and particularly those who want pure food—think of this absolutely pure food product.

"The most successful recruiting campaign yet staged in America."—Boston Press.
You will surely want to read about that wonderful two weeks' campaign organized by the 236th Battalion—

MacLean Kilties of America

in the New England States, by which the last New Brunswick volunteer infantry regiment was brought up to war strength.

The story is graphically and interestingly unfolded in illustration and text in the current issue of the regimental journal, the

Breath o' the Heather

Between its handsome colored cover—reproducing the brilliant tartan of the MacLean of Duart—will be found the history of this memorable campaign, covering Boston and the "Cradle of Liberty," New Bedford, Bangor, Fredericton and Valcartier Camp. It is a souvenir de luxe of the printer's art, moderately priced at 25 cents, and will be sent anywhere in Canada on receipt of order by
