

BEAN EATERS ENTHUSED OVER THE BOYS IN KILTS

Great Welcome Extended to the Officers And Men of the 236th Battalion--Band Had an Engagement to Play at Keith's --Many Applications to Enlist in the Kilties--May Have a Massachussetts Company.

(Special Correspondence Daily Mail.)
Boston, Mass., June 6. — The 236th have been taken to the hearts of this city; they are as welcome as the flowers in May; anything Beantown affords is theirs for the asking, and in many cases things have been almost forced upon them. When the battalion goes abroad its movements will be followed as will the movements of no other regiment in the Allied armies. The three officers who have been in Boston and whom Bostonians now recognize at a glance, have endeared themselves to Boston people by their breezy, good-natured ways and the earnestness with which they appeal for recruits for their regiment. Boston has learned much about recruiting in the past three days, and if indications count for anything they are to learn more ere many days pass.

Travelling Fast.
Last night Capt. Black secured the use of the Hippodrome — the old National Theatre — for the Kiltie band during all next week. The band which, by the way, will arrive here at 9.20 to-night with Col. Guthrie and his family, is to be met by the Highland Dress Association and its pipes. The two pipe bands will then lead the colonel to the Parker House where he will put up, and then it is thought probable that a recruiting rally will be held on Boston Common at once.

A Great Welcome.
Boston will welcome the Kiltie band, they must pass the American army physical examination, which is about the stiffest one in the world. So much for the physical standing of the recruits from Boston.

And co-operation! It has been said before that Boston has taken the Kilties to her heart, but after all, that is inadequate. Americans and Canadians alike vie with each other in seeing who can do the most to help Captains Douglas and McNally. Quarters are to be furnished the pipe and the brass band both in one of the State Armories and if by any chance none of these armories can accommodate the men, Mayor James M. Curley last night promised to furnish them with quarters in one of the city buildings and to absolutely provide for them in every way as long as they are in Boston.

At Revere Beach
On Sunday afternoon the bands are going down to Revere Beach, the Mecca for pleasure seekers on Sunday, and in the bandstand there they will give a concert to some 200,000 people.

At the Hippodrome there will be Scotch and Canadian society nights. Both Scotch and Canadians are more excited about these "Kilties" than they have been about anything since the outbreak of the war. And by the way, in order that the kilties may get their chance at Keith's Theatre on Thursday nights, Manager Larsen "canned" one of his acts for these two nights.

The Kilties Popular
There will probably be a Massachusetts company with the Kilties when they say goodbye to Canada. A company? Maybe a brigade! Who knows! It certainly looks possible, if not probable.

City and State officials both are showing how highly they esteem the Kilties, and this is before they have all arrived. When they get here no one knows what will happen. The whole city awaits their arrival with eagerness.

Boston's message to Fredericton should be: "Spread yourself and get ready for the deluge. Our loss is your gain, and your population is sure going to swell within the next few days."

The Kilties Arrive
Undated airtel of June 7th the correspondent writes:
The Kiltie pipe band arrived in Boston promptly at 9:20 last night. They were welcomed by a crowd of more than 2000 people who waited for fully an hour for the sight of the McLean tartan and the wail of the pipes. All down the platform of track 16, on which their train arrived, people were packed in like sardines in a box, and Colonel and Mrs. Guthrie came along with the two little boys dressed in replicas of their father's uniform, a mighty cheer arose from 2000 throats. This was the Colonel's welcome to Boston.

The party was hustled through the crowd to the automobiles which Capt. Black and Capt. McNally had waiting. As the Colonel and his party were getting into the cars the pipe band passed through the main entryway of the station and with it the smaller band of the Highland Dress Association. The crowd within the station tried to force its way through the broad door in a vain endeavor to keep within sight of the pipes. What was almost a riot followed when they were thrown back by their own weight, and all pushed and strained in an endeavor to be the next one through.

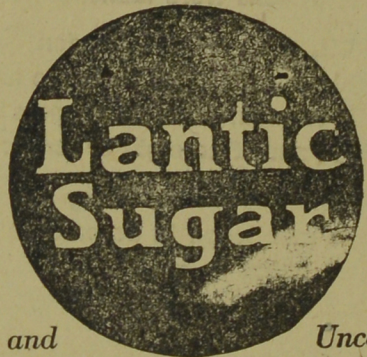

The automobiles fell in behind the pipers and the procession started. As they swung into Friend as they were obliged to push their way through the crowds, but Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley had come to the station in person and he ordered four of his men to march ahead of the bands and clear the way. The procession was flanked on either side by more officers who seemed to spring from nowhere, and thus, with what was estimated to be 50,000 people looking on, cheering with all their might, and waving everything they could get their hands on, the Colonel with his family, his officers and his band was escorted to Boston Common, where despite the fact that he was so hoarse he could hardly speak, the Colonel made a brief speech telling how Canada would appreciate it, how he and his associates appreciated it, what it would mean in cementing the cordial relations already existing between the two countries, and how full his heart was at such a spontaneous welcome. He said he was going to get 300 men here and get them without any difficulty, to which statement a yell of assent went up from the crowd. One man who was hanging by one hand from the top of a lamppost frantically waved his hat and a cigar in his free hand and almost jumped into the Colonel's ear, so eager was he to get close to that hero. The man was one of the first to enlist this morning

