REFORMERS AND RADICALS IN THE NEW CABINET

Russia's Minister of Justice is a Socialist-- Prof. Paul N. Milukoff the Leader---Liberal Intellectuals Form Backbone of the Movement.

(New York Sun.)

When the names of the men comprising the new Russian Cabinet were made known here today, students of Russian affairs living in this city said that for liberalism the new cabinet was a remarkable group of men. They represent all classes, whether in the nobility or the masses, that have been striving for years for a reorganization of Russia along democratic lines.

M. Kerensky, the new Minister of Justice, has been long identified with the Russian Socialists and other radical bodies. He was one of the leaders of the opposition in the Duma, and time after time denounced the government for its corruption, its incompetence in conducting the war with Germany, and its ill-treatment of the Jews since the war began.

The best known man in the new cabinet, who is also regarded as its strongest character, is Prof. Paul N. Milukoff, new Minister of Foreign Affairs. From the time of the organization of the Duma he has been the leader of the Constitutional Democrats of Russia and to observers from other countries he had typified the struggling spirit of progress in Russia. He is a historian, editor and authority on international law. About ten years ago he came from Petrograd to New York to deliver a lecture on Russia at Carnegie Hall. He attacked the forces of autocracy and for this was much criticized when he returned to Russia.

Milukoff was known for a long time as "the American of Russia," because of his frequent comparisons of free American institutions with bureaucratic Russia. At public meetings in the time of the third Duma he was met with cries of "scoundrel!" and "American!"

Prince Lvoff, the new Premier, represents the reform movement in the Zemstvo, the Russian nobility. He is known throughout the empire for his efforts in behalf of constitutional progress. He was a member of the old Peaceful Rejuvenation party or Russia. The Minister of Public Instruction, Prof. Manuiloff, is connected with Moscow University and politically is associated with Milukoff's party, the Constitutional Democrats.

M. Guechhoff, head of the ministries of war and the navy, was formerly the president of the Duma. He is regard-

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER AT CORNWALL, ONT.

Cornwall, Ont., March 20.—Emerson St. Pierre was formally charged with the murder of his father, William St. Pierre, in Osnaburck township on Feb. 8th, and Nettie Richmire, who lived with Emerson as his wife, with being accessory, before Magistrate Danes, in the county court this morning.

The crowd of 700 which attended the hearing made it necessary to hold it in the county court house instead of the police court.

At the outset Crown Attorney Harkness charged the information against the prisoners. That against St. Pierre was altered from "suspicion of causing the disappearance of his father," to murder, and that against the Richmire girl for murder to accessory after the fact.

The first charges were laid upon the discovery of the body of the older St. Pierre in the cellar of his home by Detective Miller, of the Ontario Attorney General's department, and after the Richmire girl confessed to shooting St. Pierre, a confession she afterwards cancelled by further statement.

It is the man at the little end of the horn who is either applauded or hooted by the audience.

ed as an expert in military affairs. Politically he is a member of the Octobrist party, so called because of its having been strongly in favor of the constitution granted to the Russian people in October, 1905. The Octobrists are liberal in their programme though not so advanced in their views as the Constitutional Democrats. Protopopoff, the pro-German Minister of the Interior, was an Octobrist before his days of officialdom.

The Minister of Agriculture, M. Ichingareff, is a Duma deputy from Petrograd and a member of the Constitutional Democrat party.

*CUPID IS AMPHIBIOUS.

Doston, March 20.—Did you know Cupid was amphibious? He is.

Last summer Miss Hope Gardiner Wilson, of Malden, was swimming at Wellfleet, and picked up a bottle in the sea.

It contained the name, age and description of Harold I. Powell, of Norfolk, Va., who had cast it into the water in the mouth of the James River, 17 days earlier. She wrote. Their engagement is no wanned.
