

GOOD SPEECHES HEARD AT OPENING OF LEGISLATURE

ough, her Wolfe, her Nelson, her Wellington, her Roberts and her Kitchener.

No. That which the Almighty has rewarded in the British nation could not be acquired by any conqueror or given by any one sovereign. It is more than military glory, it is their unadulterated love for liberty. Religious, political and social liberty, the only thing for which it is worth fighting and dying, and it is in defence and in support of those principles of liberty so well understood in this country that our gallant Canadians are now dying by the scores in the muddy and water-flooded trenches of France and Flanders.

Importance of Agriculture.

The Hon. Premier has shown marked ability in bringing to the cause of the Allies about the only help from the only quarter within his power, that is by his encouragement of agriculture. One of the greatest warriors of modern times once said that a soldier walked on his stomach, wishing thereby to propound the necessity of feeding the soldiers in the field. None better than himself understood that necessity and if the Little Corporal could hold Europe at bay as long as he did it was not only due to his military genius, to the intelligence of his officers and the bravery of his troops, but because he reigned over a nation about eighty per cent. of which were farmers or dependent upon agriculture for a living. From the defeat of the Nile and the battle of Trafalgar where Nelson annihilated the French fleet and drove Napoleon's power and French commerce from the seas, the latter's empire found itself almost cut out from the rest of the commercial world and never could the emperor have coped with Europe so long till his downfall on the 18th of June, 1815, had he not been reigning over a nation which could live on its own productions.

The Crown Lands.

Due reference has been made in the speech from the throne to the proposed legislation in connection with our crown lands and our highways. I hope and expect that the Government will take these important matters out of politics. I have the honor to represent a county which furnishes to the treasury about one-fifth of the territorial revenue, I think, and a county that has the greatest colonization problem of any of the counties in the province. I am sorry to say that the late government did not seem able or willing to grapple adequately and sincerely with the question, and notwithstanding their omission in that regard the courageous settlers of the northern part of the province have accomplished something hardly credible. If one were to travel along the line of the International railway from Campbellton to St. Leonard's he would find a marked change accomplished within the last six or seven years. Where five years ago not a human voice could be heard save perhaps the lumberman and the hardy woodsman villages have sprung up as if by enchantment, villages with large and commodious hotels, neat and up-to-date school houses, vast and elaborate churches. All that has been done almost without any help from the government and almost in spite of government indifference. I hope and expect that the Hon. Premier and his Government will be able to solve the question and find a common ground whereon the lumbermen and the settlers can meet amicably and where the rights of each will be wisely and safely safeguarded.

Permanent Roads.

It is a source of pleasure also to see that the Government have not forgotten but kept in mind what they promised the province with regard to permanent roads in particular and the highways in general. Meeting as we are at this late season the Government could not, I presume, bring down an elaborate programme in order to submit it to the Legislature concerning the roads of the province, but they have certainly the subject in their minds and I hope that during the recess they will prepare such legislation as will give the people of New Brunswick the roads for which they have been craving and which they seem to have been unable to obtain.

Mr. Murray of Kings moved the adjournment of the debate which was made the order of the day for tomorrow.

Other Business.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that the committee to nominate all standing committees consist of Hon. Messrs. Foster, Veniot, Robinson, Murray and Smith (Charleton).

Hon. Mr. Foster submitted the agreement with R. P. Allen for reporting the debates of the session. This was concurred in by the House and official reporter assigned a seat on the floors of the House.

Hon. Mr. Murray laid upon the table the annual report of the Hotel Dieu, Tracadie, of the University of New Brunswick, of the Factory Inspector, of the Provincial Hospital and of the Jordan Memorial Sanitarium, also statements of the valuations and bonded indebtedness of the counties of Charlotte, Victoria, Westmorland, Restigouche, Kings, Northumberland, the city of St. John and the towns of St. Andrews, Sussex, Chatham and Dalhousie.

Hon. Mr. Veniot laid upon the table the sixty-second annual report of the Board of Works.

The House adjourned at 4.20.

Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath

Mrs. C. M. Cormier, Buctouche, N. B. When the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness, and a weak, sinking, all gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

The nerves become unstrung, you dread to be alone, have a horror of society, start at the least noise and are generally fatigued.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be taken. They are just what you require at this time. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

writes: "Since two years ago I was troubled with a shortness of breath, and sometimes I could hardly breathe. I went to see several doctors and they said it was from my heart and nerves, but they did not seem to do me any good. One day I got one of your B. B. B. Almanacs and read of a case similar to mine.

I bought a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking it I noticed such a change that I kept on taking them until I had used four more boxes, when I was cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box, three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

HEROES.