A Revelation!

When on January 16th, 1916, Washington State went dry the cries of distress that went up from the Traffic and most of Seattle's business men could be heard all over the state. Of all the sincere predictions of financial disaster, none were more so than those of the Editor of the Seattle "Times," a leader of the wet forces.

The actual result of Prohibition was indeed a revelation. Washington again endorsed the law in November after witnessing its unqualified success. In "Collier's Weekly" of March 24th, 1917, the honest Editor of the "Times" writes an enthusiastic tribute to the splendid results of Prohibition as a business proposition.

Before Prohibition went into force it was solemnly predicted that there would be miles of Empty stores. Let the former leader of the "wets" answer. "To-day," he writes, "the only vacant places formerly used as saloons, outside of the Old Tenderloin, do not, as I have shown, exceed twenty in number, and each of these is in a district no longer of use in retail business. The rest of the vacancies are new stores, not yet completed." Of the 211 places vacated by saloons 191 have been occupied by new businesses.

We said taxes would go up in the city of Seattle. They went down from 18.98 to 18.11 mills. We insisted bank clearings would go down. They increased more than $177,000,000! We said bank deposits would go down. Look: At the end of 1915, $87,815,076; at the end of 1916, $106,000,000! We all agreed Seattle would lose in population. The government says we have gained more than 15,000.

The business man said crime would increase. It decreased along with drunkenness by one-half. Collections were much better. "The grocers and meat markets say that in addition to buying more, the average small account man is paying quickly—two or three times more promptly. The money formerly passing over bars is almost entirely spent for better living, benefiting every person it reaches.

Now one would expect the Traffic to accept a defeat like the above. But no! They circulated statements far and wide to the effect that Prohibition in Seattle meant ruin, crime and disorder. "In other words, statements of conditions in Seattle, as a result of the dry law, were manufactured to suit the desires of the wets and Seattle was held up as a horrible example."

Help to Enforce Prohibition

In New Brunswick Prohibition is on trial. Strict enforcement is the means of permanent success. If you want the blessings of province-wide Prohibition to be permanent, help to arouse public opinion; help the officers of the law in their duty.

Sir Andrew Clarke says: "Beware of the enemy of the race. Health can never be benefited by alcohol. Never."

As the pipes wailed and skirled their way through the streets the crowds were unable to stay on the sidewalks, so they fell in behind the band and jammed the streets from curb to curb, swinging along as though they were on a route march as members of the regiment. Never since Marshal Joffre visited this city has there been such a celebration.

As the automobiles discharged their loads at the Parker House, the band led the crowd, or the most of it, down to the Crawford House and there the men went in to sit down to a big supper, and later went to bed dog tired.

LIBERAL VICTORY WAS MOST COMPLETE

Edmonton, June 8. — Returns received this morning leave the election result as it stood at midnight, giving the government a slightly larger majority than in the last house.

It has been found extremely difficult to get returns from outlying polls owing to the crippled telephone service which is the result of the strike among the employees.

Interesting features in the results are the unexpected defeat of Tweedie in Centre Calgary by the Labor candidate, and the return of the first woman representative to the Legislature, Mrs. McKenney, president of the Provincial W. C. T. U., who defeated William Moffat, the Liberal candidate in Claresholm.

The present standing is:
Liberals—38.
Conservatives—18.

As there are two deferred elections which will, in all probability, return Liberals and the two soldier representatives may be counted upon to give the government independent support, the final standing is likely to be:
Government—42.
Opposition—18.

Government majority—24.
The government had a majority of 20 before dissolution.

Starched Collars No Longer Au Fait
London, May 29. — The stiff or starched collar virtually is doomed, and the men of Great Britain will soon be wearing the soft collar.

Capt. Bathurst, the assistant Food Controller, made the announcement in the House of Commons that the extraction of starch from food cereals would be prohibited in the near future. He is already wearing a soft collar himself.

Just to be on time; is it warm enough for you?

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callous without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heeled footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.