It's easy enough to look pleasant, When you haven't a corn or a bunion;

DOGS OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN

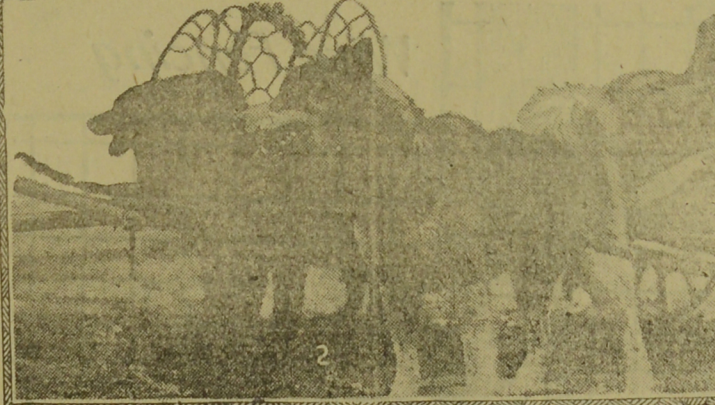

DOGS are a versatile breed. The bloodhound will never live down his record as a policeman; the Pekinese always suggests his career as a Sunday supplement favorite; the mere mention of a gun serves to evoke memories of the dogs of sport; the trained mongrel wags his tail on every vaudeville stage; the Red Cross dogs of the French front bring a lump into the throat of the world round. But after all, save and except the role of "friend" which is what all dogs are born for, there's no trade in dogdom so useful as that of the Northland canine who thinks he's a horse.

We can't go to the open ice of Greenland or the Labrador to see the dan-shaped teams whirling their sleighs along under the aurora. Most of us can't go anywhere north of steam heat in the bitter weather.

But all of us plan some time or other to run up to Alaska in the summer, and when we think of midnight suns and totem poles, Yukon nuggets and Jack London yarns, let's not forget that Skagway is the entrepot to the land of Alaska Sweepstakes, the greatest event of its kind in the world, and the one sure road to immortality for "the dog who works."

None to Candle and return is the distance—412 miles. The prize is $5,000. The time is April. The weather disdains to rise to zero. Teams are entered by owners living from California clear to the pole. And every dog who runs in a collar is eligible to compete—husky, malamute, Siberian wolfhound or plain wonderful all-enduring mongrel.

In Alaska and the Yukon, hotels are sleeping places and meals are taken in side-street cafes with Chinese cooks. Last summer the writer travelled the thousand miles from Vancouver to Skagway in the Canadian Pacific Steamer "Princess Charlotte," took train a hundred and ten miles over the old "trail of '93" to Whitehorse and was preparing myself by an excellent dinner to catch the Yukon river boat for Dawson City. I was sitting with my back to the screen door of the little restaurant when I had that odd sensation of "being watched" which comes to everyone with eyes in the nape of his neck.

Turning I saw the biggest silver-grey, softest furred dog you ever set eyes on. I dropped my knife in amazement.

The restaurant waitress came smiling out with a plate of fish refuse.

"Never seen a malamute before?" she asked. "Some dogs, ain't they and they do say they can live on air. I don't see how the ones in this town always look so fat in summer unless they fish in the rapids."

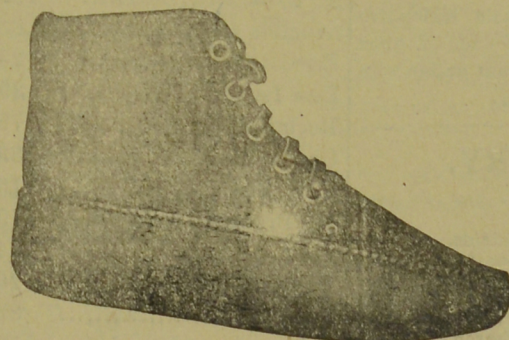

"Why, yes, you could buy him if you liked. Guess you could just run away with him, and nobody'd bother you. But, of course, you know he'd eat up your own dog when you got him down home. Then he'd jump the tallest fence you could find, and go clean up the neighborhood."

Grey Brother had finished his fish course. His eyes were as yellow as topazes and the fur on top of his head stood up in a silver fluff an inch thick. He was laughing all over with good nature and the idea of such murderous exploits as the waitress suggested seemed impossible.

Down the street came a tingle of bells and a tangle of dogs. In the middle was a team—Jersey, Sport, Blackie and Shep—and surrounding them like sportive comets was an assortment of unattached canine energy sufficient to run a mill. The boy who drove the dogs from his little cart was about thirteen.

"Mush on Mush on!" he cried to his team, unmindful of the cameras of the tourists as of the gyrations of his satellites.
